PREFACE.

IN compiling, from the Manuscript Works of several Persian and Arabian Authors, whatsoever they had written on the Geography of the Eastern World, I found that, in a variety of detached extracts, I had imperceptibly translated almost half of that treatise which I now offer to the Publick as complete in an English version as the obscurities and imperfections of the original would admit.

Besides the intrinsic merits of the work, its authenticity and antiquity induced me to regard it as the most important of all compositions on the subject of Oriental Geography. ABULFEDA informs us, that EDRISI, EBN KHORDADBAH, and many other writers of high reputation, have only traced, on paper, the footsteps of EBN HAUKAL, who, it appears from his own words, had actually visited most of the places which he describes.*

Although the exact epoch of his birth and death is still unknown to me, I have not hesitated to announce EBN HAUKAL as an author of the tenth century. That he wrote before the building of Cairo, we learn from his account of Egypt in the following work, page 30; and after the accession of ABDAR-RAHMAN, who, in his time, governed Andalus, or Spain, appears from p. 28. The foundation of modern Cairo was laid in the year 968 of the Christian Æra, and ABDARRAHMAN assumed the government of Spain in the year 902 of the same Æra, or of the Hegira 290. Thus we may ascertain, that EBN HAUKAL flourished before the year 968, and after the year 902; and we cannot err considerably if we place him in the middle, or, perhaps, in the beginning, of the tenth century†. He is styled, by EDRISI and ABULFEDA, simply

† This date is confirmed by another passage in our Author's description of Maweralnahr, or Transoxania, page 235. He there informs us, that he conversed with a respectable personage, who had served in the armies of NASSER AHMED. This Prince, of the حوقل Haukal, or حوقل ابن Ebn Haukal: But it appears, from one copy of his work deposited among the Oriental manuscripts in the Library at Leyden*, that his name was ابي القاسم ابن حوقل ABI L'CASSEM EBN HAUKAL.

The work itself, in the original Arabick, according to the Catalogue of the Leyden Library, above quoted, is called كتاب المسالك والممالك Kitab al Mesalek al Memalek. The Persian translation which I have used, and the copy preserved at Eton†, bear the same title, with the omission of the Arabick article, and (in my copy) the addition of the copulative, thus: كتاب مسالك و ممالك. Under this name the ancient Tarikh, or Chronicle of TABARI, quotes it in a passage which I shall hereafter adduce.

Samanian family, became Sovereign of Mawerahnahr, Anno Hegiræ 301, (A. D. 913.) If EBN HAUKAL could have spoken with a contemporary of NASSER AHMED, one who had been of sufficient age to attend him in his battles, we cannot, reasonably, assign a later date to the composition of this work than the middle of the tenth century.

† Eton Oriental MSS. No. 418.—This manuscript is an octavo volume, containing above three hundred pages, written in an uniform, but very difficult and inaccurate hand; most of the proper names wanting their diacritical points. My own copy, which I purchased

It is probable, however, that it bore a second, or more descriptive and ample title; for Mons. D'HERBELOT mentions the work of EBN HAUKAL as entitled "Giagrafiyah fi Marefat al Boldan": And in the Leyden Catalogue, we find, after Al Mesalek al Memalek, these additional names:*

والبغاوزو البهالك وذكر الاقاليم والبلدان

The words Mesalek Memalek seem to form either the whole or part of the titles to many other Geographical manuscripts. Among the various original treatises which furnished materials to HAMDALLAH MUSTOUFI, the celebrated Persian geographer, in the composition of his Nozahet al Coloub, he with many other MSS. about three years ago, is a large and thin octavo volume, containing two hundred and twelve pages: it is imperfect at the end; but on a collation with the Eton MS. appears only to want the last leaf. The character is sufficiently neat; but the proper names are most inaccurately written, and whole lines, in various places, are without a diacritical point.

* *Bibliot. Orient. art. Haucal. As this article contains a very just account of our Author's defects, I shall give it entire:—"Haucal,"—Ebn Haucal,—"Auteur d'un livre intitulé Giagrafiyah fi Mârefat al Boldan. C'est une Géographie fort prolix; Abulfeda qui le cite souvent, se plaint de ce qu'il n'a pas désigné assez clairement les noms propres des lieux, faute de s'être servi des voyelles qui servent à en fixer la prononciation. Cet Auteur est aussi fort defectueux en ce qu'il ne marque ni les longitudes ni les latitudes des lieux dont il parle, défaut qui lui est commun avec la plupart de géographes de l'Orient, qui ont laissé ce soin aux astronomes."* enumerates, in the Preface to that most excellent work, the "Mesalek al Memalek, by Abi Cassem Abdallah ben Khordad, of Khorasan *."

A geographical book, entitled Al Mesalek ou al Memalek (of which Mons. D'HERBELOT thinks the author may have been ABOU ALI, surnamed MARAKSHI), is quoted by EBN ALVARDI, in his Kheridet al Ajaieb †.

The learned GRAVES, who published ABULFEDA's Chorasmia and Maweralnahr ‡, mentions the celebrated composition of EDRISI; whom we generally style the Nubian Geographer, as entitled Memalek al Mesalek, although it bore many other names, which HARTMANN enumerates in his admirable commentary on this work §. Indeed the name Mesalek al Memalek seems to have signified an Universal Geography, or, rather, a Work describing several Countries; for ABULFEDA complains, “ That “ the greater number of those books which are called Al “ Mesalek ou al Memalek (of Countries and Kingdoms) treat

 “ only, with accuracy, of those regions wherein the Mussul-

Such were the observations I made, while uncertain to whom I should ascribe the composition of a manuscript treatise which fell into my hands about three years ago, bearing the same title, but without any author's name. Although the copy preserved in the publick Library at Leyden furnished the name of ABI L'CASSEM EBN HAUKAL, yet I was not, when visiting that magnificent collection in the year 1794, interested in a minute examination of any particular volume, and therefore could not afterwards ascertain whether my manuscript was a Persian translation of his work; and the copy deposited in the College Library at Eton, wanted, like my own, the author's name. But a comparison of the various extracts given by ABULFEDA in his account of Khorasmia and Maweralnahr, from EBN HAUKAL's book, with those which describe the same places in my manuscript, sufficiently demonstrates the identity of their author. I shall refer the reader, in particular, to ABULFEDA's account of تونكت Tuncat, the chief place of Ailak, near Chaje or Shash; its numerous gates; water running in the city; its wall to prevent the incursions of the Turks, reaching from the mountain called شابليغ Shabaleg, to the valley of Chaje; the river named Ailak*, &c. All these the reader will find more fully described by EBN HAUKAL in the following work (pages 266, 267); with a variation occasioned merely by the different collocation of diacritical points in the names of Tuncat and Shabaleg. The account of Naksheb and of Kash, as extracted by ABULFEDA† from EBN HAUKAL's book, will be found to correspond exactly with the description of those cities given in the following translation, pages 259, 260, &c. A comparison of these passages will convince the reader, that the Mesalek al Memalek, of which an English version is now before him, must be the work of EBN HAUKAL, so often quoted by ABULFEDA.

But there are some more striking passages, which (as the work of ABULFEDA may not always be at hand) I shall present in the original Arabick, with a literal translation.

“ EBN HAUKAL relates, that in the mountains of Al Botem
“ there is a certain cavern, in which, when every passage for air
“ is stopped up, a thick vapour arises, resembling fire by night
“ and smoke in the day-time; and this is the nushader (or sal “ ammoniac.) Nobody, with safety, can enter this cave, “ unless covered with thick garments fitting close to his body,
“ and he must be expeditious in taking away the nushader.
“ The vapour moves from place to place, and they seek for it
“ by digging until it appears. This vapour would not be

"noxious to those who approach it, if there were not an "arched house or vault erected, to prevent its evaporation."

The reader who is acquainted with the very vague and inaccurate manner of Eastern writers, both in their quotations and translations, must acknowledge this to be the same passage given in the following work, page 264.

*Another extract will be sufficient to prove the identity of our author with the EBN HAUKAL, quoted by ABULFEDA,

In page 254 of the following work, this passage will be found with less variation from the original than Persian translations generally exhibit: and as it leads to a curious anecdote in Oriental history, an article of the Appendix is devoted to its illustration.

The Author of the Ajaieb al Boldan (Fifth Climate) also quotes EBN HAUKAL on this subject; and he seems to have

(EBN HAUKAL) also says, " at the time when I resided in " Samarcand, a tumult or riot happened, and that gate was " destroyed by fire."

Having mentioned in the beginning of this Preface, that the Mesalek Memalek is quoted in the ancient Chronicle of Tabari, it may be necessary to account for a seeming anachronism; as the reader who learns from POCOCKE, D'HERBELOT†, or OCKLEY‡, that the venerable historian died early in the tenth century§, will not readily believe that he could have quoted the work of EBN HAUKAL, whom I have assigned to the middle of the same century, and consequently supposed to have existed several years after TABARI, although it is possible that they might have been contemporaries. But the Chronicle of TABARI underwent a Persian translation; which work, as it was performed by a man of learning and ingenuity, (vizier to one of the Samanian princes), and enriched by him with much curious additional matter, M. D'HERBELOT prefers to the original Arabick||. This, indeed, is not* to be found complete in any library. Of the Persian translation, however, there are many copies in Europe*: it was made in the year of the Hegira 352, (A. D. 963), probably very soon after the time of EBN HAUKAL. To the Persian translator I would attribute that quotation from the Mesalek al Memalek, which thus occurs in TABARI's History of the Virgin MARY; and of her flight, with the infant JESUS, to a village in the territories of Damascus.

" Amidst our meagre relations, I must regret that D'HERBELOT has not found and used a Persian translation of Tabari, enriched, as he says, with many extracts from the native historians of the Ghebers or Magi."

* In the Publick Libraries of Paris, Oxford, &c. Of this most valuable work I am fortunate in possessing three fine copies; one of which, uncommonly correct in the handwriting, was transcribed A. D. 1446. From this manuscript, which the learned Tychsen, in a letter from Rostock, entitles a Phœnix Librorum, collated with the other two copies, a “ rious countries, that in the world of pleasantness and “ beauty there are four places most remarkable; one, the

 “ the third, Nahr Ailah*, which is Basrah; and the “ fourth, Shaab Bouan; this is in Persia, one of the terri-

From the following passage of ABULFEDA†, it appears that EBN HAUKAL must have been the author of that Mesalek perfect and accurate text might be obtained; this, if correctly translated and illustrated from other Asiatick compositions, the Biblical records, the classicks of Greece and Rome, and the more modern productions of European writers, would form a complete body of Oriental History and Antiquities; since it comprehends not only the Persian and Arabian annals, but the most ancient traditions of the Jews, the Egyptians, and the Greeks.

 a mistake also, of the transcriber, the word بصرة Basrah, in one copy of Tabari, is written Memalek alluded to in the preceding extract from TABARI'S Chronicle.

سغد سمرقند و هو احد من نزهات الدنيا هي سغد سمرقند

بن حوقل و سغد سمرقند بياورالنهر و هو انزه الاربع

"The Soghd of Samarcand is one of those places esteemed
"the most delightful in the world; these are the Soghd of "Samarcand, the Ghoutah of Damascus, the Nahar al Ablah, "or river Ablah*, near Basrah, and Shaab Bouan in Persia;
"but EBN HAUKAL says that the Soghd of Samarcand is the
"pleasantest of all the four places above enumerated."

It would be surprising to find a passage from any Oriental manuscript remain uncorrupted or unaltered through different translations. My copy of the Mesalek al Memalek (see p. 237.) gives this in the following words:

* I have followed GRAVES, the translator of ABULFEDA, in writing Ablah: but it is properly called Ubbullah, being thus accented ^{أُبْلَه}—According to the ^{تقويم البلدان} Takouim al Boldan or Tables of Longitude and Latitude, by ^{محمد صادق اعنياني} محمد صادق اعنياني

و گویند که در همه جهان خوشتر از سه جایگاه نیست یکی

“ They say that in the whole world there is not any place
“ more delightful than these three ; one, the Soghd of Samar-“ cand ; another, the Rud-i-Aileh (or Ablah) ; and thirdly, the “ Ghoutah of Damascus.”

The reader will find in page 237 of this work, that EBN HAUKAL prefers the Soghd of Samarcand (as in TABARI'S Chronicle, and ABULFEDA) to the rival Tempes, and describes those points in which its superior beauty consists. Why the Shaab Bouan has been omitted, I cannot pretend to have discovered*. The deplorable inaccuracy of Oriental transcribers, as well as translators, has been so often noticed, that it is unnecessary for me to dwell on the difficulties attending

MOHAMMED SADUK ISFAHANI, the Nahr Ubbullah is within four farsang of Basrah.

* Similar omissions (though not so important) may be detected in other passages. EBN HAUKAL, as quoted by ABULFEDA, tells us, that the Hamyaritick inscription before mentioned in this Preface, was on the Gate of Kash at Samarcand. — Our Persian translator has omitted the name of the gate ; but we find, in some places, that he has retained more of EBN HAUKAL'S particular descriptions than ABULFEDA.

any endeavour to reconcile the various readings, and to supply the deficiencies, or to correct the errors of manuscripts. The instances, however frequent, of incorrectness and variations which occur in the present work, do not by any means surprise me. After a close application to Eastern literature for nine or ten years, during which I have turned over some thousands of written volumes, and attentively collated passages in several hundreds, I no longer expect to find in Arabick, Persian, or Turkish manuscripts (the Koran always excepted), either accuracy of transcribing, fidelity of translation, or exactness of quotation. Thus, a heavy cloud of uncertainty and confusion still hangs on the Geography of EDRISI, notwithstanding the learned labours of KURZMANN and of HARTMANN, who notice the numerous defects of the printed editions, the variations of the manuscript copies, the different titles of the same book, the uncertain age and country of the author, &c.

Of EBN HAUKAL's work, had there been found a perfect copy in the original Arabick, it is most probable that the pleasure of offering this translation to the Publick would not have been reserved for me. "We must lament," says the ingenious KOEHLER*, “that no better copy of the Mesalek al Memalek† exists, than the manuscript preserved in the Library at Leyden, which is exceedingly imperfect and very badly written.” It seems, indeed, the lot of EBN HAUKAL’s work, in whatsoever form it appears, to be censured for incorrectness and defects, by writers of different ages, and of different countries; for to the passage above quoted, we may add the following from ABULFEDA:

كتاب ابن حوقل وهو مطول ذكر فيه صفات البلاد مستوفيا غير
انه لم يضبط الاسماء وكذلك لم يكنز الطوال والعروض فصار
غالب ما ذكره مجهول للاسم و البقعة

“The book of EBN HAUKAL is a work of considerable length, in which the different countries are described with sufficient exactness. But neither are the names of places marked by the proper points, nor are their longitudes or latitudes expressed; this frequently occasions an uncertainty respecting the places, proper names, &c.”

* “EBN HAUKAL, de quo dolendum modo non integrius exemplum extare illo quod in Bibliotheca Leidensi asservatur, valde mutilum ac pessimè scriptum,” &c. Prem. ad Abulfeda Tabul. Syr. p. 11. Leips. 2d edition, 1786.

† See the Leyden Catalogue before quoted.

These are censures of the original Arabick. I must now bear testimony against the Persian transcripts which I have used.

Of the difficulties arising from an irregular combination of letters, the confusion of one word with another, and the total omission, in some lines, of the diacritical points, I should not complain, because habit and persevering attention have enabled me to surmount them in passages of general description, or sentences of common construction; but in the names of persons or of places never before seen or heard of, and which the context could not assist in deciphering, when the diacritical points were omitted, conjecture alone could supply them, or collation with a more perfect manuscript. The former I have seldom indulged, and the latter has enabled me, in several instances, to ascertain the true reading; and even the few names in which I have supplied the diacritical points from conjecture, are pointed out to the reader by a note, or otherwise.

Notwithstanding what I have just said, and although the most learned writers on Hebrew, Arabick, and Persian Literature, have made observations on the same subject, it may perhaps, be necessary to demonstrate, by a particular example, the extraordinary influence of those diacritical points, which, as they are essential parts of letters, must not be confounded with the vowel points or accents.

One example will suffice—Let us suppose the three letters forming the name تبت Tibbet to be divested of their diacritical points, and thus written ت—The first character may be rendered, by the application of one point above, an N, thus, ن—of two points a T, ت—of three points a TH or S, ث; if one point is placed under, it becomes a B ب—if two points, a Y ي—and if three points, a P پ. In like manner the second character may be affected, and the third character may be, according to the addition of points, rendered a B, P, T, and TH, or S.

Thus, amidst the multiplicity of names which may be formed of those three characters, it would be almost impossible, without the aid of context, or previous consideration, to ascertain the true reading: and, to use the words of GOLIUS, that most learned Orientalist, on a similar occasion, one must act the part of a diviner before he can perform that of an interpreter*.

* As the whole passage, in which Golius apologizes for the mistakes of Erpenius in his

Of the terms used in mensuration, or the computation of distances by time, I must here notice the extreme uncertainty which still pervades them, although many ingenious Orientalists have endeavoured to remove it.

We are sometimes informed that one place is distant from another one month's journey: the extent of this could be easily ascertained, were the number of miles or leagues in a day's journey (يَكْ رَوْزَه رَاه) exactly known; but we cannot expect precision in this computation, since much depends on the particular mode of travelling, the state of the roads, the nature of the country, and other circumstances. Equally vague and uncertain are the terms مرحله merhileh and منزل menzil which occur in the following pages.

GRAVES, in his Preface to Abulfeda's Chorasmia, translates merhileh by statio, diæta, mansio. According to Edrisi's Geo-

translation of Elmakin, is much to my present purpose, I shall give it here. "Nam licet

Of the parasang or farsang (فرسنگ) of Persia we can speak with greater certainty and accuracy, although it appears, from the Greek and Roman, as well as the native writers, that this measure was not always exactly ascertained, even among the Persians. Xenophon computes the pharsanga at thirty stadia; and Pliny informs us, that, like the schænos, it was a measure variously determined ‡.

ments in different provinces. The farsang or parasang (he says), in the time of the Caianians, or second dynasty of Persian sovereigns, contained, according to ancient writers, three miles of twelve thousand feet. According to Malek Shahi, the farsang of Khwarezm consisted of about fifteen thousand yards, (کام). In Azerbaijan, Armenia, and the neighbouring provinces, it contained only twelve thousand yards; while in the two Iraks, in Curdistan, Laristan, Khuzistan, Fars, Shebangareh, Diarbekre, &c. the farsang was reckoned to contain only six thousand yards; in other places it consisted of eight thousand, but may be generally computed at twelve thousand cubits, (زرع). The following passage, however, from the Borhan Kattea seems to fix the measure with precision :

معین از راه و آن بمقدار سه میل است و هر میلی چهار هزار

 " thousand, but it does not exceed this number."*

*The guz (as above described) may be computed from twenty to twenty-four inches. Mr. RICHARDSON * informs us, that the parasang, or league, contains about eighteen thousand feet; and Captain FRANCKLIN †, whose computation I would adopt, makes it nearly equivalent to four English miles.*

These and many other matters, which in the following work appear obscure or difficult, it was my intention, when I undertook this translation, to investigate with minute research, and to illustrate with ample explanations. On those subjects, also, which seemed of the most curious and interesting nature, I collected a variety of notices, and extracted from several other Oriental Manuscripts, and from the works of European Antiquaries, Historians and Travellers, every passage that could contribute information.

I endeavoured, by examining the most ancient traditions preserved in Persian records, to ascertain whether the celebrated Ruins of Istakhar, often mentioned in the course of this work, exhibit any monuments of the scriptural עִלָם Elam ‡, Ελυμαίς, Elymais *: whether it was the Persepolis of classick history †, the palace of Darius; or whether, according to one most learned Orientalist ‡, an edifice of more recent date, constructed by the Arsacides. But so much did my inquiries on this subject exceed the limits of a note, that they formed, rather, a distinct essay.

The various Languages of Persia and other countries, noticed by ERN HAUKAL, were also the subject of laborious research: through the modern Deri and Parsi, the ancient Pehlavi and Zend, I have traced every vestige that remains of the dialects used in Iran during the earliest ages §; and I have collected, rather as an Antiquary than an Etymologist, many hundred Greek and Persian words, of which the identity cannot be disputed, and must have originated from some other cause than accidental resemblance: that interchange of nations and of people, to which Seneca * alludes, must naturally have occasioned a confusion of languages; and the intermixture of Greek and Persian dialects would be a probable consequence of the Macedonian conquest.

§ In this research I have availed myself of the learned Burton's aid (see his "Veteris Linguae Persicae ΔΕΙΨΑΝΑ"), the more powerful assistance of Reland (see his Dissert. de Vet. ling. Pers. &c.), and that of Wahl (in his "Allgemeine Geschichte der Morgenländischen Sprachen und Litteratur"); but I have had access to original sources unexplored by them.

Several pages, also, were filled with observations on EBN HAUKAL'S account of the Magi, or Fire-worshippers: one passage, which, for obvious reasons, I have translated into Latin, will be found to bear testimony in favour of Anquetil du Perron.

On another part of this volume I was induced to bestow some inquiry, since it serves to illustrate, and is itself confirmed by, a Rabbinical work of high reputation. I allude to EBN HAUKAL'S description of the Land of Khozr; and to the Hebrew composition, entitled, ספר כוזרי Sepher Cosri, written about the year 1140 of the Christian æra, by ר' יהודה הלוי

From a multiplicity of Eastern traditions concerning the land of Yajouge and Majouge (or Gog and Magog), I collected whatever could illustrate that subject, over which a veil of obscurity still hangs, notwithstanding the endeavours of Bochart† and D'Herbelot‡ to remove it. It is unnecessary to mention any other European writer, however ingenious, since, if not skilled in the languages of Asia, or not having better sources of information than those eminent Orientalists above named, all that he can offer is mere conjecture.

EBN HAUKAL's account of Spain afforded subject for many observations, and my remarks on the Pyramids of Egypt occupied several pages. The vestiges of Jewish and Christian establishments pointed out by our Author in various parts of the following Work, appeared worthy of being examined with attention: and I took some trouble in comparing his account of many natural curiosities with the descriptions given us by travellers.

I found, however, that these illustrations, whether to be printed in the form of notes, or as an appendix, would retard considerably the publication of my book, and render it doubly expensive by the addition of so much as another volume of equal size would scarcely contain. I therefore resolved to content myself with offering to the Publick a mere translation of EBN HAUKAL's work, retaining what the Geographer and Critick will probably esteem the most essential part of the original, all names of places in the proper character; and so exactly have I followed the orthography of my manuscript, that in many pages the same word will be found spelt differently, and even erroneously *. Some of the most obscure, difficult, or doubtful passages, I have remarked in short notes, or endeavoured to illustrate in the Appendix, where many are given in Persian.

* Thus we find; in p. 48, طبريد Tiberiah and طبرثد Tiberthah—in several places, Isfahan, Sfahan, Ispahan, &c. The Pyramids of Egypt (properly written اهرام or الاهرمان Ahram or Elheraman) are styled, in page 33, هومان Houman or الهمان Elhouman.

The chief obscurity, as well as importance, consists in the proper names. From my accuracy, therefore, in observing the original orthography of these, every advantage which could result from a perusal of the manuscript is presented to the reader; for the passages merely descriptive or narrative contain few difficulties, and these few are noticed.

The illustrations and notes above mentioned, as I have reason to hope that the time and labour spent in collecting them were not employed in vain, shall soon be offered to the Publick. They will form part of a Work in which I propose to examine the Geographical System of the Asiaticks—to extract, from a multiplicity of Arabick and Persian Authors, their descriptions of Countries and Cities, Rivers, Mountains, Seas, Islands, &c.—to give exact imitations of many original Maps preserved in rare and curious manuscripts; and to inquire how far the Geographers of Asia agree with those of ancient Greece and Rome, and with modern Europeans. I shall collect all the traditions that can illustrate local History and Antiquities; and construct Maps, according to the best authorities, not only of the Asiatick regions, but of Africa and Europe, as described by Eastern writers.*

* Besides the Geographical Treatises of Abulfeda, Edrisi and others, well known to the

In preparing for publication the Geography of EBN HAUKAL, had I solicited, I would most probably have received, assistance from many learned friends; and I should, in this place, with equal pride and pleasure, have followed the example of those writers who appropriate a department of their Prefaces to a publick acknowledgment of their numerous obligations.

But on this subject I shall not long detain the reader; for publick, I have used, in compiling materials for this Work, a variety of Oriental Manuscripts but little known in Europe. Among these are the هفت اقليم Heft Aklim, or Seven Climates, by Emir Rauzi; the شهرآز نامه Shiraz Nameh, by Sheikh Zarkoub; the نزهت القلوب Nozhat al Coloub of Hamdallah Mustoufi, so often quoted by D'Herbelot; the عجائب البلدان Ajaieb al Boldan, or "Wonders of Regions; the تحقيق الاعراب Tahkik al Arab, a Geographical Dictionary, by Mohammed Saduk Isfahani; the تحف العراق Tohfut al Irakein, or Poetical Description of the two Iraks, Arabian and Persian provinces, by the celebrated Khakani; the عجائب الغرائب Ajaieb al Gheraieb; the عجائب المخلوقات Ajaieb al Mahkloucat; the صور الاقاليم Sour al Akalim; the سمر البلاد Seir al Belad; the Geographical Index at the end of Mirkhond's Rozet al Sefa, &c. These, with the assistance of EBN HAUKAL's work, have enabled me to construct a Map of Persia and the adjacent provinces, on so large a scale as to admit a multiplicity of names not found in any other. It comprehends (on a sheet measuring six feet by five) nearly the same extent as Mr. Wahl's celebrated Map, prefixed to his "Altes und Neues Vorder und Middel Asien;" and the names of places are written, not only in European characters, but respectively in Arabick, Persian, Armenian, &c.

my debt of gratitude is single. To the Provost and Fellows of Eton College I am indebted, not only for frequent opportunities of collating their manuscript with my own, but for the most liberal hospitality and the most polite attention. Through their indulgence I have been enabled to supply some deficiencies, and correct several errors, which must otherwise have disfigured this translation: whatever imperfections still remain, would probably have been removed by the collation of a third copy with the two which I have used. A third copy, however, I sought in vain; although, from information, communicated by an ingenious friend, I have reason to believe that EBN HAUKAL'S work is among the manuscripts belonging to a certain learned Society: but I must regret that it is not found in any other library of this metropolis to which I have been admitted. Such as it is, I am not without hopes that this work will prove acceptable to the Orientalist, the Antiquary, and the Geographer. If their approbation be withheld, I shall acknowledge that I have toiled in vain; for the result of my former labours has taught me to expect no other recompense than praise, and the hopes of substantial profit have been extinguished by successive disappointments.

بِسْمِ اللَّهِ الرَّحْمَنِ الرَّحِيمِ

In the name of God, the Clement, the Merciful !

PRAISE be to God, the origin of all good ! and may the blessing of God be on Mohammed, the Prince of Prophets ! Thus says the author of the work : " My design, in the composition of this book, is to describe the various climates and regions of the face of the earth, comprised within the circle of Islam, or Mohammedanism, and their several divisions, in such a manner that every remarkable place belonging to each region shall be noticed, and all the boundaries and territories depending on them, their districts, cities, mountains, rivers, lakes, and deserts."

But as the particular details of all these seemed unnecessarily prolix, they are here compressed within a small compass; and in the present volume, which is entitled Mesalek u Memalek, our plan is to describe, and to delineate on maps, the various seas or oceans which surround the land, the inhabited and the desert islands, and every climate and region of the earth; affixing the name of each, so that it may be known in the maps; and confining ourselves to those countries which are the seat of Islam, and the residence of true believers.

We begin with Arabia, because the Temple of the Lord is situated there, and the holy *Kaaba is the Navel of the World; and Mecca is styled, in the sacred writings, "the Parent City," or "the Mother of Towns†. Then we proceed to describe the دریای پارس Deryai-Pars, or Persian Sea, which bounds a portion of Arabia: then we speak of the western countries, زمین مغرب Zemeen-i-Magreb (part of Africa); then we describe the land of Egypt, مصر Misr; then Syria, شام Sham; then the دریای روم Deryai Roum, or Mediterranean Ocean; then the province of جزیره Jezireh, Mesopotamia; then عراق عرب Irak Arabi; then خوزستان Khuzistan, Susiana; then پارس Pars, or Farsistan; then کرمان Kirman; then منصوره Mansoureh, the places bordering on سند و هند Sind and Hind, the confines of * کعبه The square Temple at Mecca; built, according to Mohammedan tradition, by Abraham.

† Omm'at kura. أم القرى

Hindoostan, and such towns of these as contain Mussulman inhabitants: then we describe اذر بايگان Azerbaigan, and its territories; then کوهستان Kouhestan; then ديلمان Deilman; then the دريائي خزر Deryai Khozz, or Caspian Sea, and the various nations surrounding it; then the deserts between خراسان Khorasan and فارس Fars; then the province of سيستان Seiestan; then Khorasan and ماورالنهر Maweralnahr, or Transoxania.

(Here, in the original manuscript, a blank page occurs, on which was to have been delineated a general Map of the World, or the Eastern Hemisphere.)

The author of this work informs us, that such is the form of the earth, its various parts, inhabited and uninhabited. We have divided it into empires or states, ممالك memalek: and the signification of this word is پادشاهها kingdoms; in the singular, مملکت memleket, one kingdom or state. Of all the regions of this earth, none is more populous, cultivated, or flourishing, than the empire of ايران Iran, or Persia; the chief glory of which, in former times, was بابل Babel (Babylon.) This is the country of پارس Pars: and the extent of this empire, in the time of the ancient Persians, is well known; but the Mussulmans have since possessed themselves of the countries above enumerated; such as روم Roum, Natolia; and شام Sham, Syria; and مصر Misr, Egypt; and اندلس Andalus, Andalusia or Spain; and مغرب Magreb, the west (part of Africa), and part of Hindoostan; and the territories of منصوره Mansoureh, as far as ملتان Multan; and کابلستان Kabulistan; and the borders of تخارستان Tok-harestan; and of چین Cheen, China or Tartary; and ماوراءالنهر Maweralnahr, or Transoxania. The author says, that he reckons, as belonging to روم Roum, the borders of سقلاوب Siklab, Sclavonia; of روس Rous, Russia, سریر Serir, and آلان Allan, and ارمن Armen, Armenia, where the Christian religion is professed; and he places, as belonging to Hindoostan, سند Sind, and کشمیر Cashmere, and part of تبت Tibet. "As for the land of blacks, in the west (Africa), and the زنگیان Zingians, Æthiopians, and such tribes (says the author), I make but slight mention of them in this book; because, naturally loving wisdom, ingenuity, religion, justice, and regular government, how could I notice such people as those, or exalt them by inserting an account of their countries? Yet one race of them has some degree of civilization and religious observance, the نوبیان Nubians, and حبشیان Habbeshians, Abbyssinians: the reason of this is, their vicinity to the other more polished countries; thus نوبه Nubia and حبشه Habbeshch, Abbyssinia, are situated on the borders of the دریای قلزم Deryai Kolzum, the Sea of Kolzum, or Red Sea. Nothing farther can be said in their favour."

The region of Islam is superior to the others, because it is more extensive; from south to north, and from the western bay or gulph, connected with the ocean, to the borders of چین ماچین Cheen Macheen (the southern parts of China), and another bay or gulph, likewise joining the ocean, from the west (Africa), to اندلس Andalus, Spain. The author informs us that he has drawn a line through this map, dividing it into two parts, and passing from the Persian Sea to the land of Hindoostan, through the midst of the region of Islam; likewise from the land of Egypt to the west of Africa. The inhabitants of the northern parts of these countries are of a fair complexion; those who dwell still farther north are more fair skinned, and their climate is cold. The inhabitants of the south are of a dark complexion, and the blackness of their skins increases as they dwell farther to the south.

On the east of the land of Islam are the regions of Hindoostan and the دریای پارس Persian Sea; to the west lie روم Roum, and ارمن Armen, and الان Allan, and سریر Serir, and سقلاب Siklab, and part of ترکستان Turkestan. The land of Islam has to the north the empire of چین Cheen, and its various territories from the borders of Turkestan; and to the south the Persian Sea, and the region of سند Sind. The Ocean bounds it to the west and to the south.

Description of the Seas.

THE chief Seas are the دریای پارس Persian, and دریای روم the Sea of Roum, or the Mediterranean, which are nearly opposite: both join the great ocean. The Persian Sea is more extensive in length and breadth, reaching to the land of چین Cheen, and to the دریای قلزم Sea of Kolzum. From Kolzum to Cheen, in a streight line, is a distance of about two hundred *menzil; and from Kolzum to عراق Irak, by the way of the desert, is a journey of two months. From the جیحون Jihoun, or Oxus, to the extreme boundary of Islam, on the borders of فرغانه Ferghanah, is above twenty *merhileh; and, from those places to the coast of Cheen, is a very tedious way, because in these seas are various windings and turnings.

* See the Preface.

Of the Sea of Roum, or the Mediterranean, and other matters.

THIS sea comes from the ocean, and extends from that narrow bay, or pass, between the west (Africa), and the land of اندلس Andalus, Spain, to the coast of شام Sham, Syria, a distance of seven months journey. This sea is of a more regular and even outline than the Persian; for, after you pass the mouth of that bay before mentioned (Gibraltar), it is protracted in one line to the end.

From مصر Egypt to the extremity of the west مغرب Magreb, is a distance of an hundred and eighty merhileh. From the extremity of the east to that of the west, is near four hundred merhileh. From روم Roum, one comes to شام Sham (Syria) in the course of sixty merhileh. From Sham to مصر Egypt is thirty merhileh. The distance of the journey between the land of یاجوج Yajouge and بلغار Bulgar, and the country of سقلاب Siklab, is about four hundred merhileh; and from Siklab to روم Roum, to the borders of Sham, sixty merhileh. From Roum to the extreme boundary of the زمین نوبیان land of the Nubians, about eighty merhileh.

Between Yajouge و Majouge Yajouge and Majouge, and the northern ocean, and between the deserts of the Blacks and the other limits of the ocean, all is desolate and waste, without any buildings. I know not what are the roads or stages of those two deserts which are on the coasts of the ocean, because it is impossible to travel in them on account of the excessive heat, which hinders the building of houses, or the residing there. Thus, also, in the south, no animal can exist, so excessive is the heat, nor any person dwell there. But between Cheen چین and the west Magreb مغرب, all is inhabited, and the ground cultivated, and the ocean surrounds the land like a collar or necklace.

From this ocean proceed the Deryai Fars دریای فارس, Persian Sea or Gulph, and Deryai Roum دریای روم, Mediterranean, but not the Deryai Khozr دریای خزر, or Caspian Sea. If any person wish to make a circuit round this sea, he must set out from Khozr, and proceed through the land of Deilman دیلمان, and Tabaristan طبرستان, and Gurkan گورکان, and, turning by the desert, in the vicinity of Siah Kouh سیاه کوه, or the Black Mountain, thus come back to the place from which he had set out, as nothing would impede him but the river which falls into the Caspian Sea.

The Franks, in general, we speak of as belonging to Roum روم (Europe), because they have the same religion and king, though speaking various dialects.

The empire of چین Cheen extends, in length, a distance of four months journey; and in breadth, three. And when one comes from the mouth of the bay or gulph خلیج to the land of Mussulmans, the borders of ماورا لنهر Mauweralnahr, Transoxania, it is a journey of three months. And when one comes from the east, and wishes to proceed to the west, by the land of the نوبیان Nubians, and the land of خرخیز Khurkhiz, and of غرغز Ghurghhez, and by کیپاک Kaimak to the sea, it is a journey of about four months. In the regions of Cheen there are various dialects: but all ترکستان Turkestan, and غرغز Ghurghhez, and عاصه Assah, and خرخیز Khurkhiz, and کیپاک Kaimak, and غرنه Ghurneh, and خرنجیه Khurnjiah; the people of all these have the same language, and are of one kind. The chief place of the empire of Cheen is called حمدان Humdan, as قسطنطنیه Costantineh, Constantinople, is of Europe, or بغداد Bagdad, of the land of Islam, or قنوج Canouge, of Hindoostan; but the land of Turk, زمین ترک is separately situated. غز Ghuz is the boundary of it from خزر Khoezr to کیپاک Kaimak, and to خرنجیه Khurnjiah and بلغار Bulgar, and the borders of the land of Mussulmans from کرکان Gurkan to باراب Barab, and to سنجاب Senjab.

When you pass from the territories of Kaimak, then it is the land of خدرج Khederje, lying to the north, between غز Ghuz and خرخیز Khurkhiz, and behind سقلاب Siklab; and the land of یاجوج Yajouge is situated in the north, when you turn from Siklab, and pass the bounds of Kaimak; but the extent of Yajouge, and the number of its inhabitants, are known to God Almighty alone. There is a place of Khurkhiz, situated between Ghuz, and Kaimak, and the ocean, and the land of خدرج Khederje. The country of تبت Tibet is situated between Khurkhiz and the empire of Cheen. Cheen lies between the sea and the land of Ghuz and Tibet; and Cheen itself constitutes this climate (or division); but the other parts of Tibet were annexed to it, as in Europe the lesser places depend on Constantinople, and in the region of Islam on Iran, which is the land of بابل Babel.

Of سقلاب Siklab, the extent is about two months journey; بلغار Bulgar is a small town, which has not many territories, and for that reason the places belonging to it have been well known. The روس Rous are a people between whom and Bulgar is a tribe of ترکان Turks; in one place here some fishermen reside, and there are a few date trees, as far as ثاران Saran, and چیلک Cheilak, and opposite the mountains to ابله Ableh. Ableh is a small town, well inhabited, with a little tilled and cultivated land. "In that place were some Jews; those to "whom it was forbidden to hunt on the Sabbath (or Sunday): "and God transformed them, and caused them to become "monkies*.

As for مداین Madaein, and its territories, as far as یمن Yemen (Arabia Felix), and to عمان Oman, and بحرين Bahrein, (islands in the Persian Gulph), as far as عبادان Abadan; of all these we describe the roads as belonging to Arabia: but Abadan is a small fort or castle, inhabited, on the sea-coast, and the waters of the دجله Dejleh (or Tigris) come up there. This is a rebat, or station, where sentinels used to be placed, that they might watch the دریا دریا robbers of the sea, or pirates. The river دجله Dejleh, or Tigris, passes here; and thence we come by the sea-shore to ماهی رویان Mahi-rouian, on the borders of Pars, or Persia. On this journey it is necessary in most of the places to go by water; because the river of خوزستان Khu-zistan winds about دورق Daurak, and flows to حصن مهدی Hysn Mohdi, and رامنان Ramnán, and then falls into the sea at ماهی رویان Mahi-rouian; and this Mahi-rouian is a small town, well-inhabited, and pleasant, the port for ارغان Arghan, or the pass to it. Then we come to سینیر Sinir, which is larger than Mahi-rouian; and this Sinir is the port of all Pars or Farsistan. From thence the sea-shore winds on to بجرم Bijerm. Between جنابه Jenabeh and Bijerm, there are groves, and meadows, and villages; and the air becomes very warm here. From this you proceed to سیراف Siraf, one of the most ample harbours in all Pars. Siraf is a large town از اعیان شهرهای فارس one of the eyes of the towns of Fars. Here there is not any husbandry or cultivation of ground; and they bring water from a distance.

Passing from this along the shore, by places where there are hills and deserts, you come to the حصن ابن عماره Hysn ebn omarreh. This is a very strong castle: in all Pars there is not any fort more strong, or in better condition; and it is thought that there is an allusion to the lords of this castle in that passage of the Koran, where it is said,

وَكَانَ وَّرَاءَهُمْ مَلِكٌ يَأْخُذُ كُلَّ سَفِينَةٍ غَصْبًا

"And there was, behind them, a king who forcibly seized on every (sound) ship."*

From this place you proceed to هرمز Hormuz, which is the port of کرمان Kirman. Hormuz is a well-inhabited and flourishing city: it abounds in dates, and the air is exceedingly warm. From this you go to دبیل Daibul, where there are merchants, who trade in all places. This is the port of the land of سند Sind: and Sind is the same as منصوره Mansureh; and the region of لطیان Lattian, as far as چین Cheen, extends along the coast of Hindoostan, to تبت Tibet, and چین ماچین Cheen Macheen, beyond which no one passes.

* Koran, سورت الکيف Chapter of the Cavern. This king, according to some Mohammedan commentators, reigned in Oman. See SALE'S Koran, Chap. xviii.—PO-COCKE'S Specim. Histor. Arab. p. 42. &c.

Of Bajeh, and Abyssinia, and Nubia.

FROM Kolzum کلزم, on the west of the sea (the Red Sea), the dry deserts stretch very far, to the land of Bajeh بجہ. The inhabitants of Bajeh are blacker than the Abyssinians, like the Arabs*; and they have not either cities, villages, nor cultivated land---nothing but what they bring from Yemen, Abyssinia, Egypt, or the land of the Greeks زمین یونان.

This country (Bajeh) is situated between Habesh حبش, Abyssinia, the land of Nubia نوبہ, and Egypt. In it are gold mines, which extend from near the borders of Egypt to a certain castle on the sea-coast, which they call Assat عسات †; a distance of about ten merhileh. Among these mines is a place called Allami عالمی, situated on a level ground. There are not in any quarter of the world such gold mines as these. In Bajeh they worship idols, or any thing that seems pleasing to their eyes. Those who immediately border on the land of Abyssinia are Christians, and of the same complexion as Arabians.

* Probably it should have been "Blacker than the Arabs, and like the Abyssinians."

† This word is so equivocally written in the MSS. that it may be Assab, &c.

On the sea-coast there is a place called زيلع Zeilaa, which is the port for those who go to Yemen and حجاز Hejaz. Then begin the deserts of نوبه Nubia. The Nubians are Christians; and their country is wider than that of the Abyssinians; and "the Ægyptian Nile passes through their territories, and goes on "to the land of the Zingians (Æthiopia); and one cannot proceed "beyond that *."

The sea continues to the land of زنگبار Zingbar, Æthiopia, opposite عدن Aden: thence it departs from the regions of Islam. Æthiopia is a dry country, with few buildings, and very little cultivated ground. The leopard skins, and other spotted skins which are brought into Yemen, come from this place. The inhabitants are at war with the Mussulmans. There is in Zingbar a race of white people, who bring from other places articles of food and clothing. This country produces little: the inhabitants are not much inclined to the cultivation of arts or sciences.

So far we have spoken of those countries bordering on the Persian Sea: Now we proceed to describe the regions of the West.

* نيل مصریان بناحت ایشان گذرد و بزنگبار رسد و بعد از آن نتوان رفتن

The last sentence (which seems obscure) is literally, "and after that it is impossible to go on."

ذکر دیار مغرب

Of Magreb (the West), or part of Africa.

THIS western region is situated along the دریای روم Mediterranean Sea, and is divided into two parts---one, the eastern---the other, western. To the eastern division belong برقه Bar-kah, and افرنقیه Afrinkeieh, and تاهوت Tahouth, and ملنجہ Melinjeh, and سوس Sus, and زویلہ Zouilah; and all on the sea. The western division extends to اندلس Andalus.

The sea, to the east, reaches as far as Egypt. From Egypt we proceed to مهدیه Mohediah, and جزیره بنی ربهی Jezireh Beni Rebehi (or رعی Raai), and بصیره Basireh, and اربله Arbleh, and سوس Sus, where are deserts without any sort of habitations. To the south of these places is sand.

(Map of the West.)

*Alhakem ben Hesham ben Abdarrahan ben Moawiyah ben Hesham ben Abdalmulk ben Merwan ben Alhakm. The first of those who passed over to اندلس Andalus was Abdarrahan ben Moawiyah; he conquered it in the beginning of the reign of the sons of Abbas (Abbasides); and the government of it remains still in his family.

Magreb (the west) or Africa, is chiefly remarkable for the black slaves: it is the land of blacks. The white slaves come from the quarter of Andalus; and damsels of great value, such as are sold for one thousand dinars or more; and mules fit for the saddle; and the coarse woollen stuff, called نهد مغربي Nemed Magrebi; and coral, and ambergris, and gold, and honey, and silk, and seal-skins.

The whole distance from Misr to the boundary of the eastern division of the west, on the Mediterranean Sea, is about six months journey.

From Kirouan to زويله Zouilah, is a journey of one month; from Kirouan to Mohadieh, two days journey; from Kirouan to the town of لولس or بوس* three merhileh; from that to طرفه Tarfah, ten merhileh; from Tarfah to تنيس Teneis (Tunis?) about sixteen merhileh; from Teneis to the جزيره رعيه Jezireh Rahey, five days journey; from تاهوت Tahouth to باكور Bakour, thirty merhileh; from Tahouth to سجلباسه Sejelmasah, fifteen merhileh; and from فاس Fas to بصيره Basireh, six merhileh; and from Fas to ارمه Armeh, eight merhileh: and from Kirouan to سجلباسه Sejelmasah, by way of the desert, is a journey of near fifty merhileh.

(Here is a sudden transition to the African coast, not marked in the original Manuscript by any Division, or Head of a new Section.)

برقه Barkah is a town of a middling size, neither great nor small, with an improved and well-inhabited neighbourhood, all about which, on every side, is the desert wherein the بربريان Barbarians reside. A Collector of Revenues, or Tax-gatherer, used to come here annually from Egypt, until the time that Abdallah assumed the government of the West.

طرابلس Trapolis belongs to the region of افريقيه Africa. It is a town built of stone, on the coast of the Mediterranean Sea, and a very strong place.

طبريه Tiberiah is a small town, which produces deadly scorpions, like those of Leshkur†; and here, out in the sea, coral is found, such as no other part of the world affords.

The جزيره بني ربهه Jezireh Beni Rebeh is a populous and well-supplied town, inhabited by the بربر Berbers. باکور Bakour is a considerable town on the sea-coast, well-inhabited and strong. بصيره Basireh is also a large town, and well-supplied, situated opposite جزيره Jezireh, or the place which they call جبال طارق Jebal-tarek, Gibraltar. Between this place (Basireh) and Jezireh, the breadth of the sea is twelve farsang‡.

اربيله Arbilah is a large town on the sea-side: Arbilah and Basireh belong to the district of طنجه Tanjiah, Tangiers.---سوس اقصي Sus-aski is a considerable and fertile district, inhabited by بربريان Berbers. طنجه Tanjiah is an extensive district, in which are cities, villages, and deserts on the borders of بربر Berber, Barbary. The capital of this country is فاس Fas, Fez, in which resides ياحي فاطمي Iahia the Fatemite; for عبد الله فاطمي Abdallah the Fatemite has not yet conquered that place*.

Bakour, and Jezireh Beni Rebehi, which we have before mentioned, and about ten other towns in the vicinity of Tahouth, are considerable. تاهوت Tahouth is the chief: it is a large town, well inhabited and supplied. The inhabitants practise agriculture:---they have been conquered by a people called باصنا Basna.

سجلماسه Sejelmasah is a town of middling size, belonging to the territories of Tahouth. One cannot enter Sejelmasah but by the way of the desert, which the sand renders difficult. This town is situated near the gold mines, between them and the land of the Blacks, and the land of زويله Zouilah. These mines are said to be of the most pure and excellent gold; but it is difficult to work them, and the way to them is dangerous and troublesome. They say that the district of Tahouth is reckoned as belonging to افريقيه Africa.

* The Fatemite Dynasty commenced in the year of the Hegira 296, (A. D. 908,) and lasted 172 years.---See D'HERBELOT, Art. Fathemiah.

شطيف Shateif, is a considerable town, and well-inhabited, between Tahouth and قيروان Kirouan. The inhabitants are a tribe of Berbers, and called كنامة Kenamah. Abdallah has subdued them; and Abu-Abdallah, who was a servant of Abdallah, resides among them, and governs them.

قيروان Kirouan is the largest of all the towns. The tribes of Magreb all resided there; and it was their chief place until the decline of their government, when Abu-Abdallah came forth, and conquered them; since which time Abdallah dwelt at Kirouan, until he built the town of مہديه Mohediah on the sea-coast, and removed to that place.

زويله Zouileh is a town of middling size, with many territories belonging to it: it is situated near the country of the Blacks. This land of the Blacks is a very extensive region, but extremely dry. In the mountains of it are to be found all the fruits which the Mohammedan world produces; but they do not eat of them; they have other fruits and natural productions for their food. Their skins are of a finer and deeper blackness than that of any other blacks, whither حبشي Habeshis, Abyssinians, or زنكي Zingians, Ethiopians. And their country is more extensive than that of any other nation of Blacks: it is situated on the coast of the ocean to the south: to the north they have deserts which extend towards the deserts of Egypt: from behind واح Wahh the desert reaches to near the Nubians; then to the desert in the vicinity of زنگبار Zingbar. Whatsoever they get, comes to them from the western side, because of the difficulty of entering their country from any other quarter.

Now we proceed to speak of the West, and begin with an account of اندلس Andalus, or Spain. Andalus is an extensive and considerable country, with many large and flourishing cities, the chief of which is called قرطبه Cortubah (Cordova), situated in the midst of the country. The ocean is on one side of Andalus, and the درياي روم Sea of Roum (the Mediterranean) on the other, as far as the زمين فرنگ Land of the Franks (France.) The first of the cities is سرين Serin; then حسينيه Husiniyah, اسبيليه Asebiliah (or Sebilah, Seville), سدونه Sedounah, Sidonia, مالقه Malaca, to the country of مولسه Moulsah, and to طلسه Tolsah, and طرطوسه Tartousah; where there is باريس Baris, a town on the sea-side. Thence along the sea, belongs to the land of the Franks; and on the dry side belongs to the country of عليجكس Aljebes. This country is inhabited by a race of Christians, and as far as the land of بسكونس Biscounes belongs to the Christians, as likewise the territories of جالقان Jalekan. There are two boundaries to Andalus; one, the land of the Infidels (or Christians); the other, the sea: and all those towns which we have spoken of, as being situated on the sea-coast, are considerable places, and well-inhabited.

Andalus is now in the hands of the بنی امیه Beni Ommiah, the *Ommiades; and the عباسیان Abbassians, the Abbassides, have not yet snatched it from them; nor has Abdallah yet obtained the superiority over them. At the time that the glory of the Beni Ommiah was declining, one of that family, who was at آبله Abilah, passed over to the جزیره جبل طارق Jezireh Jibel-tarek, Gibraltar, and subdued Andalus, which still remains in the possession of the Ommiah race.

These are the most remarkable cities of Andalus:---طلیطله Toleitlah, سدونه Sedounah, لارده Lardah, وادی الحجاره Wadi al hejareh, برخاله Barkhalah, بورنه Bournah حسان Hesah, مارده Mardah, ماحو Mahou, غانف Ghafek, لیلہ Leilah, فرمویه Fermouiah (or کرمویه Karmouiah), موروده Mouroudah, اسبیلیه Asebiliah. These are all considerable towns, and for the greater part their buildings are of stone.

بحانه Behaneh is situated in the vicinity of deserts. Sirin†, on the coast of the ocean: there ambergris is found, but not in any place on the Mediterranean Sea. The author of this book says, "At the time when I was in شام Syria, on the coast of the

* The Ommiades retained their empire in Spain long after they had ceased to govern the other regions of Islam; where the Abbassides began to reign A. H. 132, (A. D. 748.) The Ommiades possessed Spain until the year of the Hegira 424, (A. D. 1032.)--Ebn Shenab in D'HERBELOT, Art. Ommiah.

† سیرین Sometimes written نسرین Nesrin and بسرین Barrin.

“ دریای روم Mediterranean Sea, something was thrown up,
 “ and I afterwards heard that at Sirin such was every year “ thrown on the shore: this is a certain thing which they call “ موهی mouhi, resembling fine beaver, or raw silk; it rubs “ itself against the stones on the sea-shore, and its plumage, or “ down, comes off*, which the people come and gather, and “ weave into garments.” The kings of Andalus are very fond of this stuff, and will not allow it to be exported; and they have garments of it which cost above a thousand dinars.

مالقه Malaca produces the سنفر sanfar†, of whose skin they make the handles of swords.

جزیره طارق Jezireh Tarek, Aljezireh, was the first seat of Islam in this country. The جبل طارق Jebel-Tarek, Gibraltar, is a well-inhabited mountain, with villages or small towns on it:
 it is the extreme point and last pass of Andalus.

طلیطله Toletilah is a city situated on a lofty mountain: the buildings are of marble, or hard stones, fastened with lead. About this city there are seven hills, all cultivated and inhabited; and likewise a river equal to the دجلة Dejleh, or Tigris: the name of that river is ناحية Nahiah; it proceeds from the town called سره Sarrah, and they call that district مدن بني سالم Me-den beni Salem.

قده Kedah is a considerable district, the chief town of which is called ارحدوه Arhadouh: from this place came عبرو بن حفصو Omru ben Hafsou. فحص اليلوط Fahas-alilout is a flourishing and considerable district, the capital of which is called غانق Ghafek. بورمه Bourmah was a large city, but has been ruined during a contest between two tribes or parties who were in the town, one of which called to their aid the جالقيان Jalékians, who came and plundered and destroyed the place.

In Andalus the Beni Ommiah, or family of the Ommiah sovereigns, are pre-eminent. The *Khutbah is read in their name.

The cities of the Jalékians are, مارده Mardah, هره Herah, وادي الحجر Wadi al hejar, طليطلة Toletlah. There is a country of the Jalékians bordering on Andalus, which they call استوره Astourah; and the king of the Jalékians resides in a city called ابنظ Abnez, which is far from the land of the Mussulmans.

But of all the tribes of Infidels (Christians) who border on Andalus, the most numerous are the فرنگ Franks. Their king is called *ناره Farah. The Jalekians, though a considerable people, are not so numerous as these. The smallest tribe of all these Infidels are those whom they call اسکوننس Askounes; but they are said to be one of the most brave and manly. There is a race also called عجسکس Ajilsekes, a tribe of very bad people, who live between Askounes and Frank.

Of the بربر Berbers, who inhabit Andalus and Magreb (Spain and Africa), there are two kinds; one called Berber, the other برانس Beranes. فیکره Feikerah, and مکیانه Mekianah, and هوادہ Houadah, and مدیونه Mediounah, are of the Berbers in Andalus; and کنامہ Kenamah, and ربایہ Rebaiah, and مصمودہ Masmoudah, and بلبلہ Bilbilah, and طریاحیہ Tehiahiah, are of the Beranes. The Rebaiah dwell in the districts of تاهوٹ Ta-houth; and the Kenamah in the vicinity of شطیف Shateif. In Andalus are several mines of gold and silver. In the district of سره Sarrah and مرسغه Marsafah, near قرطبه Cortubah, there is a place called کولس Koules. Here, and at طلیطله Tolitelah, are many sables or martins (سبور).

زویاله Zouialah† is a place which abounds in black slaves; but the inhabitants are of a brown complexion, though at a distance from the south. In the eastern parts they are darker, and have light-coloured eyes---some more remote, have fair complexions, with blue eyes, and reddish hair: one race of them has black eyes, and black hair---these are said to be descended from the Arabs of the tribe of بنی غساز Ghusaz. Between Magreb and the country of the Blacks, there are deserts, of which but a few places are accessible by any road. Between افریقیه Afrikiyah and تاهوت Tahouth, there is a small tribe, called شراه Sherah.

The kings of Andalus are of the Beni Ommiah family, and the Abbassides have not yet had the *Khutbah in their name. These kings of Andalus are descended from هشام بن عبدالمک Hesham ben Abdalmolk, and still have the Khutbah in their own name. Their kings, at this time, are Abdarrahan Mohammed ben Abdallah ben Mohammed Abdarrahan†.

* See Note, p. 26.

† عبد الرحمن محمد بن عبد الله بن محمد عبد الرحمن The original has پادشاهان kings, in the plural. But it appears that our author alludes to Abdarrahan, the third of that name, who (according to D'Herbelot, art. Abdarrabman) reigned 60 years in Spain, and died in the year of the Hegira 350, (A. D. 961), after violent contests about the right of succession between the Omniades and Abbassides.

Account of Egypt.

ONE of the boundaries of Egypt begins from the دریای روم Sea of Roum, between اسکندریه Iskanderiah (Alexandria) and برقه Barkah, at the deserts behind واح Wahh; proceeding to the land of the Nubians, and to the land of بجه Bajeh, and back from اسوان Asouan to the Sea of Roum; and from Bajeh, to the دریای قلزم Sea of Kolzum (the Red Sea), till it comes to the طور سینا Tour Sina (Mount Sinai), in the territories of the Children of Israel.

From the coast of the Sea of Roum to the land of the Nubians behind واح Wahh, is twenty-five merhileh. From the borders of Nubia you must go eight merhileh to the south; from قلزم Kolzum, on the coast of the Red Sea, to the تیه بنی اسرائیل Tiah beni Israel, or Desert of the Israelites, six merhileh; and from the sea to the borders of that Desert, or Tiah, where it is bounded by the Sea of Roum, eight merhileh; from اسوان Asouan to the Sea of Roum, twenty-five merhileh.

Now we present a map of this country.

The chief city of Egypt is called فسطاط Fostat,* situated on the bank of the River نيل Nile to the north. The Nile flows from the east; and all this city is situated on one side of it. Near to it are certain edifices, called جزيرة Jezireh, or the Island, to which they pass from Fostat on a bridge; and from this Jezireh they have constructed a bridge to the other bank, where there is a place called جيرة Jeirah. The extent of the city is about two thirds of a farsang: it is very well inhabited, and supplied with provisions; all their houses are seven or eight stories high. Near the town is a place called موقف Mouekaf; the soil of which is less marshy, and more firm and solid. It is said that Fostat was the name of a certain tribe.

حرا Hamra is a town situated on the bank of the river Nile. It has two principal mosques; one in the middle of the town, built by عمرو بن عاص Amru ben Aas; and the other in the place called موقف Mouekaf, erected by لعهر بن طولون Laaher ben Touloun. Without the town is a certain place of above a mile in extent, which that Laaher Touloun caused to be built for his troops: this they call فطايح Fetaia or Ketaia. In like manner were the dwellings, called افاده Afadeh, of the آل اغلب Al-i-Agleb (or family of Agleb), situated without the town of قيروان Kirouan. In this place agriculture is much practised.

* Fostat is now, according to Mr. Browne (Travels, p. 80), "A long street, running parallel to the river, and occupying part of the space between Kahira (Cairo) and its bank." Of modern Cairo the foundation was laid A. D. 968.

There are great quantities of dates, and many corn fields, along the banks of the Nile, from that to near اسوان Asouan, and to the borders of اسکندريه Eskanderiah. When the weather becomes very warm, the water increases; and when it sinks, they sow their grain; after that, there is no necessity for water. In the land of Egypt there falls not either rain nor snow; nor is there in the whole country any running stream beside the river Nile.

فيوم Fioum is not a very considerable town. It is said that the prophet Joseph, on whom be the blessing of God! brought the water to that place, and called it لاهوت Lahout: And there is not any person who knows the fountains or source of the river Nile; on this account, because it issues from a cavern in the territories of زنگبار Zingbar, from a certain spot, which a man may very nearly approach, yet never can arrive at: after this, it runs through the inhabited and desert parts of the land of the Nubians to مصر Misr (Egypt); and there where it first becomes a river, it is equal to the دجله و فرات Deljeh and Frut (Tigris and Euphrates.) And the water of the River Nile is the most pure and delicious of all the waters on the face of the earth.

The Nile produces ماهي سقنقور crocodiles, and the fish سقنقور sekenkour: and there is also a species of fish, called راعده raadah, which if any person take in his hand while it is alive, that person will be affected by a trembling of his body*: when dead, this fish resembles other fishes. The crocodile's head is very long, so long as to be one half of his whole form; and he has such teeth, that, if a lion were to come within their hold, he would be destroyed. It sometimes happens that the crocodile comes out of the water on the dry ground; but he has not then the same powers as when in the water. His skin is so hard that it resists the blows of all weapons when stricken on the back: they therefore wound him where the fore legs join the body (literally, under the arm pits), and between the thighs. The سقنقور sekenkour is a species of that fish (the crocodile), but the crocodile has hands and feet; and they use the sekenkour in medicinal and culinary preparations. This creature is not found any where but in the river Nile.

From اسوان Asouan, along the banks of the Nile, as far as the sea, the country is all inhabited and cultivated. On the southern side of the Nile there is a place called سعيد Saied, where are mines of زبرجد *zeberjed, and emeralds (زمرد zemerud) far in the desert; and beside these there are not any mines of those precious stones. On the northern side of the river Nile, near Fostat, there is a certain hill, called معظم Moazem, in the vicinity of which is found the stone خباهن khemahen; and this hill extends to the land of the يونان Iounans (Grecks): And near that hill, in the district of Fostat, is a burying-place, where the tomb of Shafæi* is situated;---the Lord be merciful to him!

اسكندريه Eskandaria, Alexandria, is a considerable town, built on the sea-side: the houses, and other edifices, are of marble. And out in the sea there is a مناره minareh, or watch-tower, of hard stone, and very lofty: it contains about three hundred houses: No one without a guide can arrive there.

Of the buildings at Fostat, on the bank of the Nile, all that are above the city are called سعيد Saied, and all that are below the city are called زيف Zeif. At the distance of two far-sang from Fostat, there are some ancient structures, called اهوام Ahouam; of which two are very lofty piles, and called هومان Houman: these are each, in height, four hundred گز guz†: And on the walls thereof are inscriptions written in the Greek language (يوناني); and this writing is said to signify, “the building of Houman and Sertaiar (was) in the sign Cancer‡.” These edifices are quadrangular, and gradually diminish towards the summits, which are about large enough for a camel to stand on; within them there are passages in which a man cannot go without some difficulty. And in Houman is a cleft, or excavation, under the ground, supposed to have been, with some appearance of probability, the burial-place of the ancient sovereigns of this country.

The land of واحات Wahat was a pleasant and cultivated district, with trees, and water, and many inhabitants; but none at present remain. It abounded also in fruits. From the Egyptian Saied سعيد مصر Saied Misr, to the land of واح Wahh, in the south, is a journey of three days; and from that a small desert extends towards the land of the Blacks.

The sea which borders Egypt is bitter; but where the river Nile pours into it, and overcomes it, the waters of the sea are rendered sweet. Farther out, when the waters of the Nile are confounded with the sea, the bitterness again predominates. In this sea there are islands, to which one may pass over in boats or vessels. Of these islands are تينيس Teneis (or تينيس Teines), and دمياط Damiat. In each of these agriculture is practised, and cattle are kept; and the kind of clothes called رفيع refia, (or رقيق rekia), comes from these places.

The waters of this sea are not very considerable, and vessels move on it by help of men*. It produces a certain fish مانند مشك like meshk†, which is called دلفين delfin (dolphin); and this is a fish of which if any person eat, he will be troubled with horrible dreams. From the borders of this sea, to those of the sea of شام Syria, it is all sand.

The town of اشبويهين Ashmouein is small, but well-inhabited, and improved by agriculture; it produces dates; and opposite اشبويهين Ashmouein, on the north of the river Nile, there is a little town called بوضير Bouseir, where Merwan ben Mohammed was slain. It is said that the magicians of Pharaoh were from this بوضير Beseir, (or بوضير Bouseir, as before written.)

اسوان Asouan is a place which produces dates. Agriculture is there much practised.

اخميم Akhmim is situated amid the sands of the desert; but it is inhabited, and affords dates. It is said that Dhu'l Noun‡, the Egyptian, was of this place.

فرما Ferma is situated on the sea-shore. It is a pleasant and cultivated spot. In it is the burial-place of جالينوس Jalinous.

* وکشتي در و بمردي رود

† Meshk, or mishk, signifies musk.

(Galen) the Grecian. From Ferma to تنيس Teneis is a distance of two farsang by this sea.

Teneis is a vast pile or heap erected over the bodies of the dead, which were placed one above another until they formed a pile; which pile was called تركوم Terkoum: and this must have been done before the time of Moses, on whom be the peace and blessing of God!--for, in the time of Moses, according to the religion of the Egyptians, the dead were interred---a custom which was continued afterwards by the Christians, and is still practised by the Mussulmans. The author of this book says, that he himself had seen some of those bodies in their shrouds, or winding-sheets, with bones and skeletons of immense size.

There are some places on the river Nile which the crocodiles do not infest, near Fostat and Bouseir; and the عين الشمس Aien-al-shems, or Fountain of the Sun, lies to the south of Fostat. These two places are said to have been villas or pleasure-houses of Pharaoh. On the top of Mount معظم Moazem there is a place which they call the stove or furnace (تنور) of Pharaoh.

In the vicinity of Fostat, there grows a plant, called بلسم balsam, from which the oil is extracted. This is not to be found in any other part of the world.

sion are situated قیاسه Kiasah, and جرجیر Jerjeir, and قاقور Kakour. The opposite division, on the right side of the river Nile, they call زیف Zeif. These two places contain the chief villages of Egypt. The gold mines are in the land of بجه Bajeh. From اسوان Asouan to that place is a journey of fifteen farsang. The country where those mines are situated is sandy, and without any hills, fields, or tilled land: it furnishes slaves for Egypt. There are asses and mules, of considerable value, in Egypt: no other country produces such. The district of Asouan affords asses not larger than sheep, which will not live when brought out of that country; and in the land of سعید Saied there are Slavonian asses, خران سقلابی Kheran Siklabi. The Egyptians say that the land of Khefa, or خفاکار Khefakar, was inhabited and cultivated in the time of Pharaoh.

Description of Sham, or Syria.

THE western side of Syria is bounded by روم *Roum; the eastern, by the desert from ایله Aileh to the فرات Forat (river Euphrates), and from the Euphrates to the borders of Roum. To the north of Syria lies the land of Roum; and to the south are the borders of Egypt, and the تيه بني اسرائيل Tiah beni Israel, or Desert of the Children of Israel.

* Perhaps the word دریا (Sea) has been here omitted: The Sea of Roum, or Mediterranean.

(Map of Syria.)

Of the cities and towns which are situated on the east and west of Syria, it is unnecessary here to make any mention, as we have already pointed them out in the map. Some places are called ثغور شام Seghur Sham, or frontiers of Syria: others are called جزيره Seghur Jezireh, or frontiers of Arabian Irak, or Mesopotamia, because all bordering on one half of the Euphrates belongs to Syria; and from ملطيه Meltiah to مرعش Meraash is called the Seghur of Jezireh, because people of Jezireh reside there, and it belongs to Syria.

The hills of كوه لكاه Lekam extend for two hundred farsang into Roum; and the دار اسلام Dar al'salam (the mansion of salvation or peace) is between Meraash and هارونيه Harouniah; and the عين ارباه Aein Arbah, or Fountain of Arbah. After having passed لدقيه Ladikiah, it is called كوه لكاه Mount Lekam. From that, the continuation of this mountain is called سوخ Soukh, as far as ميمهس Memehes; and from that, throughout all Syria, it is called لبنان Libnan (Lebanon), till it comes near the Sea of Kolzum (Red Sea.) The borders of فلسطين Palestine are two days journey to the west, from the place called رمع Remaa to the borders of بحور Behour; and the breadth of the borders of Palestine, on the western side, is also, from that place to بلقا Bilka, two days journey; and the land of the tribe of Lot, قوم لوط (Sodom, &c.) and بحره Baherah, and Taberah, all that is situated between the two mountains, they call غور Ghour. It is lower down than the land of Syria; and part of it is reckoned as belonging to اردن Arden, and part to Palestine. The water of Palestine is rain water. Palestine is about one half of Syria; and the chief cities of it are رمله Ramleh, and the بيت المقدس Beit-almokeds, Holy House, or Jerusalem, which is situated on a hill. Here is a mosque (مسجد), or temple, than which there is not, in all the land of the Mussulmans, one more large. Here also is the محراب Mehrab, the chief altar of David, on whom be peace!--a building of about fifty gaz high, and thirty broad, of stone. On the top of this is the Mehrab of David; and this is the first object that presents itself as one comes from Ramleh.

At a distance of six miles from Jerusalem is a village called بيت اللحم Beit Allehem (Bethlehem or Bethlem.) Here عسي Jesus, on whom be peace! was born of his mother; and it is said that the date or palm tree, of whose fruit Mary ate, and which is celebrated by mention in the Koran*, has been placed in the dome or vault which is here, and held in high veneration and respect.

From Bethlehem, on the southern side, there is a small town, called the مسجد ابراهيم Mesjed Ibrahim, or Temple of Abraham: and in the mosque where they pray on the high feasts, are the burial places of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, (may peace be on them!) and those of their wives are opposite. Here are many hills and trees: all the hills of Palestine are covered with trees; and there is much fruit, olives, and figs.

نابلس Napolis is a town of which the inhabitants are called سامريان Samaritan; a people who have not any other residence.

In the extreme borders of Palestine, in the vicinity of Egypt, there is a city, called غزه Ghazah, which هاشم بن عبدالله Hasheim ben Abdallah conquered, and in which شافعي Shafai† was born.

جبال Jebal, and شراره Sherah, are two well inhabited and pleasant districts. The chief town of Jebal is called ادره Ade- rah; of Sherah, Rouad. These have been conquered by the Arabians.

اردن Arden, the chief town of which is طبرثه Tiberthah, or Tiberiah, on the banks of the دریای کوچک Small Sea, or lake, whose waters are sweet, and its length twelve miles, and its breadth two or three farsang.---Here is a running stream of water, very warm, which goes on for about two farsang, and, when it reaches the town, is exceedingly hot.

In the district of غور Ghour, snow is almost unknown; but dates, and streams, and fountains, abound. It commences at the borders of اردن Arden; and when it passes them, it extends to the boundary of Palestine, and in like manner reaches to ایله Aileh.

صور Sour (Tyre) is a very strong town, situated on the seashore. It is the most ancient of all the cities on the coast; and all the Grecian philosophers حکبان یونان came from this place. اردن Arden was the dwelling-place of Jacob, to whom be peace!

دمشق Demeshk (Damascus) is a chief city, the right hand of the cities of Syria.* It has ample territories among the mountains; and is well watered by streams which flow around. The land about it produces trees, and is well cultivated by husbandmen. This tract is called غوطه Ghouteh. It extends about one merhileh by two. There is not, in all Syria, a more delightful place. There is a bridge in the midst of the city of Demeshk, by which a horseman may pass over the water, which goes on to the villages of Ghouteh, and runs amongst their inns, and hot-baths, and shops.

Here is one of the largest mosques in all the land of the Mussulmans, part of which was built in ancient times by the صابيان Sabians. Then it fell into the possession of the Greeks, and became a place of religious worship to them. After that, it fell into the hands of the Jews, and of certain princes who adored idols; and at that time they put to death Yahiah, the son of Zachariah, يحيى بن زكريا to whom be peace! and fixed his head upon a pole, before the gate of this temple, at the place which they call باب جرون Bab Jeroud (probably جهون Jews'-gate.) It then passed into the hands of the Christians, who performed in it, likewise, their religious ceremonies, until, at length, it came into the possession of the True Believers (the Mussulmans), to whom it serves as a mosque. At the same spot where the head of Yahia ben Zachariah had been fixed, the head of Hosein, the son of Ali, to whom be peace! was also exposed. Walid ben Abd-al-Molk, وليد بن عبد الملك in his time, caused this building to be repaired, and beautified with pavements of marble, and also pillars of variegated marble, the tops of which were ornamented with gold, and studded with precious stones, and all the ceiling he caused to be covered with gold; and it is said that he expended the revenues of all Syria on this work.

Beyond the borders of Demeshk is بعلبك Baalbek, situated on an eminence. Here are the gates of palaces, sculptured in marble; and lofty columns, also of marble. In the whole region of Syria, there is not a more stupendous or considerable edifice than this.

طرابلس Trapolis (Tripolis) is a town on the shore of the Sea of Roum, well-inhabited, and abounding in dates. The chief town of this district is حمص Hemes (Emessa), a place well-supplied with provisions, and of excellent air. The inhabitants are celebrated as being handsome. Neither scorpions nor serpents are found here. It is copiously watered; the lands are cultivated, and there are many trees. There is also a church (كليسيه a Christian church, Ecclesia), to which there is not, in size, any church of Syria equal: one half of this building is a church; the other, a mosque. The streets here are paved with stone.

ازطرسوس *Aztarsous is a castle or fortress, situated on the coast of the Sea of Roum. سلميسه Selmisa is a town on the borders of the desert: most of the inhabitants are هاشمي Hashemites. The district of Kanserin كوره قنسرين is the pass between Irak and Syria. شبرز Shebirz and حما Hema are two small towns, agreeably situated, with good water, and many trees, and much cultivated land. مصرس Mesres is a town and district supplied with rain water. خناصره Khenaserah is a small town on the borders of the desert.

غراحم Gherahelm is a district, of which the chief town is انطاكية Antakiah. After Demeshk, there is not any place more delightful. It has a fortification of stone, and abounds in plantations of palm and other trees, cultivated fields, water, and mills. Round the territories a horseman may go for two days. The water flows through the streets, and amidst the chief buildings. There is a place which they call the سخره موسي Sekhreh Mousi, or Rock of Moses, to whom be peace!

بالس Balis is a town on the banks of the river Euphrates. منج Menje is situated in the desert: rain-water is made use of there. صبيحه Saiheh is a small town, where there is a bridge of stone, called the قنطرة صبيحه Kenterah Saiheh, than which, in all the land of Islam, there is not a more extraordinary bridge. سبيساط Samisat is a town situated on the river Euphrates. حصن منصور Hysn Mansour is a small fortress, the land about which is watered with rain-water: here are oratories and mosques. هدث Hedeth and مرعش Meraash are two small towns, pleasantly situated, with trees and cultivated lands. Zeitrah زبطره is a considerable fortress in the vicinity of Roum (Natolia), and the Roumians have sacked and plundered it. Harouniah هارونيه is situated to the west of the Mount Lekam كوه لكاه : it is a small castle, erected by order of Haroun Arrasheid.

Eskanderouiah اسکندرويه is a fortress situated on the coast of the Sea of Roum : it is small, but has some plantations of date trees. Nethinan نثینان is a fortress on the sea-coast : from this place they send into Egypt and Syria the wood of the fir-tree, Keisah کيسه (صنوبر) is also a castle or fortress on the sea-shore. Aien-Zariah عين زربه is a place which produces dates and other fruits, and much corn.

Masisah مصيصة and Kufertouma کفرتوما are two towns situated on the banks of the river Jihan جیحان. Between these two towns there is a bridge of stone. The situation of these towns is so high, that if a person should look from the top of the mosque, he would see almost as far as the ocean. Adneh ادنه is a little town, about half the size of Masisah, on the banks of a small river called Seihan سیحان. The town is pleasant, and well-supplied. The river Seihan is less than the river Jihan : over it there is a very lofty bridge of stone. Both the Seihan and Jihan come from Roum.

Tarsous طرسوس is a considerable town, with a double wall of stone. The inhabitants are valiant men, horsemen, and fond of war-like achievements. It is a strong and pleasant place. From it to the borders of Roum are many hills and mountains of difficult ascent. They say that in Tarsous there are above a thousand horsemen; and in all the chief cities of Islam, such as Seiestan, and Kirman, and Pars, and Khuzistan, and Irak, and Hejaz, and Egypt, there are inns, or public places, appointed for the people of this town.

Aulas اولس is a fortress situated on the sea-shore: the inhabitants are *a people who worship God; and it is the extreme boundary of the Mussulman territories on the coast of the Sea of Roum. Rekem رقم is a town situated near Bilka بلقا: all the walls and houses are of stone, in such a manner that one would imagine they were all of one piece.

The land of the tribe of Lot (قوم لوط) is called ارض البقلوبه Aredz Almokloubah; that is, the land turned upside-down. Neither corn, nor herbage, nor cattle, are found here: the ground is black; and stones are seen scattered about, which one would imagine to be the stones showered down on that wicked race†.

Distances of Places in Sham and Jezireh.

THE length of the roads of Sham is taken from مليطيه Melitia to رميح Remah. From Melitia to منيج Menje is four days journey; from Menje to حلب Haleb, Aleppo, two days journey; from Haleb to حصص Hemess, five days journey; and from Hemess to دمشق Demeshk, five days journey; from رمله Ramlah, to رميح Remah, two days journey: total, twenty-five days journey. Between اردن Arden, and حصص Hemess, and دمشق Demeshk, the extent is not more than a journey of the city (Sodom) upside down, and rained on them stones of baked clay." The first passage is translated by Mariacci, (Alcor, Vol. II. p. 383,) "Sustulit ergo eos clamor (Gabrielis) ad ortum solis pervenientes." I have offered some remarks on this passage in the Oriental Collections, Vol. II. p. 131.

three days ; because that from Demeshk to طرابلس Trapolis is a journey of two days along the sea towards the west ; from the extremity of غوطه Ghoutah, to that place where it joins the desert towards the east, is a journey of one day ; from Hemess to سليبيه Selimiuh, in the desert, one day's journey to the east ; from طبريه Tiberiah to صور Sour, in the water (در آب), one day's journey ; from that to the borders of فيق Feik, in the territories of the بني فراره Beni Farareh, to the east, about the same distance.

Such are the length and breadth of Syria ; and the distances from one place to another are these, beginning from Palestine, which is the chief part of Syria to the south, and its capital رمله Ramlah, from which to the town of بارما Barmah is half a merhileh ; from Palestine to عسقلان Ascalon, is one merhileh, to عزة Azzah, one merhileh ; from Ramlah to the بيت المقدس Beit Almokeds, or Holy House (Jerusalem), one day's journey ; from Ramlah to قيساريه Caisariah, one day's journey ; from Ramlah to نابلس Nabolis, one day's journey ; from that to زعر Zaar, one day's journey ; from that to the كوه شراه Mount Sherah, one day's journey ; and from the Mount to the extremity of the country, three days journey.

The chief town of آردن Arden (or Orden) is طبرثه Tiber-theh, or Tiberiah ; from which to صور Sour is a journey of two farsang; from that to بانياس Banias, two days easy journey; from that to عكبه Akebseh, one day's journey. آردن Arden is the smallest district of Syria.

دمشق Demeshik is the chief town of the district of that name. From that to بعلبك Baalbek is a journey of two days; and to Trapolis, two days; and to صيدا Seida, two days; and to ادراعا Aderaa, four days journey; and to the extreme boundary of Ghouth, one day's journey; to هوران Houran and بنيه Beniah, two days journey.

The chief town of the district of قنسرين Kanserin bears the same name; but the governor's palace, the markets, great mosques, and public buildings, are at حلب Haleb. From Haleb to ثارب Thareb is one day's journey; from Haleb to قوس Kous, also one day's journey; and from Haleb to منج Menje, two days journey.

غراسم Antakiah is the chief town of the district of غراسم Gherasem. From that to لادقيه Ladikiah is a journey of three days: from that to بغراس Bagheras is one day's journey, and to ثارب Thareb, two days journey; and to Hemess, five merhileh: from that to مرعش Meraash, two days journey; and to حدث Hedeth, three days journey. This frontier has not any common capital; but each town is independent in itself.

منج Menje is situated near this frontier. From Menje to the Euphrates is one easy merhileh: from Menje to قوس Kous, two merhileh; and from Menje to ملطيه Melitiah, four days journey; and from Menje to سبيساط Samisat, two days journey; and from Samisat to حصن منصور Hysn Mansour, one day's journey; from Hysn Mansour to Melitiah, two days journey; and from Hysn Mansour to نطيره Netirah, one day's journey; and from Hysn Mansour to حدث Hedeth, one day's journey; and from Hedeth to مرعش Meraash, a journey also of one day.

Those are the distances of the ثغور جزيره Seghur Jezirah.

Now we proceed to the distances of places in the ثغور شام Seghur Sham. From اسكندرويه Eskanderouiah to انباس Anbas, is one merhileh; from Anbas to مصيصة Masisah, as far as ادثه Aditheh, one day's journey; from Aditheh to طرسوس Tarsous, one day's journey; from Tarsous to حوران Houran, two days journey; and from Tarsous to اولاس Aulas, on the Sea of Roum, two farsang: from Anbas* to كنيسه Kenisah, and هارونيه Harouniah, one day's journey, or less; and from Harouniah to Meraash, which belongs to the Seghour, or frontiers of Jezireh, is a journey of one day.

* اولاس Aulas, undoubtedly the same that was before written انباس Anbas.

Description of the Sea of Roum, or Mediterranean.

THE Sea of Roum is a bay or gulph, proceeding from the great ocean at اندلس Andalus. Between بصیره Basireh, and between the land of طنجه Tanjeh and جزیره Jezireh, there is a certain mountain, which they call جبال الطارق Jebal al Tarek, situated on the point of the borders of Andalus. At that place the breadth of this sea is twelve farsang; and it becomes broader, and more considerable, as it extends to the coast of مغرب Magreb, on the eastern side (of Gibraltar), till it approaches the land of Egypt, and from that proceeds towards Syria, along those places which we have above described: it turns, and passes by the cities of Roum, as far as انطاکیه Antakiah; then it joins the sea which forms the bay of قسطنطنیه Costantiniah, Constantinople; then it proceeds along the coast of ایناس *Ainas; then along the coast of رومیه Roumiah; and then to فرنک Frank, France, along the shore to طرسوسه Tarsousah, on the sea of Andalus; and then, continuing along the coast of Andalus, it at last joins the ocean at Jebel al Tarek, opposite Basireh, and proceeds as far as بسرین Besirin, which is the extreme point of the land of Islam.

* Or انباس Anbas.

Kelimah, or Kelmiah, is a town which belonged to the رومیان Roumians; and there is a gate at طرسوس Tarsous, which they call باب قلیه Bab Kelimah, or the Gate of Kelimah. Kelimah is at a distance from the sea. About a merhileh's distance from that, there is a village on the sea-shore, called لامس Lames; from that village the country is Roum.

Antakiah انطاکیه is a very strong fortress, belonging to the Roumians, situated on the sea-shore. It is well-inhabited, and has many villages depending on it. The bay on which it is situated is of bitter or salt water; and they call it the Bay or Gulph of Costantinah قسطنطینیه خلیج "A chain is (or may be) drawn across this gulph, to hinder any one from passing there from the sea or elsewhere;" * and this gulph falls into the Sea of Roum.

On the side of Roum there are shores which they call the coasts of Asas سواحل اساس and Roumiah رومیه. These are two well-inhabited and considerable towns, with villages and tilled lands: they belong to the Christians, and are situated near the sea. Asas is the place from which came the حکیمان یونان Grecian Philosophers. Roumiah is one of the props of the kingdom of the Christians; they have one throne (کرسی) at Antakiah, one at اسکندریه Eskanderouiah, and one at Roumiah; and the throne which they have at بیت المقدس *Beit al Moked*s (Jerusalem) did not exist in the time of the Apostles (حواريان), but has been introduced for the greater honour and aggrandisement of that city. From those places the sea proceeds towards the coast of فرانك Frank, and, passing by سقاليه Sikaliah (Sicily), goes on to طرسوسه Tarsousah, belonging to the land of اندلس Andalus.

We have already spoken of the cities, towns, and coasts, of Magreb, and Egypt, and Syria, to the extremity of Islam: it is not necessary to say more on those subjects. In this Sea of Roum there are islands, great and small. سقاليه Sikaliah is the most considerable of them all. There are, besides, اقريطس Akrites, قبرس Kibres, and the mount called جبل القلال Jebel al Kellal.

Sikaliah is near Frank: it is an island of near nine merhileh in extent; and produces more corn and provisions, male slaves and female attendants, and cattle, than any other island belonging to the Mussulmans, in this sea. Akrites is a smaller island than Sikaliah: it is inhabited by the Mussulmans and غازيان Ghazians; and amongst them there is a tribe of Christians. The inhabitants of Kibres are all Christians. Akrites is a very strong island: at present the inhabitants are on terms of peace with the Mussulmans. They bring مصطكي Mastiky from Kibres to the countries of Islam.

The place called جبل القلال Jebel al Kellal has been ruined, but is now inhabited by Mussulmans; and it affords sufficient water and land. It is, in extent, two days journey, situated on the frontiers of Frank; but the Franks have not been able to get possession of it. There are not, any where, shores so delightfully interspersed with buildings on both sides, as the shores of this sea. Here the ships of Mussulmans and of Infidels sail about, and sometimes oppose each other in battle, to the number of an hundred ships on each side.

Description of Jezireh, or Mesopotamia.

THE tract of country called Jezireh is that which lies between the rivers دجله Dejleh (Tigris) and فرات Forat (Euphrates.) The Forat rises in Roum, at a distance of two days journey from ملطیه Melitiah, and then proceeds to سبیساط Samisat. On the eastern side of the river Dejleh, and on the western side of the Forat, are various cities and towns, which are reckoned, on account of their vicinity, as belonging to Jezireh, although in fact not so.

Now we shall lay before the reader a map of this country, with the names of its several cities.

Distances of Places in Jezireh.

FROM the source of the Euphrates (فرات Forat) to the borders of Melitiah, two days journey : from Samisat to حسرمنج Hasermenje, four days journey ; to رقه Raccah, two days journey : from Racca to انبار Anbar, twenty merhileh ; from Tacrith to انبار Anbar, two days journey ; from Tacrith to موصل Mousul, six days journey ; from Mousul to آمد Amid, four days journey ; from Amid to Samisat, three days journey ; from Samisat to Melitiah, three days journey ; from Mousul to بلد Beled, one merhileh ; and from Beled to نصیبین Nisibin, three merhileh ; from Nisibin to راس العین Ras-al-aïen, three merhileh ; from Ras-al-aïen to رقه Racca, a journey of four days.

ذکر شهرها و بقعها جزیره

Of the Towns and Districts of Jezireh.

Nisibin is rendered, by its river and delightful verdure, one of the pleasantest places of Jezireh. It is a considerable town, situated on a level ground, watered by a stream which issues from a mountain called بالوصا Balousa, and thence proceeds among the gardens and corn-fields. كردان Curdan is a place inhabited by Christians. It produces deadly scorpions: And there is a very strong castle or fortress, which cannot be taken by force of arms; and the hill on which it is situated abounds in serpents, whose stings occasion death. In the vicinity of Nisibin there is a mountain called ماردين Mardein, which, from the bottom to the summit, measures two farsang; and on it is another impregnable castle. This mountain produces chrystal (بلور).

موصل Mousul is a city, the buildings of which are all of stone and mortar: it is a considerable place. بلد Beled is a small town on the banks of the river Dejleh (Tigris) to the west; and there is a stream running out of the Dejleh: it is planted with trees, and has some cultivated lands. سنجار Senjar is a town situated near a mountain, which produces date trees in great number; and in all the land of Jezireh there is not any other place that produces dates, except ميلث Meileth, on the banks of the Euphrates.

انبار دارا Anbar Dara is a small town, with water and cultivated lands. كفرتوما Kufertouma is situated on a plain: it is larger than Dara (the Anbar Dara before mentioned); it has streams, and trees, and cultivated fields. راس العين Ras-al-aien is likewise situated on a level ground. Cotton grows here in great abundance. Near three hundred streams proceed from this spot: the water is so clear, that one may see whatever is at the bottom. Those streams are collected together, and are the source of the river خابوران Khabouran, on which, as far as قرقسيا Karkesia, there are about twenty hamlets and villages. Ras-al-aïen is larger than Kufertouma, and has many trees, and much cultivated land.

آمد Amid is situated on the eastern side of the Dejleh (Tigris), and has strong walls, trees, and cultivated lands. جزیره ابن عمر Jezireh Ebn Omar is a small town, with some trees, on the western side of the river Dejleh. سپساط Samisat is the last town of Jezireh, situated on the east of the Dejleh and Forat. ملطیه Melitiah, and the ثغور شام Seghour Sham, or frontiers of Syria, as we before mentioned, are reckoned as belonging to Jezireh, because the people of that province occasionally reside in those places. حدیثه Haditha is situated on the banks of the Dejleh, to the east; it has many corn-fields, trees, and gardens. The river Dejleh runs by the skirts of the کوه بارما Mount Barma; and “on these hills there are springs or fountains that yield gold dust and bitumen*”; and these mountains extend through Jezireh towards the west†, till they come to the borders of Kirman : and it is said that these are the mountains of *Masindan.

Description of Diar Modhar.

Rakka and Rafika are two towns of this province, situated on the eastern side of the river Forat; they both have mosques, and are planted with trees: and on the western side of the Forat, between Rakka and Bales, is the burial-place of Omru-ben-Yaser.

Jedan is a town of middling size, inhabited by a race of people whom they call Sabians. Their place of religious worship is on a lofty pile or heap (بر تلي بلند), which they ascribe to Abraham, on whom be the blessing of God! This place they hold in high veneration; esteeming it holy, and making pilgrimages to it from other quarters. There are but few trees and little water at Jedan.

Zoha is a place of nearly the same size. The Christians are here predominant. In this town there are above three hundred churches or monasteries (سینصد دیر زیادت). The land is well watered and cultivated; and there is here a Christian church (کلیسای), than which in all Islam there is not any greater.

جسرمنج Jasir Menje and سہیسات Samisat, are two towns, with gardens and cultivated lands, well-watered; both situated on the western side of the river Forat. قرقیسا Karkisa is on the banks of the river خابور Khabour: it abounds in fine prospects, cultivated lands, and gardens. رحبه مالک بن طوق Rahabah Malek ben Tawk is a town, well-watered, and planted with trees, situated on the eastern side of the river Forat. ہیث Heith is on the western side of the Forat: it has a strong castle, and is opposite تکریت Tacrith. Tacrith is situated on the western side of the river Dejeleh. انبار Anbar is a town of middling size. ابو العباس القايم بالله Abou al Abbas al Kaiem Billah resided there, and the remains of his palace are still visible. It is a pleasant place, producing excellent crops, and good provisions and dates. The territories of this place are extensive; and there is in Jezireh a race of people, from ربعیه Rebaia and مضر Modhar, who possess horses, and mules, and sheep. Some of these people dwell in the desert, and some in the villages on the borders of Jezireh.

زابین Zabein (the two Zabs) are considerable streams; each about half as great as the Dejeleh. They rise among the mountains of آذر بايگان Azerbaigan. Of these the larger is that which runs towards حديثه Haditheh. These streams form part of the river ديله Dejleh, and water the district of سامره Samerah.

عانه Aaneh is a small town, situated where the river Forat forms a bay or gulph. This place is called the حصن مسله Hysn Moselamah. They say that it belonged to Moselamah ben Abdal Mulk. A branch of the Ommiades (بنی امیه Beni-Ommiah) is settled there. It is a pleasant place, and well-supplied with provisions. It belonged to عباس بن العبر الغنوي Abbas ben al Omar al Ghanoui.

تل بني سيار Tel beni Seiar (the heap or pile of the sons of Seiar) is a small town, inhabited by a tribe of Arabs of the بنی غني Beni Ghunni.

جودي Joudi is a mountain near نيسين Nisibin. It is said that the Ark of Noah (to whom be peace!) rested on the summit of this mountain. At the foot of it there is a village called ثبابين The-mabin; and they say that the companions of Noah descended here from the ark, and built this village.

سروج Seruje is a large town, abounding in fruit, at the distance of one merhileh from the town of جران Jeran.

Description of Irak Arabi.

THE length of Irak is taken from تکریت Tacrith to عبادان Abadan; and the breadth, from بغداد Baghdad to کوفه Cufa, to قدسیه Cadesiah, to حلوان Holwan; and from واسط Waset, to کلب Kelb, and قرقوب Karkoub; and from بصره Basrah to the borders of حی Hey; and from Tacrith to شهرزور Shehr-zour, and the borders of Holwan and صیروان Seirwan, and صیبره Seimereh, and the borders of طیب Teib, and of سوس Sus; again to Hey, to the sea. From Tacrith to the sea there is, according to the line we have described, a considerable inflexion, or winding, towards the west, behind the سواد *souad of Basrah in the desert; to the souad of Basrah, as far as بطایح Betaiah; to the souad of کوفه Cufa, to the river Forat, to انبار Anbar, to تکریت Tacrith, between the rivers Dejleh and Forat; and in this line of borders from the sea to Tacrith, there is likewise a winding or curve.

* The villages and small towns of Irak are, in general, called souad.

From Waset to بصره Basrah is a distance of eight merhileh; from Cufa to Waset, six merhileh; from Basrah to the sea, two merhileh; from Holwan to Cadesiah, eleven merhileh. The breadth, from سامره Samereh, on the banks of the river Dejleh, to the borders of شهرزور *Shehrzour and آذربايجان Azerbaijan, is a distance of fifteen merhileh, or perhaps one merhileh more; and the breadth at Waset, four merhileh; and the ذکر شهرهای عراق عرب

Account of the Cities and Towns of Irak Arabi.

بصره Basrah is a considerable city, the foundation of which was laid in the time of الخطاب عمر بن Omar ebn Alkhitab--- (may God reward him!)---and the building performed by عنبه ابن غزوان Atbah ebn Ghazouan. On the western side of Basrah the desert approaches, which is without water. "It is said, that the rivers or streams of Basrah were reckoned in the time of Belal ben Abi Bordeh, and amounted to the number of one hundred and twenty thousand streams, on which boats were employed. This anecdote astonished me: I went there, and beheld, within the space of about an arrow's single flight, several small streams, on which little boats were employed*."

گویند که رودهای بصره بشمرند در روزگار بلال بن ابی برد صد و بیست هزار رود برآمد که زورق در آن کار کردی و موا این سخن شکفت ابد آنجا رسیدم و دیدم که در مقدار یک تهر پرتاب بسیار رودهای کوچک بوده که زورقها کوچک در آن کار میکردند

The extent of Basrah comprises about fifty farsang from سي* Sey, to عبادان Abadan, which is the palm-plantation (نخلستان) of Basrah. At Basrah is the tomb of طلحه بن عبد الله Talhah ben Abdallah; may God reward him! And there are several places, also, to which pilgrimages are made; such as the tomb of الحرا بن سير Al Hara ben Serir, and other learned men. The river زهاد Zohad runs four farsang: it is so thickly interspersed with villas and gardens, that you would imagine the whole place was one garden. Many streams belong to this place, and palm-trees are here in great number. When the water of the sea rises or increases, the waters of those streams go back amongst the gardens, and fields, and orchards; and when the water of the sea sinks or diminishes, the river-waters return to their channels, but are all brackish, or of a bitter taste. ابله Ableh is situated on this river; and there is a dangerous place, called Hawer Ableh, in it, against which vessels from the sea must be well guarded, lest they should be sunk there. Ableh is a small town, but well supplied with provisions, and pleasantly situated, one side being towards the Dejlch. That river (above mentioned) comes from the Dejlch, in a direct line to عبادان Abadan. The soil or earth of Basrah is white. The towns of this district are, Ableh, منتح Mentah, and مدار Medar; all small towns, situated on the river Dejlch. The chief of these is Ableh.

* Or حي Hey.

In the territories of Basrah are أحما Ahma and بطلانج Betalah. Boats or vessels are moved here by the strength of men. Near this place are great gulphs or abysses: one would imagine that the land had been dry at some former time; and it is possible that the water, making its way from the rivers of Basrah, had settled wherever it found a deep furrow or pit.

واسط Waset is situated on the two banks of the Dejleh. It has been built since the introduction of Islam. The foundation was laid by هجاج يوسف Hejaje Yusuf. It is strongly built; and the castle of Hejaje is there, on the western side, with a few fields belonging to it. Waset is a populous town, and well supplied with provisions---of a purer air than Basrah: the vicinity of it is planted with gardens, and well cultivated.

كوفه Cufa is smaller than Basrah, but resembles it in some respects. The air and water of Cufa are better than those of Basrah. It is situated near the river Forat. The suburbs of Cufa were built by سعد بن وقاص Saad ben Wakas.

قادسيه Cadesiah, and حيره Heirah, and خورنق Khawr-nak, are situated on the skirts of the desert, towards the west; the river (Euphrates) running by them on the east: they afford dates, and have some cultivated lands. From Cufa to these places is a distance of one merhileh. Heirah is an ancient city, and large; but when Cufa was built, Heirah was drained of its inhabitants.

Heirah enjoys a pure air, and is one farsang distant from Cufa. At Cufa is situated the tomb or meshed of the Commander of the Faithful, علي بن ابي طالب Ali ben Abi Taleb, on whom be peace! Some say it is in the cloister at the entrance of the chief mosque; and others say it is at a distance of two farsang. قادسيه Cadesiah is situated on the border of the desert: it has running water, and cultivated lands. From Cadesiah, on the confines of Irak, until you come to مدينة السلام Medinah Alssalam, the city of Islam), there is not any running water.

بغداد Baghdad is a celebrated city, erected since the introduction of Islam. It was built by ابو جعفر منصور *Abou Jaffer Mansour. At first the western quarter was built, and every one settled himself there in any manner he thought fit. Afterwards it became populous; and when مهدي Mohdi succeeded to the khalifat†, he encamped his troops on the eastern side. Buildings were then erected, and that quarter also became thickly inhabited. The villas and palaces extended for near two farsang from Baghdad to the river, and this city became the residence of the khalifs. The buildings were continued from the river to the district of واسط Waset, and from above the Dejleh to شباسيه

* This Khalif (of the House of Abbar) began to reign A. H. 136, (A. D. 754.) The foundation of Baghdad was laid in the year of the Hegira 145.

† He began to reign A. H. 158, (A. D. 775.)

Shemasiah, a distance of nearly five farsang. The eastern side they call باب الطاق Bab al Tauk Resafeh, and also عسكر المهدي Asker al Mohdi. It is said that the name Bab al Tauk is derived from a certain great dome, or cupola, in the principal bazar or market-place, called سوق العظيم Souk al Azim.

Resafeh is a considerable suburb, built by رشيد Rashid, near the مسجد جامع Mesjed Jamia: the western side is called كرخ Korkh. Here are three mosques; one, the Mesjed Jamia al Mansour; another, situated at the Bab al Tauk; and the other, at the دار الخلافة Dar al Khalifah, or palace of the Khalif: and the buildings continue as far as كلوازي Kelwazi, where there is a mosque. Over the river Dejleh a bridge has been constructed of boats; and from the دروازه خراسان gate of Khorasan, to the place called باب الياسرته Bab alia Sertheh, the breadth of the city at both sides is about six miles.

Korkh is very well inhabited, and considerable commerce is there carried on; but the trees and streams are on the eastern side. The water they drink is of the river نهروان Nehrwan. On the western side there is a stream, called the نهر عيسى Nehr Isa, or the river of Jesus---a branch of the Forat, which, passing by Baghdad, falls into the Dejleh.

Between Baghdad and كوفه Cufa there are many districts and villages, through which run streams from the river Forat. Here is situated the town of صرصر Sarsar, on the stream called Sarsar, at a distance of three farsang from Baghdad. It is a pleasant town, with land well cultivated. After that, at a distance of two farsang, is the نهر الملك Nehr al Molk (or the King's river.) There is a bridge over it; and it is much more considerable than the river of Sarsar. The district of Nehr al Molk is better cultivated, and affords more corn and fruits, than Sarsar. From that one proceeds to قصر ابن هبیره Kesr Ebn Hobeireh, situated on the river Forat, and one of the most considerable places between Cufa and Baghdad. Here are several streams, so that the water is much augmented, and passes on to the town of سورا Soura. The great river Forat has not any branch more considerable than this. From Soura it proceeds to the souad (سواد) or villages in the neighbourhood of Cufa; and after that falls into the river of بٹایح Betaiah.

کربلا Kerbela is situated on the west of the Forat, opposite to or near قصر ابن هبیره Kesr ebn Hobeireh.

سامره Samereh is altogether situated to the east*. In this quarter there is not any running water, but the river Al-katoul, نهر لقاطول that runs at some distance from the town. Buildings, and streams, and trees, are opposite, on the western side, and extend for near one merhileh. The first founder of this place was معتصم Motasem; and it has since fallen into the hands of متوكل *Motawakel, and is all in ruins, so much that within the space of a farsang there is not any building or cultivated land to be seen. The air and fruits of Samareh are better than those of Baghdad.

* سامره چهلاد در شرقیست

نهروان Nehrwan is situated at the distance of four farsang from Baghdad. A considerable stream flows there, and proceeds under the دار الخلافه Dar al Khalifah, in the souad of Baghdad, to the place which they call اسكاف بني حنيد Askaf beni Haneid, and other districts; and when one comes from Nehrwan to دسكروه Deskereh, the waters are less, and the dates fewer: and from Deskereh to the borders of حلوان Holwan is a desert, without any buildings or inhabited places between it and Samereh, or between شهرزور Shehrzour and the borders of تكريث Tacrith.

مدائين Madaïen is a little town, at the distance of one merhileh from Baghdad. In former times it was a very considerable city, and a favourite dwelling-place of kings. The ايوان كسري Aiwan Kesri† is situated there, built of stone and mortar. The

* Motawakel became Khalif in the year of the Hegira 232, (A. D. 847.) For anecdotes relative to the building of Catoul and Samareh by the Khalif Motasseem, see D'HERBELOT's Bibliot. Orient. Art. MOTASSEM.

† Called also the طاق كسري Tawk-i-Kesri, or palace of the Persian monarchs, styled Kistrus, or Kesris. It was built by Nushirvan, in the middle of the sixth century of the Christian æra.

Kesris had not any edifices greater than this; and Madaïen was larger than any place, except Baghdad, which we have before described.

* Babel بابل is a small village, but the most ancient spot in all Irak. The whole region is denominated Babel, from this place. The kings of Canaan کنعان resided there, and ruins of great edifices still remain. I am of opinion, that, in former times, it was a very considerable place. They say that Babel was founded by Zohak Piurasp ضحاک پیوراسپ†; and there was Abraham (to whom be peace!) thrown into the fire. There are two heaps, one of which is in a place called Koudi Tereik کودی طریق, the other, Koudi Derbar دربار: in this the ashes still remain; and they say that it was the fire of Nimrod آتش نهرود into which Abraham was cast; may peace be on him!

Madaïen مداین is situated on the east of the river Dejleh; and they reckon it one merhileh from Baghdad to that place. It is said that Zhu l Kernein ذولقرنین (Alexander the Great) found at that place the divine mandate, (i. e. died there); but I suspect that this tradition is not true, because he was poisoned at the time of his returning from Cheen, and his coffin was taken to Alexandria to his mother. It is also said, that there has been a bridge at Madaïen, on the river Dejleh; but I did not see any vestiges of it.

عكبرا Akbera, and بردان Berdan, and نعبانیه Neamaniah, and دیر العاقول Deir-alaakoul, and دجيل Dejeil, and جرجرايا Jerjeraya*, and فم الصلح Fomas'salah, and نهر سايس Nehr Saies, and other places on the banks of the river Dejleh, which we have mentioned, are situated one near another, and are nearly equal in greatness and littleness.

حلوان Holwan is a well-inhabited and pleasant town. After Cufa, and Basrah, and Waset, and Baghdad, and Samereh, and Hobeireh, there is not any city more considerable in Irak. Snow falls there; and on the mountains in its vicinity there is at all times snow.

دسکره Deskereh is a populous and pleasant place, with a strong castle, and corn fields. It is said that a king† from time to time resided there, on which account it was styled دسکره البک Deskereh al Molk. From Deskereh to above Samereh,

* In the Eton MS. this name is written جرجرانا Jerherana.

† According to the Persian manuscript, intituled لب التواریک Leb-al-Touarikh, this castle of Deskereh was built by Hermuz, the son of Shapur, third king of the Sassanian or fourth dynasty, who began to reign A. D. 272. See "Epitome of the Ancient History of Persia," p. 42.

till one comes near عايث Aayeth in this line, and likewise to the borders of the district of Waset, from the borders of Irak to the borders of كوه *Kouh, the buildings are few, and the greater part is pasture land of the Arabs. Thus, to the west of Tacrith, to Anbar, between the rivers Dejleh and Forat, there are not any buildings, unless those opposite (or near) Samereh : almost all the rest is the bare and barren desert.

It were unnecessary to dwell longer on the account of Irak, as it is a country so famous and so well known amongst men.

ذکر دیار خوزستان

Description of the Province of Khuzistan.

THE eastern boundaries of Khuzistan are the borders of پارس Pars and سپاهان Spahaun†. Between the borders of Pars and of Spahaun, there is a certain river called نهر طاب Nehr Tab, in the vicinity of ماهي رویان Mahi-rooyan : from that, the boundary is between دورق Dourek and Mahi-rooyan towards the sea-side. On the western side, the boundaries of Khuzistan are the territories of Waset, and that place which they call دورابواستی Durabouasty. On the north it has the borders of صیمره Seimereh, and کرخه Kurkheh, and لور Lour, as far as the borders of جبال Jebal, adjoining the territories of Spahaun. It is said that Lour was once reckoned as belonging to Khuzistan; but at present it is comprehended within Jebal.

The boundaries of Khuzistan towards Pars and صفاهان Sfahan, and the borders of Jebal and Waset, are straight lines on the four sides: But on the southern side, from عبادان Abadan, to the villages about Waset, the boundary is an irregular line; and from Abadan to the sea, and the borders of Pars: then this southern boundary proceeds along the sea shore; then to the Dejleh, and passes from بارما Barma: thence winds from above مفتح Mefteh and مدار Medar, among the villages of Waset, there whence we first set out.

کوره Koureh Ahwaz is also called هرمز شهر Hormuz Shehr. The other places of Khuzistan are the لشکر Shehr Leshkur, which they also call عسکر مکرم Asker Mokrem; شوشتر Shushter; جندی شاپور Jondi Shapour; سوس Sus; رام هرمز Ram Hormuz; and بازار Bazar: all these are the names of cities, but Bazar, which they call سوق Souk, and its town دورق Dourek; ايدح Aidah, نهر تيري Neher Tiri, حومه السان Houmah al net, خايزان Khaizan, حومه اسنبيل Houmeh al San, سوق اسنبيل Souk asunbeil, مبادر الكبير Mebader al Kebri, حي مبادر الصغري Mebadar al Sagheri, طب Teb, كليونان Keliwan, are all towns of this district. حصن Bosi, ارم Arem, سوق الاربعاء Souk al Arbaa, سليبانان Selsan, سلسان Basan, هسن مهدي Hysn Mohdi, باسان Basan, سلسان Selsan, سوليومانان Solymanan, قرقوب Carcoub, بردون Berdoun, and كركهه Karkheh.

The land of Khuzistan is level. It has many running streams, the chief of which is the river of Shushter: and King Shapour * caused to be constructed on this river a wall (or mound) called شادروان Shadervan; by means of which the town of Shushter, situated on an eminence, might be supplied with water. This river comes from لشكر Leshkur (or Asker Mokrem) to اهواز Ahwaz, and falls into the river سدreh Sedreh, رود سدreh and goes on to the Hysn Mohdi, on the sea side. Another river of Khuzistan is called نهر البشركان Neher al Mushirkan, on which, at Leshkur, a great bridge has been erected; and by this river one may go from Leshkur to Ahwaz, a distance of eight farsang: but

* Shapour Zhulestaf, who began to reign A. D. 309. He was the eighth king of the fourth or Sassanian dynasty. (See "Epitome of the Ancient History of Persia," p. 46, &c.) The Tarikh Guzideh, and other MSS. speak of this Shadervan, in passages which shall be given at length in a future work on Asiatick Geography.

when one has gone six farsang, all the water is drained off, for various purposes of husbandry and agriculture; and for two farsang the bed of the river is altogether dry. In the land of Khuzistan there is not any place more populous or cultivated than Musherkan.

The streams of Khuzistan, from Ahwaz, and Dourek, and Shushter, and all that rise in this quarter, are collected together at Hysn Mohdi, and there, forming one great river, fall into the sea. There is not any of the sea in Khuzistan, except a little of the پارسی دریای Persian Sea, from ماهی رویان Mahi rooyan, to near سلیمانان Solymanan, opposite عبادان Abadan: nor is there in all Khuzistan, any mountain, nor sand, except at Shushter, and جندی شاپور Jondi Shapour, and ایذج Aidej, as far as the borders of صفهان Sfahan: all the rest is soft clay and level ground: And in any of the cities of Khuzistan I know not that they drink well-water: and the land of this province is more dry, in proportion as it is distant from the river Dejleh: that part nearer the Dejleh is like the soil of Basrah, and that region.

Throughout Khuzistan there is not either ice or snow; nor is there any part of it which does not afford dates. It is a very unhealthy country. All kinds of fruit are to be found in Khuzistan, except walnuts (کردکان), and the fruit of trees peculiar to a cold climate.

For the greater part, Arabick and Persian are spoken in this province: there is also a particular dialect in Khuzistan. The fashion of the people, in their dress, resembles that of the inhabitants of Irak. They are in general of bad dispositions; and mostly of a yellow complexion, with scanty beards; and of the معتزلي Motazelite sect (Mahommedan schismaticks.)

Among the wonders of Khuzistan, is the Shadervan of Shat-pour (before mentioned) at Shushter. It is said to be a mile in length, constructed of stone and mortar, for the purpose of conducting water to Shushter.

In the city of سوس Sus, there is a river; and I have heard, that, in the time of ابو موسي اشعري Abou Mousa Ashoari, a coffin was found there: and it is said the bones of Daniel the Prophet (to whom be peace!) were in that coffin. These the people held in great veneration; and in time of distress, or famine from droughts, they brought them out, and prayed for rain. Abou Mousa Ashoara ordered this coffin to be brought, and three coverings or cases to be made for it; the first, or outside one, of which was of boards, exceedingly strong; and caused it to be buried, so that it could not be viewed. A bay or gulf of the river came over this grave, which may be seen by any one who dives to the bottom of the water.

There is also, in the district of سنبیل Sumbeil, near the borders of Pars, a mountain, from which fire issues at all times. At night this fire gives light; and smoke comes forth in the day-time: and the general opinion is, that there is here a fountain of نفت Naphta, or of pitch (زفت), which has taken fire. There is also a species of scorpion (کژدم) which they call کزوره kezoureh: they are like the leaves of انجدان anjedan (the herb laserpitium or pellitory), and are more destructive than serpents.

Very rich garments of brocade are manufactured at Shushter. At Sus there is a species of orange, which they call پنچ انگشت penj-angusht, (or five fingers,) said to be exceedingly fragrant. In this district there is a place called بضي Bosi, where they weave beautiful tapestry; as also at کلیوان Keliwan, and at بردون Berdoun.

جندی شاپور Jondi Shapour, or گندی شاپور Gondi Shapour, is a considerable city, populous and pleasant, abounding in dates and the produce of agriculture; یعقوب بن لیث Iacoub ben Leith, of the Soffarian Dynasty*, resided in this city; and his tomb is there. نهر تیری Neher Tiri is a town in which they manufacture garments like those of Baghdad. هی Hey is a town with territories dependent on it, and cultivated lands, with date trees in abundance: the imam of the Motezalah sect ابو علي Abu Aly, was of this place. At زاویه Zawieh, near حصن مهدي Hysn Mohdi, on the sea-side, a great many streams are collected into one body of water, affected by tides, flux and reflux. طيب Teib is remarkable for its manufactory of شلوار بند shelwar bend, or fastenings for breeches and drawers; they are like those made in Roum: and none are found equal to them in any place except Armenia.

لور Lour is a pleasant and well-inhabited place; the mountain air prevails there: it was formerly reckoned as belonging to Khuzistan: but now they comprehend it within the territories of کوهستان Kouhestan. سنبیل Sumbeil is a district, which, in the time of محمد بن واصل Mohammed ben Wasel, was reckoned among the territories of Pars; at present it belongs to the province of Khuzistan. نط Nat and خایزان Khaizan are situated on a river. اسل Asel has a small plantation of date trees: there was a battle at this place, in which, it is said, forty men of شراه Sherah defeated a thousand men of the army of Baghdad. ارغان Arghan is a town where دوشاب *doushab is made, and sent to all parts of the world. مبادر الکبری Mebader al Kebri, and مبادر الصغری Mebader al Sagheri (the greater and lesser), are two well-inhabited and pleasant places, abounding in dates.

Distances of Places in Khuzistan.

FROM Pars to Irak there are two roads; one by the way of Basrah, the other by way of Waset. The Basrah road is this: From ارغان Arghan to اسل Asel, two easy merhileh; from that to a village called دیدان Deidan, one merhileh; from Deidan to دورق Dourek, and from that to ساسان Sasan, a pleasant town, through which a river flows: from Sasan to حصن مهدي Hysn Mohdi, is a journey of two merhileh: from these two places one must go by water: and from Hysn Mohdi to بنات Benat, two merhileh; and they go from Dourek to باسان Basan by water, it being much easier than going by land. This is the extreme boundary of Khuzistan. Benat is situated on the banks of the river Dejleh; and, if one chooses he may go by water to Ablah, or by land, crossing over when he comes opposite Ablah.

The road from Pars to Irak, by way of Waset, is from Arghan to بازار Bazar, one merhileh; from that to رامز Ramuz (probably for رام هرمز Ram Hormuz), two merhileh; from Ramuz to لشکر Leshkur, or Asker Mokrem, three merhileh; from that to شوشتر Shushter, one merhileh: from Shushter to جندی شاپور

Jondi Shapour, one merhileh; and from Jondi Shapour to سوس Sus, one merhileh; and from that to قرقوب Corcoub, one merhileh. From Shushter to Jondi Shapour, is one merhileh; from that to طیب Teib, one merhileh; this place borders on the territories of Waset. From Leshkur to اهواز Ahwaz, is one merhileh; from Ahwaz to دورق Dourak, three merhileh; and this is a shorter way from Leshkur to Waset than that which passes by Shushter. From Leshkur to ایدج Aidej is four merhileh; from Ahwaz to Ramuz, three merhileh, " because Ahwaz and Leshkur are situated on the same line, and Ramuz forms a triangle with them*." From Leshkur to بازار Bazar, one merhileh; and from Bazar to Hysn Mohdi, one merhileh; from Ahwaz to نهر تیری Neher Tiri, one day's journey; and from Sus to بصی Bosi, not so much as one merhileh; and from Sus to بردون Bardoun, one merhileh; and from Sus to متوت Matout†, one merhileh.

Those are the whole of the distances, and stages in the province of Khuzistan.

THERE are five Kourehs in this province, the most considerable of which is the Koureh of Istakhar: اصطخر کوره Ardeshir Dereh, in which are the cities of شیراز Shiraz and سیراف Siraf. جور Jaur also belongs to this district of Ardeshir, because it was built by him, and was his capital. ارغان Arghan is also a large city. The کوره شاپور Koureh Shapour is the smallest of these districts of Pars: the town is called after Shapour, who built it, in the vicinity of کازرون Cazeroun.

But there are five places in Pars, which they call زم Zem *. The signification of this word is, a tribe, or race (Arab. قبيله). Some of these Curds maintain two hundred persons, such as shepherds, and labourers, and grooms, and boys or servants, and such like. Their number cannot be ascertained.

THERE are certain cities surrounded with strong walls; and others, in which there are citadels with strong outworks; and there are some castles, exceedingly strong, situated on hills and mountains. Among the cities which have citadels, is اصطخر Istakhar, round the castle of which are strong fortifications. بیضا Beiza has a citadel with fortifications; also سرمه Sermeh, and کلید Keleid: کرنه الاس Kurnah allas, in Persian called دھیہ مورد Dhey Moured, has an ancient دژ dez, or castle; and the fortifications of شیراز Shiraz have a کهندهز kohendez; or an ancient castle. جور Jour has a citadel, but no outworks. کازرون Kazeroun, has a kohendez also, with fortifications. فسا Fesa, has a kohendez, with fortifications. دارابجرد Darab-jerd has a castle and walls. And I have heard, that in the province of Pars there are more than five celebrated castles, situated in towns and on hills, which no king has ever been able to take. One of them is the castle of عباره Ebn Omareh, قلعه ابن عباره which they call قلعه دانبان Kelaa Danban. There the family of Omareh used to seize upon every tenth ship. The castle of کادبان Kadban is situated on a mountain: neither محمد بن واصل Mohammed ben Wasel, with his army, nor احمد بن الحسین Ahmed ben Allosein, were able to take it.

The castle of سعيد آباد Saied Abad (the residence of Good Fortune) is one farsang from the Kourch of Istakhar. It was originally called the Castle of اسفندیار Asfendiar. In the time of the Commander of the Faithful, the Prince of the Saints of God, علي بن ابيطالب Ali ben Abitaleb, to whom be peace! this castle was the residence of زيد بن اميه Zeyad ben Ommiah, and from that circumstance was called after him. In the time of the بنی امیه Beni Ommiah, جعفر منصور بن محمد Mansour ben Mohammed ben Jaffer was Governor of Pars, and resided in this castle, which then received its name from him. Some time after that, it was ruined; and soon again repaired by محمد بن واصل Mohammed ben Wasel, who was Governor of Pars. When it was taken by يعقوب بن ليث Yacoub, ben Leith, he caused it to be once more demolished; it was, however, again repaired, and they used it as a prison.

The castle of اسکنون Asknoun is supplied with water by a stream flowing from the heights of مانین Manein, and it is very difficult of access. The castle of خودرث Khoudερth is situated on the borders of Kam Firouz: it is strong, and difficult of access. The castle of ارجان Arjan is exceedingly strong; and it is impossible for me to describe all the castles which cannot be taken either by force or stratagem.

Of the Lakes of Pars.

THE Persian Sea is a bay of that great ocean which extends as far as چین China, along the coast of Hindoostan. In Persian it is called the Sea of Pars, or of کرمان Kirman, because that none of the countries situated on it are more populous, cultivated, or delightful, and because, in ancient times, the kings of Pars were the most powerful and illustrious; and even at this present time the people of Pars are famous in all quarters.

There is a small lake in the Koureh of Shapour, at the Desht ^{دشت} (or waste) of ^{ارزن} Arzen, the length of which is ten farsang: its waters are sweet and pleasant; they were at one time dried up; no water remained in this place: all the small sturgeon (^{ماهی شیر}) are taken here. There is another small lake in the Koureh of Shapour, near ^{کارزین} Karzein, the length of which is about ten farsang. Near ^{مور} Mour the water is bitter, or saltish; and there is much fishing in it.

The lake ^{حیکان} Heikan is of bitter water: it is twelve farsang in length. Salt is collected on its banks. It is part of ^{اردشیر کوره} Ardeshir Koureh, and they say belongs to ^{اردشیر} Ardeshir Khereh. Its beginning is at the distance of two farsang from Shiraz, and it ends near the borders of Khuzistan. The lake of ^{سفهویه} Sefhouiah is near eight farsang in length: it affords much fishing: On its banks are thick forests, and reeds or canes in great abundance: it belongs to the borders of Istakhar.

اصطخر *Istakhar is a city neither small nor great, more ancient than any city whatsoever of Pars. The extent of it is about one mile; and the sovereigns of Pars had their dwellings there, and Ardeshir resided in that place; and there is a tradition that Solomon, the Prophet (the blessing of God be on him!) used to set out from تبرثه Tabertha† in the morning, and at night arrive at Istakhar. There is in Istakhar a mosque, which they call the Mosque of Solomon, the son of David; and some people affirm that جم Jem, who reigned before ضحاک Zohak, was Solomon; but that opinion is erroneous. In ancient times Istakhar was well inhabited; and the bridge called Pool-i-Khorasan پول خراسان or the Khorasan bridge, is without the city.

Jawr was built by Ardeshir. It is said that this place was formerly a small lake, and that Ardeshir, having there obtained a victory over his enemy, desired to build a city on the spot, and ordered the water to be drained away. The walls are of clay. There are four gates: One is called the باب مهر Bab Mihr; it leads to the east: another is the باب بهرام Bab Behram, leading to the west. On the right hand is situated the دروازه هرمز Derwazeh Hormuz, or Gate of Hormuz; and on the left the gate of Ardeshir دروازه اردشیر. This gate was erected by Ardeshir; and from it there is a view of all the districts and territories. Opposite to this is a hill, from which water gushes with great force, and falls into an aqueduct, which was formed of stone and mortar, but is now fallen to ruin. The city is well supplied with running water; and in the vicinity of each gate there is about a farsang laid out in gardens and pleasure-grounds.

محمد بن القاسم عقايل Shiraz is a modern city, built by Mohammed ben alcassem Okail, uncle (or cousin-german) of هجاج بن يوسف Hejaje ben Yousuf. The productions of every city are brought to Shiraz, and are not taken from that to any place. This was chosen as the station of the army of Islam, on account of its vicinity to Istakhar, during the war*. The city was at that time built: it extends about one farsang, and has not any walls. Here is a دیوان Divan (Court of Revenue, Tribunal, &c.) and the Collectors of the Revenue go there.

کارزین Karzein is a small town, about the size of Istakhar, and the best in that Koureh. The town called مکه Mekeh† is situated near the borders of یزد Yezd and ابرقوه Aberkouh, and near the territories of Kirman; and هریه Herieh goes between from the شق کرمان Shek of Kirman and the borders of Isfahan‡. Mekeh is situated on the skirt of the desert: it is a pleasant town, and well supplied with provisions. There is a town with a castle and two iron gates; one called باب ابرو Bab Abrou; the other باب المسجد Bab al Mesjed. Here is a mosque; and they drink water conveyed in trenches or canals; and there is a stream also which flows from the castle. In this village there is great abundance of fruit, and many trees and edifices.

ابرقوه Aberkouh is a plentiful town, about the same size as

* The war which gave the Mussulmans possession of the Persian empire, in the middle of the seventh century of the Christian era.

† Probably for كتك Katta.

‡ The reader must recollect, that I have only undertaken, in the present volume, a mere translation. The numerous obscurities of the text, I shall endeavour to illustrate in a future work, of which I have given an outline in the Preface.

Istakhar: it has not any trees. رودان Rudan resembles Aberkough in every respect, but that it produces more fruit, and is better supplied with provisions. سرور Serour is a small town; but plentifully supplied. بیضا Beiza is one of the largest towns in the Koureh of Istakhar: it is a pleasant and well-inhabited place: its walls are white; and it was the station of the Mussulman army at the time of the conquest of Istakhar. From this place they send corn to Shiraz.

Of the Koureh of Shapour.

ONE of the chief cities in the Koureh Shapour, is کازرون Cazeroun. It is about the size of نوبندجان Nubendjan; but Cazeroun is more populous, and stronger, and of better air: the air of Cazeroun is the purest of all Pars. They drink there, well-water; and have abundance of fruits and crops. Cazeroun and Nubendjan are the most plentiful places of all the Koureh of Shapour.

ذکر کوره دارابجرد

Of the Koureh of Darabjerd.

THE largest town in the Koureh of Darabjerd is بسا Besa. It is of the same size as Shiraz; and the air of Besa is better than that of Shiraz. In their buildings they use cypress wood. It is an ancient city, with a castle, and walls and ditches. All the productions of a warm and cold climate are to be found there; dates, oranges, &c. All the towns of Darabjerd are near each other.

Of the towns of اردشیر دره Ardeshir Dereh we have already mentioned Shiraz. After that is سیراف Siraf, about as large as Shiraz. Here are very wealthy men, such as merchants, and others, who expend thirty thousand dinars on the building of their houses. There are not any trees immediately about Siraf. There is a mountain on the east of the city which they call جم Jem; this affords fruits and water for the town. Siraf enjoys a warmer climate than any of those other towns.

ارجان Arjan is a considerable city, producing dates and olives in great plenty. From Arjan to the sea is a distance of one merhileh: so that it partakes of the land and sea, of the mountainous and level country.

The greatest cities of Pars are Shiraz, and سیراف Siraf, and ارغان Arghan.

نوبندجان Nubendjan enjoys a warm climate: it has a few date trees. شعب بوان Shaab bouan is within two farsang of Nubendjan: it consists of several villages, with running water, and so many trees that the sun with difficulty shines upon the ground. جنابه Jenabah, and سنیر Sinir, and ماهی رویان Mahirooyan, are of very warm air, situated on the sea coast, and abounding in the fruits of a warm climate.

ذکر آب و هوا و خاک فارس

Of the Water, and Climate, and Soil of Fars.*

THE land of Fars is divided into the warm region, lying to the south, as far as کارزین Karzin, and زم Zem, and دارابگرد Darabgird, to فرخ Firkh and هرج Hereje. The northern division is cold.

In the warm region are comprised ارغان Arghan, and نوبندجان Nubendjan, and مہرویان Mahrooian, and سنیر Sinir, and جنابہ Jenabah, and توج Touje, and دشت رشاق Deshti Reshak, and حرہ Hereh, and دارین Darein, and جور Jawr, and کازرون Cazeroun, and مارین Marein, and هرمز کران Semiran, and خمایگان Khemaigan, and سیراف Siraf, and بجرم Bijerem, and حمن ابن عمارہ Hesn ebn Omareh, and other places; but these are the principal.

* The title of this section is given from the Eton MS.—In mine a blank space is left for it.

To the colder region belong اصطخر Istakhar, and بیضا Beiza, and مانین Manein, ایدج Aideje and کام فیروز Kam Firouz, and کورد Goured, and کلار Kellar, and سرسیر Sersir, and اولنجان Awlenjan, and یزد Yezd, and روز Rouz, and جران Jeran, and بازریک Bazrik, and سردر Serder, and حومه Houmah, and جهره Jehreh, and ستودر Setouder, and مشکانات Meshkanath, and اصطهاجان Astehajan, and برم Berm, and رهبان Rahban, and لوار Louar, and طرجنسان Tarjensan. اقلید Akleid, سرمق Sermek, and many other places, all belong to this cold part of Fars. But Jawr, and Besa, and Shiraz, and بشادور Beshadour, and Cazeroun, are nearly alike in climate. The cold region is that in which fruits do not arrive at perfection, and where corn only is produced, such as یزد Yezd, and کورد Goured, and روستاق Roustak, and Istakhar, and Rahban.

In the warm places, during the summer season, no bird remains on account of the excessive heat. In some parts of it, flesh, if laid upon the stones, in summer time, will be roasted. The climate of the cold region is very healthy: that of the warm parts is not so good, especially of Darabgird. Arghan enjoys a better air, such as Siraf and Jenabah. Shiraz, and Besa, and Cazeroun, and Jawr, are of a more temperate and salubrious climate. The water at Darabgird is bad.

Of the Persons (also of the Manners, Languages, Religions, and Chief Families) of the People of Fars.

THE inhabitants of the warm parts of this province are of slender make, and brown complexions*, with little hair. In the colder region they are fatter, and have more hair, and their complexions are fairer. And they have three languages: The Parsi (زبان پارسی), which they use in speaking, one to another; though there may be some variations of dialects in different districts, yet it is in fact all the same, and they all understand the language of each other, and none of their expressions or words are unintelligible: The Pehlavi language, زبان پهلوي which was formerly used in writings; this language now requires a commentary تفسیر or explanatory treatise; and the Arabick language, زبان تازی which at present is used in the Divans, or Royal Courts of Justice, Revenue, &c.

The dress and ornaments of the princes are, short coats, or tunicks, open before; and large cloaks, or outer garments; small sashes wrapped round the turbans, and swords hung by belts, with tight boots. The Cazis (or magistrates) wear on their heads caps (كلاه), so that their ears are covered, the end hanging on their shoulders. Their shirts are of a fine texture; but they do not wear boots, nor the outer cloak. The secretaries, or writers (دبیران) of Pars, wear the cloak and boots, and their habits resemble those of the Arabians.

* Literally wheat-coloured کندم کون

As to the manners of the people in Pars, those who are the chief men, and who occupy the higher offices in the service of the sovereign, are polite and courteous: they have fine palaces, and are very hospitable. The people, in general, are kind and civil in their manners. The merchants are remarkably covetous, and desirous of wealth. I have heard that there was a certain man of Siraf who had passed forty years at sea, never leaving his ship during that time: whenever he came to a port, he sent some of his people on shore to transact his commercial affairs; and when that business was finished, he sailed on to some other place. The inhabitants of Siraf devote their whole time to commerce and merchandize. The Author of the book says, "I myself saw at this place several persons who possessed four thousand thousand dinars; and there were some who had still more; and their clothes were like those of hired labourers." But the people of Cazeroun and Besa traffick on shore; and they derive their fortunes from this kind of commerce: they are persevering and patient in the acquiring of riches; and the men of Pars, where-soever they go, are powerful and wealthy.

As to the different religious sects of the people of Pars, those who inhabit the sea-shore are of the same sect as the people of Basrah. From Siraf to Mahi-rooyan, and to ارغان Arghan, are nearly all the same. The inhabitants of جهرم Jehrem are of the Moatazelite heresy: Those who dwell in the warm region are of seven different sects: and those of the cold region, of Shiraz, and Istakhar, and Besa, are believers in the Sonna (or traditions of Mahommed); and some are like the people of Baghdad, and have the Fetwa, according to the rules of those who follow the Hadith, or holy traditions.

In Pars there are Fire-worshippers, or Guebres (کبران), and Christians (ترسایان), and some Jews (یهودان); "and the books of the Guebres, their fire temples, and their customs or ceremonies of Guebrism, or Magism, still continue among the people of Pars; and there are not in any country of Islam so many Guebres as in the land of Pars, which has been their capital or chief residence*."

In the books of the Persians (پارسیان) it is recorded that several of their kings were of Pars, such as Zohak, and Jem, and Feridoun, and others, till the time that Feridoun divided the earth among his sons; and they were the kings of the earth till the time that Zhu'l'karnein (Alexander the Great) came, and slew

Dara, the son of Darab; and the empire declined until the time of Ardeshir. After him there were kings, such as Shapour, and Baharam, and Kobad, and Firouz, and Hormuz*, and others; most of whom were of Pars, or of Arabia: their dominion extended to the borders of روم Roum. But when an Arabian race conquered the whole world, Pars became as a considerable province to them, and the seat of empire was removed to Irak. The kings of Pars have been highly celebrated; their history is so well known, that it were unnecessary to say more of it in this place.

Since the introduction of the true faith (Islam), there have been many illustrious men from this province, (Pars.) One of these was هرمز Hormuz, a Guebre, who, in the time of Omar ebn Alkhitab, may God reward him! was taken by Abdallah ben Omar, and put to death.

سلمان فارسي Selman Farsi (Selman the Persian) also was one of those illustrious men: his piety is celebrated throughout the world: he sought the truth of religion in all quarters, until he found it at Medina, with the prophet, the peace and blessing of God be on him! in consequence of which, Selman became a true believer†.

* See the series of all these kings in the "Epitome of the Ancient History of Persia."

† Vide D'HERBELOT Bibl. Orient. Art. Selman.

The race of Omareh آل عماره also called Je-lendi, formerly possessed extensive territories and wide dominions in this country, on the sea-coast, in the vicinity of Kirman. It is said that their empire existed before the time of Moses, on whom be the blessing of God ! and that it is to some princes of this family the Koran alludes in that passage,

وكان ورائهم ملك ياخذ كل سفينة غصبا

“ And there was behind them a king, who forcibly seized on every (sound) ship*.” And to this very time they have soldiers, and plunder on the sea, and pay not tribute to any king: and it was with Abdallah ben Ahmed al-Jelendi that Omru ben Leith made war for two years; and he did not conquer him until he had called to his assistance two of the family of Omru.

The Beni Alseghar بني الصغار are also of the race of Jelendi آل جلندي. It is said that Seif al-Seghar سيف الصغار is called after them. Those we have mentioned are the more ancient kings of Pars.

سامة بن بوي Abu Zeheir was of the family of Seif beni Zeheir was called after him. ابو ساره Abu Sareh, who seized upon Pars, was of this family: he retained possession of Pars until the Khalif مامون Mamoun sent محمد بن الاشعث Mohammed ben alashaath against him, when, in the desert of Shiraz, his army was defeated, and himself slain. To جعفر بن ابي زهير Jaffer ben abi Zoheir, هارون الرشيد Haroun Arrashid gave the viziership. مظفر بن جعفر رشاق Muzaffer ben Jaffer Reshak has it, and is Lord of the Scymetar شهبشير Shahshir and from the border of حي Hei to بجرم Bejerm, belongs to him.

The race of Khanteleh, آل خنطله the sons of Temim: بنو تميم They are of the family of عروه بن اديه Arweh ben Adyeh, who crossed over from بحرين Bahrein to Pars, in the time of the Ommiades (بنو اميه). After the death of Arweh, they settled in Istakhar, where they accumulated great riches, and lived in splendour. One of them, called عمرو Omru, was so wealthy that he purchased a book * (مصحف) at the price of one thousand dinars, and bequeathed sums of money for religious purposes, and alms, throughout all the cities and provinces of Islam; and the income and taxes of their estates were ten thousand thousand direms.

* More particularly the Koran.

Mamoun the sovereignty of the sea. After him, مرداس بن عمرو Merdas ben Omru, who was called بويالان Bouyellan, possessed such estates, that every year his taxes amounted to three thousand direms. His son, محمد بن واصل Mohammed ben Wasel, was equally rich. The chief of this tribe was عمرو بن عيسه Omru ben Aiseh. At the time the Turks assumed the Khalifat, they desired to remove them from court; and the province of Fars was divided among forty nobles of the Turks, the chief of whom was مولد Mould: Having reprov'd them for their tyrannical conduct and wickedness, they all conspired against him, and sought to kill him: he applied for protection to Merdas, who saved him from those nobles, and sent him to Baghdad. The Turks then gave the command to ابراهيم بن سيهارا Ibrahim ben Simara; and عبدالله بن يحيى Abdallah ben Yahia sent a letter, desiring that those nobles might be seized, and put to death. Ibrahim ben Simara took four of them, and slew them; and pardoned the others. From that time forth he was chief of the Turks (ريس و مقدم ترکان) in Pars.

محمد بن واصل Mohammed ben Wasel was in possession of Pars; and عبدالرحمن بن مفلح Abdar'rahman ben Moflah was sent from Baghdad with a great army, and a general, named طاشم Tashem. In a battle with Mohammed ben Wasel, this Tashem was slain; and Abdar'rahman, being taken prisoner, was put to death. Pars continued in his possession until his kinsman Merdas invited Yacoub ben Leith, who came into Pars, and defeated Mohammed ben Wasel, who fled from بیضا Beiza to مرو Merou. At the time that Mohammed ben Wasel returned from battle with Abdarrahan ben Moflah, Yacoub ben Leith defeated Mohammed, who went to sea (or fell into the sea, بدريا افتاد), and was brought from that to Yacoub: he was confined for some years in a castle; but, whilst Yacoub was absent, having gone to the borders of نیشاپور Nishapour, Mohammed, with a band of the prisoners, got possession of the castle, and Yacoub sent people to put them to death.

The race of Saman آل سامان (the Samanides) are descended from بهرام Bahram, and Bahram was of خیر Kheir in اردشیرگرد Ardeshirgerd: there he resided, and went from that to هرات Herat, and conquered the army of the Turks ترکان, and was so successful that the army of کسری Kesri (the Persian monarch) was terrified at his exploits *. But the story is very long. The family of Saman is descended from him; and for many years the government of ماورالنهر Mawera'nahr and بلخ Balkh and the countries bordering on the جیحون Jihoun, or river Oxus, was in their hands.

اسماعیل بن احمد بن اسد Ismael ben Ahmed ben Asad possessed so extensive an empire, that Khorasan, and Mawarlnahr, and Tabaristan, and کرکان Gurkan, and کومش Koumesh, and

* See D'HERBELOT Bibl. Orient. Art. Saman and Bahram Giubin.

ري Rey, and قزوین Casvin, and ابهر Ebher, and رنکان Ren-gan, were all under his dominion; at no other time were all these countries or places in the possession of an individual: and he raised himself to such glory and power, that the kings of Cheen and Turkestan were stricken with terror; and he was as renowned in those countries as in the land of Islam. To him succeeded نصر بن احمد Nasser ben Ahmed. In his time nobody could oppose or controul his sway.

علي بن الحسين بن بشر Ali ben Alhosein ben Bashr was of the tribe of ازد Azd, which dwelt at بخارا Bokharah. He entered Pars, and acquired power, until Yacoub ben Leith opposed him in battle, and overcame him at قنطره Kantereh, a place near Shiraz. He was taken prisoner, and for some time confined, and after that put to death.

The kings of the Zems پادشاهان زمهاي: These kings had in their courts not less than a thousand horsemen. The زم مسيجان Zem Mesejan, which was called the Zem of Jelouiah al mehrjan ben Ruzbah زم جيلويه البهرجان بن روزه. Jelouiah went to this Zem from حبايگان سفلي Hemaigan Sefly of the Koureh of Istakhar, and served سله Seleh. When Seleh died (فرمان يافت) Jelouiah took possession of the Zem, which from that time was called after him. His success continued, and arrived at such a degree that he attacked the family of Budolph ال بودلف Maakel ben Isa, the brother of Budolf. Then Budolf came and slew him, and cut off his head; and the family of Budolf, as long as they existed, considered this head as lucky, and productive of good fortune to them. For some time they put it on a spear, and bore it about in front of the army. The skull was set in silver, and continued till the time that عمرو بن ليث Omru ben Leith defeated احمد بن عبد العزيز Ahmed ben abdulaziz, when that curiosity having fallen into his hands, he ordered it to be broken. The government of this Zem is still in the hands of the family of Jelouiah.

The زم ديوان Zem Divan: The chief of this was Azad Murd of Kouhestan آزاد مرد کوهستانی. The government of this still continues in his family; and it was محمد بن ابراهيم Mohammed ben Ibrahim who drew forth an army against Azad Murd, until at last he fled before him.

The زم کاریان Zem Karian is in possession of the race of Soffar (آل صفار). Their chief is حجر بن احمد بن الحسن Hajer ben Ahmed ben Alhassan.

The زم بادنجان Zem Badenjan: the chief of this was شهریار Shehriar. Now it has passed to موسی ابراهيم Musa Ibrahim. Some of this tribe have removed from Pars to Isfahan: their estates in Pars are very considerable, and the government is still in their family.

Of the Debiran (دبیران Writers or Secretaries) of Pars, who were illustrious there, was عبد الحید بن یحیی Abd al Humeid ben Yahia: he was of the Ommiah family, and his story is well known.

عبدالله بن المفتح Abdallah ben al Mefakaa was of Pars: he dwelt in Basrah; and was slain there in the time of منصور Mansour. The occasion of this was as follows: he had given a passport, or letter of security, for عبد الله بن علي بن منصور Abdallah ben Ali ben Mansour; and in it was written "If this "promise of protection should not be observed, or if violence "should be offered to him, Mussulmans shall nevertheless be free "from any blame." Mansour, enraged at this, sent an order to the Aumil (or Chief Collector of Revenue) at Basrah, that he should privately destroy Abdallah ben al Mefakaa.

یهویہ Yahouiah, the Grammarian and Scribe, was originally of Istakhar: he resided at Basrah, and died at Shiraz, where his tomb is. He composed a Treatise on Grammar.

A great many officers of the Khalif's Divans (or Courts of Justice, Revenue, &c.) were of Pars; some viziers, such as the برامکه Barmeks (Barmecides). At all times the offices of state were filled by men from Pars, who are peculiarly qualified for those situations, because they are rendered so expert in business, by the multiplicity and various forms of their Courts and Tribunals, that one person will discharge the functions of several difficult offices. I have not seen any others who were so universally acquainted with business, except two or three: معلي بن النصر Maali ben al Nasser, who was secretary to حسن رجا Hassan Reja; he came from Irak, and was killed at Shiraz. Hassan Reja, who managed the war department, caused a tomb to be erected for him at Shiraz.

بدار هداف بن ضرار الهازني Bedar Hedaf ben Zerar al Mazeni was fifty years employed in the Divans, and lived six years after he became blind. هامان بن بهرام Haman ben Behram was of Shiraz, and belonged to the Divan of علي بن الحسين Ali ben al hosein ben Basher: he was afterwards transferred to the Divan of محمد بن واصل Mohammed ben Wasel, and superintended every Divan except that of Ambassadors.

حسين بن عبدالله Hosein ben Abdallah, who was surnamed ابو سعيد Abu Saied; his proper name was Abdallah ben Almerzian عبدالله بن المرزبان. He was originally of بسا Besa, and dwelt at Shiraz, and traced his descent, by the mother's side, from the race of مروان Merwan: he was introduced into the Divans of Pars, and resided at بخارا Bokhara.

There is a race or family in Pars, called the اهل بيوت Ahil Biout, to whom the business of the Divans belongs by hereditary right. The family of حبيب مدرک Habib Medrek, and the family of Fazl, the son of that Habib, are of this tribe, which is originally of کام فیروز Kam Firouz. They settled at Shiraz, and managed important matters, and became great; and the Khalif Mamoun invited مدرك بن حبيب Medrek ben Habib to Baghdad, and held him in high esteem. His death happened in Baghdad, in the time of معتصم Motazem. It is said that يحيى اكثم Yahia Aksem hired some person to murder him privately.

The race of the Beni Sefar بني صفار are of the tribe of بامله Bamlah. يحيى Yahia, and عبدالرحمن Abdarrahan, and عبدالله Abdallah, of the children of Mohammed ben Ismael اسماعيل, resided in Pars during the reign of Mamoun, and filled the offices of the Divan. The family of مرزبان بن زاويه Merzban ben Zawieh of Shiraz. حسن Merzban hindar Hassan Merzban هندار بن محمد واصل ben Mohammed Wasel. After him was يعقوب بن ليث Iacoub ben Leith. جعفر بن سهيل بن البرزبان Jaffer ben Soheil ben al Merzban was secretary of حارث فرعون Hareth Feriaoun. There was not any family more ancient or more great than the race of مرزبان بن فراسداد Merzban ben Ferasdad.

ابو سعيد بن الحسن بن عبدالله نصر بن منصور بن ابو Saied al Hassan, ben Abdallah البرزبان احمد بن حداد Nasser ben Mansour, ben al merzban Ahmed ben Hedad, at this time conducts the business of the Divan; and مردشاد بن علي Merdshad ben ali

Merdshad مردشاد علي بن علي and the sons of Hassan, Hosein and Ahmed, حسين و احمد, are Aumils of the Divan. (عمال ديوان) Many other men of Pars have arrived at high religious dignity in various places.

Hosein ben Mansour al Hellah حسين بن منصور الحلاج was of Beiza. He was a man of probity, and virtue, and wisdom; and arrived at considerable eminence. He said, "Whosoever
 "honestly strives with all his heart, and, separating himself from "the allurements of pleasure, shall hold fast the bridle of sensual
 "desire, and patiently wait, shall ascend to the court of honours
 "by the steps of uprightness, and gradually be purified from the "infirmities of human nature; or if human nature should occa"sionally shew itself in him, it will be such as was imparted to "Mary the Virgin, by the power of the spirit of Almighty God,
 "the fruit of which was Jesus, on whom be peace! All that "such a man shall utter, will be, as it were, the voice of the "Lord; and all his actions, as it were, divine; and all his com"mands like those of Heaven." In this manner spoke Hosein ben Mansour, and preached to all the people about him, till many of the viziers and officers of the Divan began to imitate him; and he gained influence over the nobles and princes of Irak, and Je-zireh, and Jebal, and Rei. He would not return to Pars; and meditating on his own business, he went to Baghdad, and was in the palace of the Khalif, and had attendants, porters, and slaves, till at length he was hanged alive.

Hassan, surnamed ابو سعيد Abu Saied, was of low origin. He introduced the heresy of the قرمسطيان Karmesians. Having gone to Bahrein on mercantile business, he preached to the people of Arabia, and great numbers followed him; and he acquired such power that he defeated armies, and took a castle from the people of عمان Oman, and seized some towns of Arabia; but was at last slain.

Selman ben Hassan سلمان بن حسن was a man who went into the road of the hadjes, or pilgrims going to Mecca, and robbed and slew them: and at last proceeded to such lengths, that he plundered the treasures of the Kaaba, and killed the pious men who devoted themselves there to incessant prayer. In consequence of this, حجاج Hejaje ordered his kinsmen to be seized, and brought to Shiraz: they were kept a while in confinement; but, being men of good character, were not made responsible for his offences.

Account of the most extraordinary Edifices in Pars, (and other Curiosities.)

IN the territory of اصطخر Istakhar is a great building, with statues carved in stone; and there, also, are inscriptions, and paintings. It is said that this was a temple of Solomon, to whom be peace! and that it was built by the Dives, or Demons: similar edifices are in Syria, and Baalbeck, and Egypt.

In the territory of Istakhar, also, there is a kind of apple, half of which is sweet, and half sour. Merdas ben Omru mentioned this circumstance to Hassan Reja: he denied the possibility of it, and Merdas sent and caused one to be brought, and shewed it to him*.

At the village of Abdar'rahman دیه عبدالرحمن there is a certain great pit, the bottom of which is dry all the year, except at the season for watering the fields, when water issues from it, and serves for the purposes of agriculture and for drinking. When it is not any longer necessary for the husbandman's use, the water disappears.

In the territory of Shapour شاپور, there is a mountain; and in that mountain are the statues of all the kings, and generals, and high priests (Moubed موبد), and illustrious men, who have existed in Pars: "And in that place are some persons who have representations of them, and the stories of them written †;" and this tribe belongs to the territory of Arghan ارغان, at Hysn Mohdi حسن مهدی.

* See the Persian of this and the preceding passage in the Appendix.

† انجا کسانی هستند که صورتها و قصص ایشان نبشته دارند

At the city of جور Jawr, near the northern gate, is a pond, or pool of water, in which a brazen vessel is so placed, that, from a hole in it, the water issues with great violence.

In the vicinity of أبرقوه Aberkough are considerable heaps of ashes. The common people say, that here was the fire of Nimrod (into which he caused Abraham to be thrown.) But this is not true: the fact is, that Nimrod, and the kings of Canaan, dwelt in the land of Babylon.

In the Koureh of Arghan, at the village called صاهل العرب Sahil al Arab, there is a well, from which proceeds water enough to turn a mill, and water the fields. The people here say, that they have made various efforts to ascertain the depth of this well, but have not ever been able to reach the bottom.

In the Koureh of رستاق الرستاق Rostak ar'rostak, there is a place between two hills, from which smoke constantly issues; and it is said, that if a bird should fly near that place, it would drop down.

In the دشت وارين Desht-Varein, there is a village called خسروهيڤن Khosruhein, in which there is not any tree. Here is a family, of whose sorceries and magick I have heard such an anecdote as cannot be repeated.

In اردشیر دره Ardeshir Dereh, near the gate of Shiraz, is a fountain, of which they drink the water as a purgative: one cup full operates once upon the body; two cups full, twice: if one drinks many, it occasions vomitings, and excessive evacuations.

Near Arghan, on the borders of Khuzistan, is a remarkable pile, or heap, called the تل دیلمی Tel Deilemi, with a vault or recess, two hundred paces broad, and so high that a man, mounted on a mule, with a standard in his hand, cannot reach the top.

In the territory of کوان Koudn, there is a certain flower, which they eat green, like the leaves of the چقدر Chukender.

In the territory of Shiraz there is a plant, or herb, which they call سوسن نرکس Susen Nergus, (the Lily Narcissus.)

Near وارین Varein there is a river, called نهر چین Nehr-Cheen, the water of which is pleasant to the taste, and is used for the purposes of agriculture; but when clothes are washed in it, it becomes green.

Account of the Commodities and Productions of Fars

THE rose-water of Shiraz is most remarkably excellent, and highly esteemed in all parts of the world. It is chiefly made at جور Jawr, and sent by sea to حجاز Hejaz, and یمن Yemen: it is also sent to Syria, and Egypt, and Magreb or Africa, and Khorasan. Here also is made oil, better than that of any other place, except the oil of کوفه Kheiri روغن خیری, and that of کوفه Cufah.

At سینیر Sinir, and جنابا Jenabah, and کازرون Kazeroun, and توج Tooje, linen (کتان) garments are manufactured; and the embroidery and clothes made at بسا Besa are esteemed by the princes in all countries, and sent into all parts of the world. The gold brocade worn by the princes is made at Besa. This embroidery is performed with a needle: and here they also weave cloth of gold, and fine garments, and hangings, and silk, and camel's hair.

At یزد Yezd and ابرکوه Aberkouw they manufacture clothes of silk and cotton; at جهرم Jehrem, fine carpets. At عبدجان Abdejan, which is a town of the دشت وارین Desht-i-Varein, they make beautiful tapestry and carpets. Besa is remarkable for needle-work; and they excel there, in respect to that art, the people of قرقوب Corcoub.

At سیراف Siraf they abound in marine productions, and commodities brought by sea; such as aloes, ambergris, camphire, pearls, canes, ivory, and ebony: pepper, sandal, and various kinds of drugs and medicines, are sent from that place to all quarters of the world; and in this city there are such wealthy merchants, that several of them possess fortunes of sixty thousand thousand direms; and I have seen them.

At ارغان Arghan, in the village called افارسک Afaresk, they make such excellent دوشاب doushab (syrup), that no other place can equal it in that respect, except سیلان Seilan.

At کازرون Kazeroun there is a certain species of date, called خیلان kheilan, which they send into Irak and Isfahan. At دارابگرد Darabgird, in the ditches which surround the town, there is a certain fish extremely pleasing to the taste, without any bone.

In the vicinity of Darabgird, مومیایی mummy is found. Once every year they open the place where it is produced, and a certain quantity of it is taken for the king's use, in presence of confidential persons, who then seal up the place. And in the territory of Darabgird there are hills of salt, white, black, yellow and green.

In the land of Pars there are mines of silver, and iron, and lead, and sulphur, and naphta. The silver is scarce, and found in the cold region called مانين Manein. Iron is brought from the mountains of Istakhar, and from the place called Darabgird.

The striped stuffs of Shiraz are well known; and in the Koureh of Istakhar they manufacture fine linen.

ذكر نقود اهل فارس

Of the Money, the Weights, and Measures, of the People of Fars.

In buying and selling, they use direms and dinars: but since the time of the Kesris*, to the present day, there has not been any coinage of direms in Pars, unless in the name of the Emir al Mowmenin امير المؤمنين Commander of the Faithful.

* The fourth Dynasty of Persian kings, or the Sasmanides are called the Akairab or Kesris; of these Noushirvan was peculiarly styled Kesri: in his reign Mohammed was born. The last of this Dynasty was Yezdegerd, who died Anno Hegire 32, (A. D. 652.)

In Pars the weight of the direm is two مثقال methkals. The stone (سنگ) is of two kinds, great and small: the great stone is one mun (من) a thousand and forty direms, like the stone of Ardebil سنگ اردبیل; the small stone is the stone of Baghdad and the stone of بیضا Beiza, one mun eight hundred direms. At Istakhar four hundred direms make the stone. At بحرہ Behreh, two hundred and eighty direms; at Shapour, three hundred direms; and at اردشیر خرہ Ardeshir Kherah, two hundred and forty direms.

The جریب Jereib of Shiraz contains ten قفیز kefiz; and a kefiz, sixteen رطل rotels, a little more or less. The jereib is one hundred and thirty rotels; and that is divided into half, third, and quarter. The jereib of Istakhar is half the jereib of Shiraz. The measure or weight (کیل) of Beiza is more than that of Istakhar by about a tenth and half a tenth; and the measure of Kam Firouz is greater than that of Beiza, by about one tenth. The measure of Arghan exceeds that of Shiraz by a fourth: and the measure of Kazeroun and of Shapour is a sixteenth more.

Account of the GATES OF WEALTH, or the manner of raising the Revenue.

THE gates of wealth, or those by which money is supplied in the Divans, are the taxes or tribute: a tenth on ships; a fifth on the mines, on corn, fodder, the mint, the roads, the canals, fruits, iced waters, salt, &c.

The tribute of lands is of three kinds: by division, and by regulations and statutes. All the proportions are exactly ascertained, and admit not of any diminution. Whether the ground be tilled, or not tilled, the measurements and divisions take place: if the ground is cultivated, it pays tribute; if not cultivated, it is so much lost.

The greater part of the country is subject to measurement, as far as the Zems are. The taxes of Shiraz are more considerable, in proportion as their jereib is the great jereib for such things as wheat and barley. The jereib is two hundred and thirty-seven direms. The garden jereib is one thousand four hundred and twenty-five direms. The small jereib is sixty ^{شكر} guz, of the king's cubit or yard (ذراع الملك); and the king's cubit is nine قبضة kebsets, or handfuls. The great tax is the tax of Shiraz, because جعفر بن ابي زهير Jaffer ben Abi Zoheir spoke to Haroun Ar'rasheid on the subject, and he ordered that a third and a fourth should be paid. The tribute of Istakhar is not so considerable as that of Shiraz.

The tax of division is of two kinds. The better is that of the Emir al Moumenin Omar, (may God reward him!) and the other khalifs, which divides into tens, threes, and fours. These are taxes paid on the products of agriculture, and various other duties and tributes, nearly the same as in other countries.

In all Pars there is not any mint, except at Shiraz. The land belongs to the sovereign: he lets it out to farm at certain rents. There was not any tax in Pars on shops, or work-houses, or gardens, or trees. علي بن عيسى Ali ben Isa laid a tax on them in the year 302*.

Of the Province of Kirman.

To the east of Kirman lie the land of مکران Makran, and the deserts of that country, and بحرين Bahreïn (the two seas), on the borders of بلوچ Bolouje. To the west of Kirman lies the land of Pars, which we have before described. On the north are the deserts of Khorasan and Sejestan; and on the south the Persian sea and سيركان Seirgan; and, in a corner, a part of Pars.

In the region of Kirman the climate is both warm and cold. The fruits are of all kinds; chiefly those of the warm climates. Part of Kirman is bordered by the sea. Here are their harbours and ports, which are subject to excessive heat, such as هرموز Hormuz, and جرون Jaroun, and some others; and the air in general is not pure.

Now we proceed to describe the cities and mountains of Kirman, and to lay before the reader a map of that province, such as we have seen it.

هرمز Hormuz, بم Bam, جيرفت Jireft, سيركان Sirgan, دوهين Douhin: these cities are, by some, reckoned as belonging to Pars; by others to Kirman. ميرقان Jiroukan, ميزرکان Mezerkan, سورکان Sourkan, اللس Allas, کري Keri, معون Maaun.

Between سيركان Sirgan and the desert of يزد Yezd are the towns of جرده Jirdeh, زرنند Zerend, فردين Ferdin, ماهان Mahan, and خبيص Khebis; and on the side of the desert, near Bam, is برماسير Bermasir. مهرج Mehreje, سنج Sinje, situated in the midst of the desert, and remote from Kirman, though reckoned as some of its territories. خواس Khouas, the boundary of Kirman, is said, by some, to be a territory of Sejestan.

The mountains of ايقان Aikan, قارن Karen: دهر حومه Deher Houmah, are by some assigned to کوهستان ابو غانم Kouhestan abou Ghanem. Between Hormuz and Jireft are the towns of کومين Koumin, مرزنگان Merzingan, منوجان Menujan. On the sea-coast are the mountains or hills of كفس Kefes, بارن Baren جبال Baren تنص and the mountains of the silver mines.

In Kirman there is not any lake or great river: there is that bay, or gulph, called the Persian Sea, which comes from the ocean near Hormuz; the water is salt, and ships pass on it to and fro. In parts of Kirman there are several mines.

Of the Mountains of Kirman, (the Inhabitants, and Chief Cities.)

THE mountains of كفص Kefes lie on the southern border, near the sea. To the north, near the borders of Jireft, are رودان Rudan and the Kouhestan, or hilly country of ابو غانم Abu-ghanem. On the east is خواس Khouas, and the desert extending towards Kefes, and the province of Makran. On the south of that is بلوج Bolouje, or Bolouche, and the borders of میرجان Mirjan

In the mountains near Hormuz, it is said, there is much cultivated land, and cattle, and many strong places. On every mountain there is a chief: and they have an allowance from the Sultan or Sovereign; yet they infest the roads of Kirman, and as far as the borders of Fars and of Sejestan: they commit their robberies on foot; and it is said that their race is of Arabian origin, and that they have accumulated vast wealth. “The بلوج Boloujes, are “in the desert of Mount Kefes كوه كفص and Kefes in the “Parsi language is کوج Kouje; and they call these two people “Koujes and Boloujes. The Boloujes are people who dwell

“ in the desert * : they infest the roads, and have not respect for “ any person.”

The mountains of مارن Maren belong to the cold region of Kirman : they are fertile and strong ; snow falls on them : and in the time of the Guebres, or Fire-worshippers, they used to come down from these mountains and rob ; but in the reign of the Abbassides they became converts to the true religion, and have kept their hands from evil actions. These mountains afford mines of iron. The mountains of the silver mines are near the borders of Jireft, and extend to the pass of دربان Derban ; from that to the silver mountains is a journey of two merhileh. There are pleasant and fertile valleys, with small towns, and many delightful villas.

The warm part of Kirman is more extensive than the cold ; insomuch that there is not above one-fourth of the province liable to the cold, from the borders of سیرکان Sirgan to the desert, in the vicinity of بم Bam. The warm region extends from the borders of Hormuz to Makran, and to the confines of Pars, and of Sirgan, throughout Hormuz, and میوگان Miougan, and Jireft,

* The epithet Sehra Nishin (See Appendix) is sometimes used to express a solitary retired man, a hermit, &c. The Ferhung Barhan Katta informs us, that بلوچ Bolouch is the name of a people inhabiting the desert (قومي صحرائي) ; also the name of a country of Iran or Persia. I write the name Bolouch, on the authority of this excellent dictionary, which accents the first syllable with damma, and describes the last letter chim Farsi.

and the hills of کوج Kouje, and the دشت ویران desht viran, or "the dreary waste;" also throughout Bam and the desert, and to the borders of Kirman, and to خيص Kheis.

The inhabitants of Kirman are lean and slender, with brown complexions*. Towards the west of Jireft, snow falls. Among the hills of silver, and as far as Derban to Jireft, and likewise from before the hill of بارم Barem to near Jireft, and the place called مسیحان Mesihan and درمان Derman, there runs a considerable river, with such a rapid stream, that it is not to be crossed without difficulty: it turns about twenty mills.

هرمز Hormuz is the emporium of the merchants in Kirman, and their chief sea-port: it has mosques and market places, and the merchants reside in the suburbs.

جیرفت Jireft is in extent nearly two miles; it is situated near the sea: here they enjoy at once all the productions of both warm and cold climates.

بم Bam is a considerable town, with extensive suburbs. Prayers are said on the chief festivals, in three different great mosques, and there is a small one in the market-place. Some of the people are of the Sonnite sect. In the castle of the city there is another mosque, with a publick treasury, and other offices.

* Literally wheat-coloured کوندم کون

The town of سیرکان Sirgan is watered by subterraneous trenches or aqueducts: in the suburbs they raise water from wells. This is the largest of all the cities in Kirman. The inhabitants are observers of the Hadith, (or holy traditions.) The people of رودبار Rudbar, قهستان Kohestan, بوغانم Bou Ghanem, and بلوچ Bolouje, are all of the Shiah sect: and from the borders of معون Maaoun, and لاشگرد Lashgird, to the territories of Hormuz, the people are industrious and honest; they cultivate sugar, and eat bread made of millet (ارزن). They give one tenth of their dates to the king, like the people of Basrah: and whatever dates are shaken from the trees by the wind, they do not touch, but leave them for those who have not any, or for travellers: and it happened one year, that half the dates were thus blown off the trees, yet the owner did not take one of them.

The territory of رویست Rouiest is a dry soil. The people are, for the greater part, robbers and plunderers. There are a town and a village on the sea-coast, where they catch fish. It is a stage on the road to Pars.

The language of the inhabitants of Kirman is the Persian; but the Kouches have another language, and also the Bolouches.

Fine linen and striped stuffs are manufactured at زرید Zareid, and are sent into Pars and Irak.

The Khoulas خواس are a tribe of the desert: they have camels, and date trees; and their houses are made of reeds.

These are all the roads and distances of Kirman. After this, we shall proceed to speak of the Land of سند Sind, and part of هند Hind, if God permit.

ذکر بلاد هندی و بعضی از هند

Of the Country of Sind, and part of Hind.

WE proceed to describe the land of Sind, and some part of Hind, and the country of مکران Makran, and طوران Touran, and ندهه Nedeheh, and the bordering territories which belong to the possessors of Islam.

The eastern boundary of these regions is the Persian Sea. On the western side lie Kirman, and the deserts of Sejestan, and some territories of that province. On the north is the land of Hind, and its territories. The southern boundaries are the deserts of Makran, and the territory of the Bolouches; and a part of this borders on the Persian Sea, which is winding and curved on these confines.

Now we shall lay before the reader a map of those parts of Hind and Sind, and describe the curious and extraordinary places of them. Some parts belong to Guebres (کبران), and a greater portion of this country to کافران Kafers (Infidels) and Idolaters (بت پرستان); a minute description of these places would, therefore, be unnecessary and unprofitable.

Of the Cities and Towns situated in these Countries.

راسک Derek, درک Fermoun, فرمون Kusr, کسر Alis, الس Rasek, قصر بند Kesrbend, قلعه ره Kelaahereh, مسکی Meski, ارمایل Armaiel. Of طوران Touran the towns are, محالی Mehali, کبیرکامان Kibrkaman, سوره Sureh, قندابیل Kandabil. The other cities of Sind are, منصوره Mansourah, which they call سندیه Sindiah, دنبل Danbul, بلوی Baloui, ایری Airi, مانوی Manoui, مروی Meroui, مسحاری Maseh, ماسه Beherje, بهرج Mesouahi, مسواهی Meshari, سدوسان Sedusan.

There are سیدان Seidan, میمون Meimoun, ملتان Multan, حیدور Heidour; names of cities in Sind and part of Hind. These, for the greater part, are inhabited by Infidels: but there are, in this country, some Mussulmans, who have mosques, and on stated days read the Khutbah: and the Indian sovereign who dwells here has a very extensive empire.

The city of Mansourah is about a mile in breadth, and as much in length; and a bay or arm of the river مهران Mihran passes by it, and renders it like an island. The inhabitants of Mansoureh are of the descendants of هبار ابن الاسود Hebar ebn Alasoud. He took the place, and it continues till this time in the possession of his family. It enjoys a warm climate, and produces dates, apples, and pears, and a fruit resembling the peach: it is a place abounding in provisions. Their coins are the قاهري Kaheri, every direm of which is equivalent to (or weighs) fifty direms; and another of silver, which they call طاطوي Tautooi, one direm of which is fifty direms; they also use gold in their commercial intercourse. Their dress and habits resemble those of the people of Irak; but their kings affect the appearance of Indian kings, and wear pendants in their ears.

The city of مولتان Moultan is about half the size of Mansoureh. It is called the "Golden House;" for there is in the city a certain idol, to which the Indians of the country come as on a religious pilgrimage, every year, and bring great riches with them; and those who pray in the temple of this idol must pay a tribute. This temple is situated in the centre of Moultan; and in the middle of the temple there is a great cupola or dome. All round this building are various houses, in which the servants and attendants of the idol reside. Moultan is not reckoned as belonging to Hindoostan; but there is in it a race of idolaters who worship in this temple. The idol is made in the form of a man, with the feet on a bench, formed of tiles, or bricks and mortar: it is clothed in a red garment, resembling Morocco leather (سختیان), and no part of the body is to be seen except the two eyes. Some people say the body is made of wood; but they do not permit any one to see more of it than the eyes, which are composed of precious stones. On the head is a diadem of gold. It sits upon a square throne, the hands resting on the knees.

All the riches which are brought to this idol from Hindoostan, are taken by the امیر Emir of Moultan, who distributes a portion among the servants of the temple. When the Indians come there in a hostile manner, and endeavour to carry off the idol from them, the people of Moultan take it forth, and seem to make preparations for breaking and burning it; when the Indians perceive that, they desist from fighting, and return back. If it were not for this circumstance, the Indians would destroy Moultan. There is here a castle, or citadel; but Mansoureh is more populous and improved.

Moultan was styled the بیت الذهب Beit Alzahab, or Golden House, because the Mussulmans were in great distress when they seized on this town, and found in it vast quantities of gold, and acquired power. About half a farsang from the town is a villa, in which resides the Emir of Moultan—on the appointed festivals he goes into the town—he is a قریشی Coreishi of the children of Sam the son of Noah, who conquered Moultan; and he is called the Emir of that place. He has not any power over Mansourah; but the Khutbah is read in the name of the Khalif.

بسمید Besmeid is a small town. Besmeid, and Moultan, and چندوار Chendvar, are situated on the eastern side of the river of Moultan, each at the distance of one farsang from the bank of the river. The water used in these towns is well-water.

دنبل Danbul is situated on the eastern side of the river Mihran, on the sea coast; it is the port of this country. In the cultivation of their lands, the inhabitants do not use water. It is a barren place; but people dwell there for the convenience of transacting mercantile business.

بیلرون Bileroun is a town between Dambul and Mansourch, on the west of the river Mihran; and بهرج Beherje, and مسوای Mesouai, and سدوسان Sedousan, and هلبه Helbeh, are situated on the western side of the river Mihran. اندی Andi and دالوی Daloui are both on the eastern side of it, at a distance from the river, in going from Mansourch to Moultan.

Baloui is situated on the banks of the river Mihran, near a bay, formed by that river behind Mansourch. فامهل Famhel is a town on the first borders of Hindoostan.

مانه Manah is a small town, built by عبدالعزيز هباره Ab-dalaziz Hebareh, the ancestor of that race which took Mansourah.

نדהه Nedeheh is a tract of flat land between طوران Touran, and Mekran, and Moultan, and the towns of Mansoureh. This territory lies on the west of the river Mihran. It is a place remarkable for camels. The chief town of this district is a place of much commerce; it is called قندابيل Kandabil. The men of this town resemble those of the desert; they have houses constructed of reeds, along the banks of the river Mihran, as far as the borders of Moultan, and to the sea side; and between Mihran and Famhel they have pasture lands and meadows. They are a numerous tribe. Famhel, and Sedousan, and ميهون Meimoun, and كنيابه Keniabeh; all four have mosques, in which the religious ceremonies of Islam are publickly performed: there are great quantities of the Indian wall-nut (كوز هندي), and of the fruit called موز Mouz, with various kinds of herbs, and much honey.

راهوق Rahouk and كلوان Kelwan are two districts between ارمايل Armaiel and كير Kair: both these are without water: they abound in cattle.

طوران Touran is a little district, with many small villages and hamlets belonging to it. احمد بن معمر Ahmed ben Maamr possesses them, and the Khutbah is read in the Khalif's name. The town in which he resides is a considerable place, well supplied with provisions, and abounding in fruits; it is never subject to cold weather. Between مانیه Maniah and Famhel there is a desert; also between Famhel and کنیابه Keniabah.

تاصیهون Tasimoun is a populous district, in which the Mussulmans and Indians are intermixed. In this place the only garment they wear is the ازار azar, or sash round the middle, as the heat renders all others unnecessary: it is also the custom at Moultan. In the province of Makran they speak the Persian and Makrani languages. The merchants wear the cloak and turban.

Makran is an extensive country, but liable to scarcity and want of provisions. حسین بن عسی بن معدان Hosein ben Isa
ben Maadan took possession of the district called مہرا Mihra, and dwelt in the town of کیر Kair, which is as large as Moul-tan, and a good harbour: it has many date trees: in the territory of it is a well called the "Well of Makran." It is the largest town in Makran.

There is a district called خروج Kherouje, the capital of which is راسک Rasek, and there is a village belonging to it called حرمان Herman: these places belong to ظفر بن رجا Zefer ben Reja, and the Khutbah is read in the name of the Khalif. His territory extends near three merhileh; it affords some hundred of date trees, and furnishes فانید Faneid (a kind of sweet paste or candied cakes), to all quarters; its villages border on those of the province of Kirman, at the place called مسکني Meskeni.

رسال Resasil and قنتلي Kanteli are two large towns within two menzils: from Resasil to the sea is half a farsang.

قندابيل Kandabil is a considerable city situated in the desert. کيرکانان Kirkanan is another large town in the desert.

In the district of ازند Azend the Mussulmans and infidels are all intermixed. Here they have cattle and gardens. The name of a man who took this place was نايل Naiel (or نابل Nabul), and it is called after him.

ذکر رودهای این اقلیم

Of the Rivers in this Country.

Of the مهران Mihran it is said that the source is the river جیحون Jihoun; it comes out at Moultan, and passes on to the borders of Besmeid, and by Mansourah, and falls into the sea on the east of Dambul. The waters of the river Mihran are pleasant and wholesome; and they say it is liable to tides, or flux and reflux, like the Nile, and that it is infested by crocodiles. The سند رود Sind Rud, at three merhileh from Moultan, is of pleasant water, and joins the river Mihran. Water is very scarce throughout the land of Makran; there is some near Mansourch. Many of the inhabitants of Makran resemble the Arabs; they eat fowl and fish: others of them are like the Curds. Here is the extreme boundary of the land of Islam in this direction.

Now we shall turn back, and begin to describe ارمنیه Armenia, and اران Aran, and اذربایگان Azerbaigan.

ذکر ارمنیه و اران و اذربایگان

Description of Armenia, and Aran, and Azerbaijan.

ALL the boundaries of these countries, کوهستان Kouhestan on the east, and the banks of the Caspian Sea, and the provinces adjacent to ارمن Armen, and الن Alan, and اران Aran, and the mountains of قپچاق *Kipchak, and the borders of Irak and Jezireh, on the south; all these boundaries we lay before the reader in the annexed map.

اردبیل Ardebil is the most considerable city of Azerbaijan: it is about half a farsang in length and breadth, and contains the Governor's palace: it has walls, and four gates, and is a pleasant town, and well supplied with provisions. It has extensive suburbs; and within two farsang of it there is a mountain called سیلان Seilan, which is never free from snow either in winter or summer.

* قپشاق Kipshak, according to the Arabian mode of expressing the Persian or Turkish letters Ba and Chim.

Meraghah مراغه is nearly of the same size as Ardebil; in former times it was the seat of government: it has villages, and suburbs, orchards, and gardens, and land improved by agriculture. The town had walls: but ابي الساج Abi al Sah demolished them.

Armenia is an extensive and fertile region, bounded by the sea, and full of delightful situations: the towns are ميسان Misan, خونه Khounah, بروانان Bervanan, خوي Khoui, سليماس Selmas, نشوي Neshoui, مرند Marend, تبريز Tabriz, برزند Bezerend, دربان Derban, موقان Moukan, and خابران Khaberan; and several smaller towns.

Berdaa بردع is a populous and flourishing city, with cultivated lands and much fruit. After Rey and Isfahan, there is not in Irak or Khorasan a city more large; more beautiful, or pleasant, than Berdaa. At the distance of one farsang from Berdaa, between كريمه Kerieh, and لصوت Lesout, and near بكتان Bektan, there is a well called اندراب Anderab; and for one day's journey the whole country is laid out in gardens and orchards. The fruits are excellent; their filberds (فندق) are better than those of Samarcand, and their chesnuts (شاه بلوط) superior to the chesnuts of Syria; and the figs of Berdaa are more delicious than those of any other place. There are also mulberries; and silk is sent from that to Khuzistan, and to Irak.

In the river Kur رود کر they take fish of two kinds, Rafen رافن and Aasher عشر, which are better than any other fish. At the Curd's Gate (دروازه کردان) there is a market-place, or bazar, called Gurki کرکی: every Sunday the people assemble there: it is about a farsang square. Men from Khorasan and from Irak meet there. The Revenue Office is in the great mosque, and the bazars on the ramparts.

Derbend دربند is a city built on the shore of the sea, on two banks of a bay, with two walls constructed so as to render the navigation of ships more convenient and safe; and a chain is drawn across the entrance, that ships may not enter or sail out without permission; and these two walls are formed of stone and lead: and this town of Derbend is situated on the coast of the sea of Taberistan طبرستان. It is larger than Ardebil, with many fields, and meadows, and cultivated lands. It does not produce much fruit; but the people supply that from other quarters. A wall of stone extends from the city to the mountain; and another of clay, to hinder the Cafres کافران (Infidels) from coming into the town. Part of this wall projects a little way into the sea, so that ships may not come too near the ramparts. This wall is a strong building, and was the work of Noushirvan Aadel نوشیروان عادل (the Just.)

rounded by enemies, who have different languages. On one side of Derbend is a great mountain called اديب Adeib; on this they assemble every year, and make many fires, that they may confound and disperse their enemies from the borders of Azerbaijan, and Armenia, and Arran: they are as numerous as the waves of the sea that come up to the walls of the city. It is said that this mountain, which is close to Derbend, contains above seventy different tribes, who have each a peculiar dialect, and understand not one the language of another.

The sovereigns of Persia have considered the possession of this city as a matter of great importance, and have established a race of people to guard it, called طيربران Tairberan; and there is another tribe called حيلابشار Heilabshar, and another called لکزان Lekzan: there are also two other tribes, the لنيران Leniran and سروان Servan: the foot soldiers are mostly of these tribes; they have few horsemen. Derbend is the port-town for خزر Khozr, and سرير Serir, and کرکان Gurkan, and طبرستان Taberistan, and کرج Kurge, and قپچاق Kapchak; and from it they send linen clothes to all parts of Aran and Azerbaijan. Here they also weave tapestry, or carpets, and cultivate saffron.

On the coast of this sea (the Caspian) is another town called شابران Shaberan; it is a small place, but pleasant and well supplied with provisions: it has many villages belonging to it. Above those is the village of جسمدان Jesmeden, as far as the borders of شروان Shirvan, and باکوه Baku, and دریتق Derituk, and لکز Lekez; and in this village is a castle so very extensive that all the cattle in the country may be secured in it, without any guards or centinels left to watch them.

تفلیس Teflis is a smaller city than Derbend: it is a pleasant place, and abounds in provisions: it has two walls of clay, and produces much fruit, and agriculture is practised in its territories. It has hot baths, in which, as at طبریہ Tiberiah, the water is warm without fire. In all Aran there are not any cities more considerable than Berdaa, Derbend, and Teflis.

As for بیلکان Bilkan, and ریان Reyan, and برزنج Berzenje, and شماخی Shamakhy, and شابران Shaberun, and شروان Shirvan, and الانجان Alenjan, and قبله Kablah, and کنجه Kaujah, and شهمکور Shemkour, and شروسند Sherousend; they are small towns, but pleasant and plentiful.

دینل Deinel is a larger city than Ardebil, and the chief town of Armenia; the palace of the governor is there, as at Berdaa, the capital of Aran. It has very wide and extraordinary ramparts. There are great numbers of Christians and Jews here; and the churches are interspersed among the mosques. Here they manufacture fine hangings, and carpets, and make the beautiful colour called قرمز kermes. I have heard that this kermes is a certain worm *.

This place has heretofore been in the hands of شنباط بن اشوط Shenbat ben Ashout, and at all times has belonged to Christian princes; the greater number of the people of Armenia are Christians. Armenia is bordered on one side by Berdaa; on another by the confines of Jeziroh; on another by Azerbaijan, and Jebal, and Dilem, and Rey: the south side is bordered by the Seghour of Roum (شغور روم).

طرابزون Trabzoun is situated on the extreme confines of Roum; it is much frequented by merchants. میا فارقین Miafarekin and سروج Serouah are small but pleasant towns.

ذکر رودها و دریاهاي این دیار

Of the Rivers and Lakes of this Country (and other Matters).

THE most considerable rivers are the کر Kur, the آرس Aras, and the اسفندرود Asfendrud, which is between Ardebil and

* The Persian Dictionary, intituled Ferhang Borhan Kattaa, informs us, that Kermes is the name of a substance with which they tinge or dye; and that it is said to be an insect gathered from certain shrubs, and afterwards dried; and that the Arabians style it دود الصبغة Dud-al-Sebaghein, "the Dyer's Worm."

زمكان Zemgan. The waters of the river Kur are sweet and wholesome; it comes from the mountain of اوھله Auhileh, and goes on to the borders of کنجه Kenjah, and passes by شېکور Shemkour, and through the midst of تغلیس Teflis, and to the land of the Infidels. The river Aras has also pleasant waters; it comes from Armenia, and, falling into the river Kur, at the borders of موقتان Moukan, near محبود آباد Mahmoud abad, falls into the sea.

There is a lake in Azerbaijan called the Lake of Armia (دریای ارمیه): the water is salt or bitter, and contains not any living creature. All round this lake are villages and buildings: from the lake to مراغه Meraghah is a distance of three farsang; to ارمی Armi two farsang. The length of this lake is five days journey, by land; and by water, with a fair wind, a person may traverse it in the space of one night.

In Armenia there is a lake near ارجیس Arjeis; in it are great numbers of the fish طرع Teraa, which they send to all quarters. The Sea of Khozr is also on this border. Derbend and Baku are situated on it. Naphta is found at Baku. A small part of the river Tigris (دجله Dejleh) runs on the confines of Armenia. The borders of Azerbaijan extend from تارم Tarem to زنکان Zingan, to دینل Deinel, and حلوان Holwan, and to شهرزور Shehrzour, to the river Dejleh, and back to the borders of Armenia. All the necessities of life are very cheap in this country:

in it are places where they sell sheep for two direms, and a munn of corn for one direm.

There are powerful princes in this region: such as شروان شاه Shirvan Shah, and others. All this country belongs to the cold climate.

The stone of Ardebil weighs twelve hundred direms. Throughout this country the Persian and Arabian languages are understood. The inhabitants of Ardebil use also the Armenian tongue; in the mountainous country belonging to Berdaa, the people use a different dialect.

In Azerbaijan, and Aran, and Armenia, gold and silver coins are current.

On the east of Kouhestan are the deserts of Khorasan, and part of Fars, and Isfahan, and the eastern side of Khuzistan. On the west of Kouhestan lies the province of Azerbaijan. On the north is دیلمان Deilman, and قزوین Cazvin, and ری Rey, and ماردین Mardein. These towns, Rey, and Cazvin, and ابهر Abher, and زنکان Zengan, we have not placed in the map as belonging to Kouhestan; we rather assign them to the province of Deilman, because it winds irregularly along Kouhestan. The southern boundaries of Kouhestan are Irak, and part of Khuzistan.

There are many great and celebrated cities in the province of Kouhestan; such as همدان Hamadan, and دینور Deinour, اصفهان Isfahan, and قم Kom: the smaller cities are کاشان Kashan, and نهاوند Nehavend, and لور Lour, and جربادقان Jerbadean.

Hamadan is a considerable city, of about one farsang in length and breadth. It has four iron gates: the buildings are of clay. It abounds in gardens and orchards. دینور Deinour is not quite so large as Hamadan. Both places have mosques.

اسپهان Ispahan is the most flourishing of all the cities in Kouhestan, کوهستان and possesses more riches than all the other places; and it is the pass between Kouhestan, and Pars, and Khorasan, and Khuzistan. The garments of silk (ابرشیم), and fine linen (کرپاس), of this place, are carried to all parts of the empire, as well as the fruits.

Kurreh کره is a town of scattered houses: it is called Kurreh of Budulph کره بودلف his children resided there till the time that they ceased to govern; but the ruins of their villas and palaces still remain. This place abounds in cattle; and the land about it is well cultivated. Fruit is brought to it from Werdgird. It is a long town, about one farsang in length. It has two bazars; one near the gate of the chief mosque. Between the two bazars the distance is considerable.

وردگرد Werdgird is an extensive and flourishing city: its length is two farsang. Saffron is cultivated here.

نہاوند Nehavend is situated on a hill. It has many pleasant gardens and orchards, with excellent fruits, and two mosques: one modern, the other ancient. Saffron also comes from Nehavend.

رود راور Rud Rawer is a village, and there is a small town which they call کوره رود راور Kurreh Rud Rawer. It is a well-inhabited, plentiful, and pleasant place, where saffron is cultivated in greater quantities, and of a better kind, than any where else: it is therefore sent from this place to all parts.

هلوآن Hulwan is a town of these mountains. All its walls are of clay and stone. Its air is warm; and here are many fig-trees.

صبیره Semireh, and سروان Sirvan, have both a hot and cold temperature; and running water flows among the houses of these places.

شهرزور Shehrzour is a small town, which the Curds have seized on; also the town شهرورد Shehrwerd: these two places are in the hands of the Curds.

Shehrwerd is a place of which the inhabitants are mostly Curds (اکران), and notorious robbers and plunderers. Saul (طالوت), the king of the Children of Israel, was of this place.

قزوین Casvin is a great city, with walls and a castle, and running water just enough for the people to drink; but the gardens, and meadows, and orchards, are well watered. This place affords much almonds, and the fruit called موز Mawz; and here they weave excellent camelot, or stuffs made of the under or woolly hair of goats.

کم Kom has not any walls, and the inhabitants drink well-water. In spring and summer a great river runs by the gate of this city. In all Irak, date trees are not to be found, except at Semirah, and سیروان Sirvan, and سابرخواست Saber Khast, where there are a few: and the people of Kom and Kashan are all of the Shiah sect, and originally from Arabia.

Of the Provinces of Deilman and Taberistan.

THE southern borders of Deilman are قزوین Cazvin, and طارم Tarem, and part of Azerbaijan, and part of ری Rey. On the north it has the Caspian Sea (دریای خزر), or Sea of Khozr. On the west, part of Azerbaijan, and the towns of that country. On the east are the mountains of Rey, and the hills of قارن Karen, and کرکان Gurkan, and the Caspian sea. The region of Deilman is partly mountainous, and partly flat; the level tract is that of گیلان Gilan, on the borders of the Caspian sea, under the mountains of Deilman. The sovereign (پادشاه) of Deilman resides at رودبار Rudbar. This territory is covered for the greater part with forests and woods.

طبرستان Taberistan is a flat country, and well cultivated: here they breed much cattle; and they have a peculiar dialect, neither Arabick nor Persian; and in many parts of Deilman their language is not understood. Until the time of حیر بن زید Hair ben Zeid (may God reward him!), the inhabitants of Taberistan, and of Deilman were Infidels (کافر): then many of them became Mussulmans; but it is said that in the mountains of Deilman some of them still continue to practise the rites of Paganism.

The mountains of قارن Karen are difficult of access, and very strong: in every hill there is a chief. Here are lofty trees, and forests, and streams, but no towns except شهر شاهر Shehmar. To سارین *Sarein (or ساری Sari) one merhileh. This was the residence of قارن Karen, who was their king (که پادشاه ایشان بود); and the seat of government, and the place where the treasures were deposited. From the mountains of بارdestan Bardestan جبال to Sari, is one merhileh.

From the borders of Deilman, and the coast of the sea, to استراباد Asterabad, is one day's journey; it is not more. The district of ری Rey is adjoining to Cazvin. ابهر Ebher, and رنگان Rengan, and طالقان Talekan, and قصر الرادين Kesr al radein, are in these territories; and قومس Koumes, and سمنان Semnan, and دامغان Damghan, and بستم Bustam, are all connected one with another.

And امل Amol, and ملیل Melil, and سالوس Salous, and کلار Kellar, and روبان Rouban, and مسله Mesleh, and آین الهم Aien alhem, and ممبر Memta, and ساری Sari, and مهروان Mehrwan, and البراسک Almerasek, and بیهشه Bemishesh, are reckoned as belonging to Taberistan.

* I have before remarked the extreme obscurity and inaccuracy of several passages in this work. I shall endeavour, in a future publication, to illustrate and correct them.

طبرسير Temseir, and استرabad Asterabad, and ابسکون Abisgoun, and دهستان Dehestan, to کرکان Gurkan; and in the mountains I know not of any towns, besides سمنان Semnan, and قویم Kouim; and those belong to قارن کوه Karen Kouh.

The most considerable city of those we have mentioned is ری Rey. After Baghddad there is not in the eastern regions any city more flourishing. Its gates are much celebrated: one of them is called the دروازه ناطان Derwazeh Natan, facing the mountainous country, or the کوهستان عراق Kouhestan of Irak; another leads to Cazvin: another, called the دروازه کرهک Derwazeh Gurhek, is in the direction of قم Kom. And there are many remarkable streets and quarters in this city; such as روده Rudeh, and قلیسان Kelisan, and دهک نو Dehek Nou, and نصرabad Nasrabad, and ساریانان Sarbanan, and باب الجبال Bab al Jebal or the Mountain Gate; and the درهشام Der-i-Hesham, or Hesham's Gate; and the درآهنین Der-i-Ahenin, or the Iron Gate; and the gate called درعشاب Der-i-Ithab; but the quarter of Rudah is the most populous and flourishing of all.

In this place are many bazars, and caravanseras, and market-places. In the suburbs there is a mosque. The citadel is in good repair, and there is a wall round the suburbs, which is, however, falling to decay, and almost desolate. Here they have both river water and water brought by canals or trenches: one of these is called the کاریز شاهي Kareiz Shahi, or Royal Aqueduct; it passes by Sarbanan: another, called گیلانی Gilani, also passes through Sarbanan. For the most part the inhabitants drink the water of these aqueducts. There are many canals besides. Here they cultivate the land, and practise husbandry, and traffick for gold and direms. The people of this place are hospitable and polite. Here they manufacture fine linen, cotton, and camelots, which are sent to all parts of the world.

خوار Khar is a small town, supplied with water by a river which runs from دماوند Damavend. دهمه *Dehmeh, and شلینه Shelineh, are two towns belonging to the territories of Damavend; they are smaller than Khar.

Dehmeh is larger than Shelineh; it abounds in cultivated fields, gardens, and orchards, and fruits. There is not any place in the whole country of a more cool temperature.

In the territory of Rey there are villages larger than those towns; such as وامیز Vameiz, and ارینو Arinou, and درسین Dersein, and درا Dera, and قوسین Kousein, and سیست Seist, and خسرو Khosru, and others: and I have heard that in every one of these villages there are two thousand inhabitants or more.

* Or دهمه Webmeh.

From the territory of Rey, cotton and linen clothes are sent to Baghdad, and into Azerbaijan; and in those places which we have spoken of, there is not any navigable river: a stream flows from the summit of Damavend; and all round this mountain are considerable villages, such as دبیران Debiran, and درمیه Der-meyah. Of this place was علي بن شروين Ali ben Sherouin, who was taken prisoner on the banks of the river جیحون Jihoun.

The mountain of Damavend is the most eastern of all the mountains in Taberistan, and may be seen from all parts of the country; they call it اقترع*, because that on it there are not many trees.

But کومس Koumes belongs to Damavend; دامغان Dam-ghan is larger than خوار Khar of Rey; سمنان Semnan is smaller than Damghan; and بستم Bustam is smaller than Damghan: it is remarkable for excellent fruit.

قزوین Cazvin has two suburbs, with walls. The chief mosque is situated in the great suburbs. Here are two small canals or aqueducts, of which the water is used for drinking, and for the purposes of agriculture; yet, with this scarcity of water, the city is pleasant, and abounds in provisions: It is the pass into Deilman; and there are constant quarrels between the people of these places. It produces fruits, such as grapes and almonds, &c. so plentifully that they are carried to other parts of the country. This city is one mile by one mile.

آبهر Abher and زنجان Zengan are two small, but pleasant and well supplied towns; of which Zengan is the larger: but its inhabitants are idle and not industrious.

طبرستان Tabaristan is a considerable province. The buildings in it are of wood and reeds. It adjoins اران Aran.

ساری Sari is larger than Cazvin, well inhabited, and supplied with provisions. Silk is produced in great quantities throughout all quarters of Tabaristan; it is sent, for the greater part, to امل Amol. The people of Tabaristan have very thick and long hair, with heavy eye-brows; they speak very fast, and their usual diet is bread made of rice: they eat much fish, rice, and milk: they manufacture garments of silk and wool. In all Tabaristan there is not a river on which boats can be employed; but the sea is near.

گرجان Gurkan is a small place, less liable to rain and damps than Tabaristan. The people of Gurkan are amiable in their dispositions, of a generous and manly nature. Without the city is a piece of ground called بکراباد Bekrabad, through which runs a considerable stream; it produces much silk. This district is very well watered and cultivated: after you pass Irak, no spot is more abundant than Gurkan: it yields the fruits both of warm and cold climates; and snow is to be found even in summer. Many eminent men have come from this country. Dinars and direms are current in Tabaristan; and the من mun of that land is six hundred direms.

استرآباد Asterabad is situated near the Caspian Sea; from that you go to ابیسگون Abisgoun, and by the sea to خر Khozr, and در بند Derbend, and دیلمان Deilman, and other places: in all this country there is not any port or harbour more commodious or larger than Abisgoun. Here is a place called دهستان Dehestan, very fertile; and the Turks * come here from خوارزم Khwarezm.

This sea is not connected with any other; and if a person wishes to make a tour completely round it, nothing will impede him but a few rivers which fall into it from various quarters. The waters of this sea are bitter and dark-coloured; its bottom is a blackish clay, differing in this respect from the Sea of فلزم Kolzum, or of عمان Oman, or of پارس Pars. This Sea of Pars is of such clear water that one may see the white stones at the bottom; but the waters of this Sea of Khozr are dark-coloured, and in it there are not found any such things as pearls, or coral, or similar marine productions. It is, however, much frequented by the ships of merchants who traffick from one town to another; and it affords much fishing. In this ocean there are not any inhabited islands, as in the Sea of Fars and of Roum; but there are many trees and forests *.

* لیکن درختان و بیشه بسیار است It is not clear whether those trees occupy the islands of this sea, or skirt its borders.

One island is considerable, with a fountain of water and many trees; and there is another large island on the borders of لکزان Lekzan, which has also fresh water. To this island they bring cattle from بردع Berdaa in boats, and turn them out to graze, and leave them until they become fat.

Near ابسگون Abisgoun is a place called دهستان Dehestan, with very sweet and wholesome water. Here the people of the neighbouring places assemble for the purpose of fishing. It is said that there is a race of Turks (ترکان) dwelling in the vicinity of سیاه کوه Siah Kouh (or the black mountain.)

The sovereign of Atel resides on the western side: he is styled King, and surnamed بال Baul. Here are many tents; and in this country there are but a few edifices of clay, such as bazars (market-places) and bathing houses. In these territories are about ten thousand Mussulmans. The king's habitation is at a distance from the shore: it is constructed of burnt bricks; and this is the only building of such materials in all the country: they will not allow any body but the king to erect such a dwelling.

Of the Sea of Khozr, or the Caspian.

THE western side of this Sea belongs partly to دیلمان Deilman, and طبرستان Taberistan, and Gurkan, and its borders; and part of it is bordered by the deserts of خوارزم Khuarezm. On the western side is اران Aran, and موقان Moukan, and

The city of Atel اتل has four gates. One of those gates faces the river; another looks towards Iran, in the direction of the desert. The king of this country is a Jew: he has in his train four thousand Mussulmans, and Khodzrians (خزري) (Christians), and Idolaters; but his principal people are Jews: And this king has twelve thousand soldiers in his service, of whom when one dies, another person is immediately chosen into his place; and they have no other commander but him. And this king has under him nine magistrates or judges (قاضي): these are Mussulmans, Jews, Christians, and Idolaters. The smallest in number of the inhabitants of this country are the Jews; the greatest in number are the Mussulmans and Christians: but the king and his chief officers are Jews. There are magistrates of each religion; and when they sit in the tribunal of justice, they are obliged to report to the king all that passes, and to bring back his answer and opinion, and put his sentence into execution.

This city has not any suburbs; but the cultivated fields and grounds extend for near twenty farsang. Agriculture is much practised, and the husbandmen carry the produce of their labour in boats and carriages to the city. The chief diet of this people is fish and rice: they bring honey and wax from the borders of Rous روس. The principal persons of Atel are Mussulmans and merchants: their language is like that of the Turks (ترک) or Tartars), and is not understood by any other nation.

The river of Atel comes from the borders of جرجير Jerjir, and from that goes on to کیماک Kaimak, and to غر Ghuz, and so on to بلغار Bulgar, and falls into the sea near برطاس Bertas. It is said that this river, at the season when all its waters are collected, is greater than the river جیحون Jihoon; and that it rushes into the sea with such a body that it seems to conquer the water of the Caspian; and one can see its stream unmixed with the sea water, as far as a journey of two days.

In خزر Khozr there is a certain city called اسپید Asmid, which has so many orchards and gardens, that from دربند Derbend to سریر Serir the whole country is covered with the gardens and plantations belonging to this city. It is said that there are above forty thousand of them. Many of these produce grapes. In this town are many Mussulmans, who have mosques; and their houses are built of wood. The king is a Jew, in friendship with the Padshah of Khozr, and on good terms with the Padshah of سریر Serir. From this place to the borders of Serir, is two farsang.

The inhabitants of Serir are ترسا Tersas or Christians. It is said that in this Serir was a throne, and that there was a certain king of the kings of Pars, who, when he gave a principality to one of his sons, sent him here with a golden throne; which principality has continued established to this time. A son of Behram Chopin is said to have first possessed it*. The inhabitants of Serir are on good terms with the Mussulmans. In this part of Khozr I know not of any other town than سبيد Semid (before written Asmid.)

برطاس Bertas is a people near Khozr, on the banks of the river of اتل Atel. They are called برطاس; but the region is also styled in general خزر Khozr, روس Rous, or Serir.

The people of Khozr are near the Turks (ترکان), whom they resemble. They are of two classes; one of blackish complexions, and such dark hair that you would suppose them to be descended from the Hindoos: the other race fair complexioned; these sell their children; but it is not allowed among the Jews and the Christians to sell, or make one another slaves.

They bring from other countries those commodities which Khozr does not produce, such as tapestry or curtains, honey, candles, and similar articles. The people of Khozr have not materials for making garments or clothes: they therefore import them from کرکان Gurkan, Armenia, Azerbaijan, and Rourm. Their king is styled the خاقان خزر Khacan of Khozr.

* Behram Chopin is said to have flourished in the latter end of the sixth century of the Christian æra. See D'HERBELOT'S Bibl. Orient. Art. Baharam and Serir.

When a prince is to be raised to the Khacanship, they bring him forth, and tie a piece of silk about his throat, so tight that he can scarcely draw his breath. At that moment they ask him, how long he will hold the sovereignty ? He answers, "so many years." He then is set at liberty, and becomes Khacan of Khozr. But if he should not die before the expiration of the time he mentioned, when that space is fulfilled, they put him to death.

The Khacan must be always of the Imperial race. No one is allowed to approach him but on business of importance : then they prostrate themselves before him, and rub their faces on the ground, until he gives orders for their approaching him, and speaking. When a Khacan of Khozr dies, whoever passes near his tomb must go on foot, and pay his respects at the grave ; and when he is departing, must not mount on horseback, as long as the tomb is within view.

So absolute is the authority of this sovereign, and so implicitly are his commands obeyed, that if it seemed expedient to him that one of his nobles should die, and if he said to him, "Go and kill yourself," the man would immediately go to his house, and kill himself accordingly. The succession to the Khacanship being thus established in the same family ; when the turn of the inheritance arrives to any individual of it, he is confirmed in the dignity, though he possesses not a single dirhem. And I have heard from persons worthy of belief, that a certain young man used to sit in a little shop at the public market-place, selling petty articles; and that the people used to say, "When the present Khacan shall have departed, this man will succeed to the throne." But the young man was a Mussulman, and they give the Khacanship only to Jews.

The Khacan has a throne and pavilion of gold: these are not allowed to any other person. The palace of the Khacan is loftier than the other edifices.

In the district of Bertas the houses are built of wood. The people are of two tribes or classes; one near the extreme confines of غز Ghuz, near بلغار Bulgar, about two thousand in number, under the dominion of the Bulgarians; the other next the Turks. The language of Bulgar and of Khozr is the same. Bulgar is the name of a city, where there are Mussulmans and mosques; and near Bulgar is another town called سو*, where there are also Mussulmans and mosques.

In these two cities there are about ten thousand inhabitants. Here the length of a summer's night is such that a man cannot go more than the distance of one farsang—rather, not so much; and in winter the day is equally short as the night in summer.

* Doubtful in the Eton MS. and mine.

Of the روس Rous, there are three races or tribes: one near Bulgar; their king dwells in a town called *کونابه Gounabeh: this is larger than Bulgar. Another race is called ارثانی Orthani or Arthai; their king resides in a place called ارثا Artha: but the other tribe, called جلابه Jellabeh, is superior to those; but no one goes for the purposes of traffick farther than Bulgar. No one goes to ارثا Artha, because that there they put to death any stranger whom they find. Artha produces lead and tin, and the animal called (سپورسیاه) Black Martin or Scythian Sable. The Russes burn their dead; and it is an established rule amongst them not to shave one another's beards. Bulgar is next to Roum. It is a powerful and numerous people, for the greater part Christians.

the (بادیه) desert, where the Arabs have their dwelling; or the other desert between Oman and Yemameh (or همامه Hemameh), towards the sea, on the borders of Yemen, where also they reside; or the deserts of Makran and سند Sind, in which, likewise, are the habitations of men, and meadows for the pasture of cattle. But this desert of Khorasan is almost totally uninhabited and waste. To the north it has Khorasan and part of سیستان Seiestan; to the west it borders on قومس Koumis, ری Rey, and قم Kom, and کاشان Kashan.

This desert is the haunt of robbers and thieves, and without a guide it is very difficult to find the way through it; and one can only go by the well-known paths. The robbers abound in this desert, because it is situated on the confines of so many different provinces. Part of this desert belongs to Khorasan, part of it to Sejestan; parts also to Fars, Kirman, Isfahan, Kom, کاشان Kashan, Rey, and the borders of قومس Koumis, and its vicinity.

One of the mountains in this desert is called کرکس کوه Karges Kouh, with its four sides towards the desert. The circumference of this mountain is not more than two farsang: in the middle of this mountain there is a spring called آب بیده Aub Beideh.

سياه كوه Siah Kouh, or the Black Mountain, belongs to the province of Jebal.

In this desert are some springs; but I never heard of any towns, except, perhaps, one little city (* پنم) of Kirman, on the road to Sejestan.

In this desert, on the road from Isfahan to Nishapour, there is a place called جرمة Jurmeh. On the confines of this desert are some well-known towns: on the borders of Pars, Mabin or Ma-hin ماهين, Yezd, عقدہ Akedeh, اردستان Ardistan of Isfahan; and on the Kirman side, خبيص Khubeis, and روزي Ruzi, and برماشير Bermashir. On the borders of قوهستان Kuhestan are كم Kom, قاشان Kashan, and دره Durreh: so on to the borders of Rey and of خوار Khar, also سمنان Semnan, and دامغان Damghan, on the borders of قومس Koumes.

The principal roads through this desert are those from Isfahan to Rey, from Kirman to Sejestan, from Fars and Kirman to Khorasan; the road of Yezd, on the borders of Fars; the road of روزي Ruzi, and خبيص Khubeiz, and another called راهنو, or the new road from Khorasan into Kirman. These are the best known roads.

one merhileh;—desert. To the borders of this desert belongs the Kouh Karges کوه کرکس. At this Rebat are men stationed, who guard the road: they have reservoirs, into which they bring running water from other places.

From this to Danchy دانچی, one merhileh: this is a large village, and well inhabited. Thence to Isfahan, one short merhileh. In going from Rey to Isfahan, the Karges Kouh is on the left hand, and the Siah Kouh سیاه کوه on the right: The Siah Kouh is a notorious haunt of robbers. From Karges Kouh to Deir Kehein دیر کحین is a journey of four farsang; from Deir Kehein to Siah Kouh, five farsang; and from Siah Kouh to Karges Kouh, nine farsang.

Road from Mabein to Khorasan.

From Mabein مابین, or Babein بابین, to Mezraieh مزراعده, which is situated on the skirts of the desert, one merhileh: here are fountains and running water, and but a few inhabitants. From that to Harmeh حرمه, four merhileh: at every interval of two farsang is a vaulted building and reservoir of water. From Harmeh to Nu Khani نوخانی, four merhileh: at every four farsang is a vaulted building, with a cistern of water. From Nu ahi Khani نو اخی خانی to Kebat Houran رباط حوران, one merhileh. From this Rebat to the village of Meskehan مسکهان

Muskehan, one short merhileh: thence to طلیس Telis, one merhileh; from that to بردسیر Berdsir, two merhileh: thence to Nishapour, five merhileh; and the road to the village of کزی Gozi is altogether three farsang. طلیس Telis is a large village, containing one thousand inhabitants.

Road of Shour.

Shour is the name of a stream of water in the desert. This road begins at the village of بره *Berch, on the edge of the desert toward the Kirman side. From that village the road winds to the fountain, one merhileh: In this journey there is not any building seen. Thence to Omru Bersereh, بعمر و برسرچ, one merhileh: here are great pits of red clay, and wells from which the water runs into a reservoir. And in this desert of شور Shour, as you go from Khorasan to Kirman, "on the right hand, at the distance of two farsang, is a grove of trees: they say that here are trees and statues of men†." From that to the آب شور Ab Shour, one merhileh: some vaulted buildings are erected over this fountain of Shur. From this to کُزِي Gozi, one merhileh; and in this day's journey, at four farsang from کُزِي Gozi, is a reservoir of rain-water.

Of the Road of Ravan.

THIS road begins at the village of Ravan, on the borders of Kirman. From راوان Ravan to دِکُوخوِي Deku Khoui, one merhileh, where a stream flows. Thence to سَور دِوارِده Sur Duardeh (probably سَور دِوازِده or سُور), one merhileh. Thence to رِبَاط وِیران Rebat Viran (or the ruined Rebat deserted, &c.), one merhileh: this place is never free from robbers. Thence to دِیر بَرکان Deir Berkan, one merhileh: there are about twenty houses in this place, where is a fountain; the people here are good husbandmen, and they have date trees. At the distance of two farsang is likewise a fountain, with date trees; but no one lives there, as it is the haunt of robbers. At every two farsang is a cistern or reservoir of water, as far as بَیرِشک Bireshk: The water of Bireshk is sweet. From Bireshk to جَور Jawr is one merhileh: from Jawr to لَست Lest or یَست Yest, two merhileh; and from Jawr to کُزِي Gozi, three merhileh.

Road of Khebeis.

KHEBEIS is a town on the borders of this desert, with running water and date trees. From that to دوراک Durak is one merhileh; and during this stage, as far as the eye can reach, every thing wears the appearance of ruin and desolation; for there is not any kind of water. One merhileh to شور Shour, where is a broad water-course of rain water: the stream of Shour waters these grounds, and torrents fall into this water-course. Thence to ارسل Arsel, where is a small hill, one merhileh: thence to a pond, or reservoir of rain water, one merhileh: thence to a Rebat, two merhileh; here is a fountain of running water, and about two hundred inhabitants, who live by husbandry. Thence to کوکور Kou Kour, one merhileh; this is a populous village on the borders of کوهستان Kouhistan. From Kou Kour to خوست Khust, two merhileh: and on this road of Khebeis, when one goes two farsang from the Rebat, where is the fountain on the way towards Khorasan, there are, for about four farsang, black stones. From Arsel to Kur (کورخاوجی or کوکور) are small stones, some white, some blackish, like camphor (کافور), and some greenish, like glass.

مسافات از یزد بخراسان

Stages and Distances from Yezd to Khorasan.

FROM Yezd to جهر Jehr, or حمر Hamr, one merhileh: in this stage are fountains and reservoirs of rain-water, but no inhabitants. From حمره Hamreh to خواند Khouaneh, one merhileh: this is the desert; but at Khouaneh are about two hundred inhabitants, who cultivate the fields, and keep four-footed creatures. From Khouaneh to (تل سیاه و سپید) the black and white tel, or heap, one merhileh; in this day's journey are not any buildings to be seen; at this place is a reservoir of rain-water. From Tel-i-Siah ve Sepeed to سبَاعِید Sebaaid, one merhileh: this Sebaaid is a large village, containing four hundred and seventy inhabitants.

From the Rebat to ریک Rik, one merhileh: at this stage is a reservoir of rain-water, and a caravansera, but no inhabitants. From this to the رباط کوران Rebat Gouran, one merhileh: this Rebat is constructed of stone and mortar; and there are three or four persons residing in it, who take care of it: here also is a spring of water.

From Rebat Gouran to رباط کره Rebat Gurreh, one merhileh.

At the caravansera of زادخاور Zadakhour is a well of water; but there are not any inhabitants. From زاداخرت Zadakheret (before زادخاور) to بیشا داران Beisha Daran, one merhileh: this is a village containing three hundred inhabitants; they have water in trenches or ditches, and cultivate their lands. From Beisha Daran to another village, دهیہ دیگر Dhey Digur (perhaps a proper name), one merhileh: this is a well cultivated and inhabited place, containing about five hundred persons, who are husbandmen; here they have running water. Hence to برنارادویه Bernaraduiéh, one merhileh. At this stage is a caravansera with a well; but there are not any inhabitants. From this to Rebát زنگی Zingy, one merhileh: at this Rebát are three or four persons; there is also running water.

From Rebát Zingy to استلشت Astelesht; here is a reservoir of rain-water, also a caravansera, but without any inhabitants. From استلشت Astelesht to بریر Berir, one merhileh: this Berir is on the borders of لست Lest, belonging to Nishapour: at two farsang of this stage they have erected khans (inns), and reservoirs of water; and the roads of this desert are here mentioned together, viz. the road of Isfahan; then the road of Rey; then the road of Mabin; then the road of Khorasan; then that of Shour; then the road of Khebeis; and after that the road called rah nuh (new road), which is that of Kirman.

The New Road.

FROM Bermasir برماسیر to Resnan رسنان, one merhileh: here are date trees. From this, passing into the desert, no buildings appear. Thence to Cheshmeh Sirab چشمه سیراب (a spring of clear water), one merhileh. From that to the village of Salm, سلم four merhileh of desert; they say this village belongs to Kirman: thence to Herat هرات, two days journey (دوروزه راه)

But the road of Seistan is this: From Bermasir برماسیر to Basekh بسج, on the borders of Kirman, five days journey. From Besekh to Seistan, seven merhileh, which appears from the map of Seistan and Kirman.

Account of Seiestan or Sejestan.

THE east of Seiestan is bounded by the بیابان مکران desert of Makran, and of the land of Sind زمین سند, and partly by the territories of مولتان Multan. To the west it has Khorasan and part of the territories of Hind: To the north it has Hindoostan; it is bounded on the south by the deserts of Seiestan and Kirman.

زنج Zarinje is fortified, and has a castle, with walls and ditches: the water which supplies these ditches, springs up in them; and it has other supplies of water. It has also five gates. One gate is called در آهن Deri Ahen (iron gate); another, the دروازه کهن Dervazeh Kohen: a road passes through each of these gates. The third gate is that of کرونه Gurkouneh, on the Khorasan road. The fourth, called در بلسکی Der Beleski, (perhaps for بستی Bosti) leads to بست Bost: this is the most frequented of any of these gates. All these have gates of iron.

The fortifications have thirteen gates: one called دروازه رمینا Dervazeh Remina, or مینا Meina, which leads to Pars; another, the دروازه کرکان Dervazeh Gurkan; the third, Dervazeh Ashirek دروازه اشیرک; the fourth, در سان Deri San; the fifth, دروازه شعیب Dervazeh Shaieb; the sixth, در خویک Deri Khouiek; the seventh, در کار Deri Kar; the eighth, دروازه طعام Deri Belbiki, or Beliski; the ninth, در ابریس Deri Aireis; the tenth, is در انجوه Deri Anjoueh; the eleventh, دروازه رستان Deri Zin-gian; the twelfth, is the در زنکیان Deri Zin-gian. All these gates are built of earth or clay, because wood becomes rotten, and decays.

Here is a mosque, situated without the Dervazeh Pars. The Governor's palace is situated between the دروازه طعام Derwazeh Taam and Dervazeh Pars.

Between these two gates, also, is a lodge or dwelling, erected by یعقوب بن لیث Yacoub ben Leith; and the Governor's palace is one of those which belonged to عمرو بن لیث Omru ben Leith.

Near the Der Gurkounch, and the Dervazeh Biseky, there is a large building, which was the treasury of Omru ben Leith. The bazars of the town are situated about the mesjed or mosque: they are ample, and well supplied; as are those of the citadel, one of which was built by order of Yacoub ben Leith, who also bequeathed a legacy to the mosque, and another to an infirmary (پیهارستان) or hospital for the sick. And from this bazar there is a daily revenue of a thousand direms.

In this city are streams of running water: one passes by the Dervazeh Kohen; another by the Dervazeh Nu; and another by the gate of Taam: where these three meet together, they turn a mill. Near the mosque is a large reservoir of water; from which a stream flows, and enters the gardens belonging to the principal houses. The greatest number of houses are about the suburbs; the citadel, however, has its gardens and running streams.

Some land in the vicinity of this city is barren and sandy. The air is very warm. Here they have dates: there are no hills. In winter there is no snow: in general there is a wind, and they have windmills accordingly.

Between Kirman and Seiestan there are some considerable buildings, the remains, it is said, of the antient city called رام شهرستان Ram Shehristan; and they say the river of Seiestan رود سیستان runs through this place. The city of Zerenje was built by men originally of this Ram Shehr.

ذکر رودیهای این دیار

Of the Rivers of this Country (Sejestan.)

THE most considerable river of Sejestan is called the رود Rudi Heirmend, which comes from غور Ghaur to هیرمند

the city of Bost بست, and from that runs to Sejestan, to the lake Zareh زره دريای. This lake is very small, when the waters of the river are not copious; when the river is full, the lake increases accordingly. The length of this lake is about thirty farsang from the quarter of Gouid گوید, on the Kouhistan road (کوهستان), to the bridge of Kirman کرمان پل, on the road of Pars. In breadth this lake is about one merhileh. Its waters are sweet and wholesome, and afford abundance of fish. All about this lake are situated villages and small towns, excepting on that side next the desert, where there are not any habitations or buildings.

The Heirmend رود هيرمند is a large river, and goes one stage (یک منزل) from Seistan. There are some other streams, as that which runs to Lesker لسکر; another called Sebirud سبيرون or Seibud سيبود; and another called Siareh Rud سياره رود, or Sibareh: and in the seasons that these streams are full, boats come down the Heirmund from Bost to Seistan; and the rivers of Seistan all proceed from the Siareh Rud سياره رود.

There is another stream called Rud Shaabeh رود شعبه, which affords water to thirty different villages. There is another river here, called Rud Meila رود ميلا, which is said to fall into the lake Zareh. On the road to Bost بست, over this river, they have constructed a bridge of boats, like those bridges which are in Irak. Of the streams which fall into the lake Zareh, one is the رود عامل Rud Aamil, which comes from the low grounds of فَرِه Fereh; and رود یسک Rudi Sek, which comes out of غور Ghaur: its waters are almost consumed in passing through the land; but what remains of it falls into the Zarch lake.

Sejestan is a fertile and fine country: it produces dates in abundance. Most of the inhabitants are wealthy and opulent. In the district called رَحِج Reheje, they apply themselves very much to farming and husbandry. In this district are the towns of تَل Tell, and دَرغَس Darghes, on the banks of the هیرمند Heirmend; and تَغْهِي Toghahi, and خَلِج Khilje, and کابل Kabul, and غور Ghaur, are of the colder climate.

The Khiljians are of a Turkish (ترکان Tartar) race, who, in ancient times, settled in this country, between Hindoostan and the borders of Sejestan. They resemble the Turks or Tartars in personal appearance, and retain the dress and customs of that nation; and all speak the Turkish language.

بَست Bost is one of the principal cities in the province of Sejestan; except زرنِج Zirenje, no city is larger than it. The inhabitants of Bost are polite and generous, resembling, in dress and manners, the people of Irak. It is a city well supplied with provisions, fruits, and dates: they trade from this city with Hindoostan.

غزنین Ghaznein is a small city, one merhileh from Seiestan. From the vicinity of this place came the * صفاریان Soffarians, who conquered Pars, Sejestan, Khorasan, and Kirman: they were four brothers, یعقوب عمرو طاهر علی فرزندان لیث Yacoub, Omru, Taher, and Ali, the sons of Leith. Taher was killed at the gates of Bost. Yacoub died at his return from Baghdad, and his tomb is at Nishapour. Ali spent some time in گرگان Gurkan; then settled in دهستان Dehestan. Yacoub, it is said, had originally been the servant of a coppersmith; and Omru, a camel-driver.

طاق Tauk is a small town near Bost: it has a suburb, or neighbouring village, which supplies fruits and grapes for all parts of Seiestan: it has also reservoirs of water. فره Fereh is a large town. In the neighbouring villages there is much farming carried on; and there, also, are dates in great abundance. داور Daver, and طالقان Talecan, are at two menzils distance from them: they are small towns near فیروزمند Firouzmend, with running water and cultivated grounds.

* For anecdotes of this extraordinary family, see the Bibliothèque Orientale of D'HERBELOT, articles Soffarian, and Leith, &c.

Distances and Stages of Sejستان.

THE first merhileh from Sejستان to Herat is called کړکونده Gurkouneh, three farsang. From Gurkouneh to پیر Peir, four farsang: thence to حریر Herir, one merhileh: thence to the bridge of the river of فره Fereh, one merhileh; and from the bridge to Fereh, one merhileh: from دره Dereh to کوسان Kou-san, one merhileh: this is the boundary of Sejستان. From Kou-san to اسفران Asferan, one merhileh: from اسفرار Asferar to کاریز Kariz, one merhileh: from Kariz to Siah Kouh, one merhileh.

Road from Sejستان to Bost.

THE first merhileh of this way is called رسوق Resouk: to سرور Serur, one merhileh; to the Dhey حروري Heruri, one merhileh. A narrow river (تنک perhaps the river's name) crosses this road: over it there is a bridge constructed of brick. From this bridge of Heruri to دهک Dhehek one menzil: thence to Rebat ازسور Azsour, one menzil: then another Rebat; also the Rebat هستان Hestan; from Rebat Hestan to Rebat عبدالله Abdallah; and from Rebat Abdallah to Bost; and from Rebat دهک Dhehek to within one farsang of Bost, the whole is desert.

Road from Bost to Ghizni.

FROM Bost to Rebat فیروزمند Firouzmend, one menzil: thence to Rebat معون Maaun, one menzil: from Maaun to Rebat کر Kur, one menzil; thence to the place called شهر رحج Roha or Rohaje, one menzil: thence to نسکین آباد Nuskeen abad (or Tuskeen), one menzil: thence to خراسانه Khorasaneh, one menzil: thence to رباط سیراب Rebat Sirab, one menzil; thence to ادفی Audafi, or Adeki, one menzil; thence to Rebat چنگلاباد Chungalabad, one menzil; thence to دهیہ عوم Dhey aoum, one menzil; thence to Dhey خاست Khast, one menzil; thence to Dhey جومه Jumah; one menzil; thence to خابسار Khabsar, one menzil.

The boundary is the village or Dhey خساجی Khesajy; and the Rebat هزار دهی Hezar Dhey is very large, and the first within the borders of غزنی Ghizni; thence to غزنی Ghizni is sixteen merhileh.

Road from Sejestan by the Desert.

FROM سنگین Senkin, one menzil: thence to رحم Rohah to بم Bom; thence to سکيجان Sehijan: total, fourteen merhileh.

راه از سیستان بکرمان و فارس

Road from Sejestan to Kirman and Fars.

THE first stage on the Fars road is خاوران Khaveran: the second, دارک Daruk; from Daruk to برین Berin, and thence to کاو پلنک Gau Pelenk; thence to ماسی Masi; thence to قازی Cazi; thence to کرامحان Keramhan; which five stages, altogether, are eight merhileh. There are five towns on the borders of Kirman, belonging to Seistan, built by عمرو لیث Omru Leith: here is the قنطره کرمان Kantereh Kirman, which is a bridge; and طاق Tauk, on the road of کوبر Gouir, five farsang. From Seistan to حزه Hareh, (or فزه Fereh), one merhileh; between Fereh and کریین Kurreen, and between  and فره Farreh, three merhileh; and this Farreh is opposite Kurneen or كربين Kerbin, near the desert. طاق Tauk is on the road of کوبر Gouir. From Bost to سروان Sirvan, two merhileh; on the road of دوار Duar, cross the river Heirmend, one merhileh: thence to درغش Durghesh, one day's journey: from نعس Naas to هجرای Hejrai, about one farsang; from هجرای Hejrai to اسفجای Asfjai, three merhileh.

Account of the Province of Khorasan.

KHORASAN, on the east, is bounded by part of Sejestan and Hindoostan; because all that lies beyond Ghaur may be esteemed in Hindoostan. To the west lie the desert of غزنه Ghazneh, and the borders of کرکان Gurkan. To the north of Khorasan, ماورالنهر Maweralnahr, and some towns of ترکستان Turkestan. To the south the deserts of Fars and قوسس Koumis, part of which extends towards the borders of کرکان Gurkan, طبرستان Tabaristan, ری Rey, and the hills of ديلم Dilem.

Now it is time to exhibit a Map of Khorasan, and to describe its various divisions.

From the borders of کرمان Kirman to the coast of the Caspian دريای خزر, and to the boundary of خوارزم Khwarezm is all well inhabited, and cultivated, and fertile.

The cities of chief note in Khorasan are these four : مرو Meru, and بلخ Balkh, and نیشاپور Nishapour, and هرات Herat. The others belong to the various Kourehs (کوهان) or districts ; as قهستان Kuhestan, نسا Nesa, and سرخس Sarkhes, and اسفرین Asferin, and کنج رشاق Kunje Reshak, and بوشک Boushek, and بارغیس Barghis, and کورکانان Gourkanan, and مروالرود Meru-al-roud, and غرجستان Ghurjestan, and بامیان Bamian, and تخرستان Tokharestan, and زم Zam, and آمل Amol. We speak of خوارزم Khwarezm, as belonging to ماورالنهر Mawer-alnahr, or Transoxania.

The city of Nishapour is situated on a level ground, and extends one farsang in every direction : the buildings are of clay. There are two considerable suburbs, well inhabited, with mosques. Here is a place which they call لشکرگاه Leshkur gah *; and the governor's palace is situated in the میدان حسین Meidan Hosein, near which is also the prison. The governor's palace was built by order of Omru ben Leith.

There are four gates. One is called درپول Der-i-poul; another, دروازه کوی معضل Derwazeh Goui Moasel; the third is called درقهندز Der-i-Kohendez; and the fourth, Derwazeh poul Nekein دروازه پول نکین. Kohendez is without the suburbs. The gate which leads toward Balkh and Maweralnahr is called دروازه خبک Derwazeh Khebuk; and the gate towards کرکان Gurkan and عراق Irak is called دروازه عشاب Derwazeh Ishab. On the road leading to Pars and Kuhestan there is a gate called دروازه سپرپس Derwazeh Seirpes. In the suburbs are two market places, or bazars, and fountains of water.

The city of Nishapour is watered by a subterraneous stream, which is conveyed to the fields and gardens, and falls into cisterns and reservoirs without the town; and there is a considerable stream, that waters the city and villages about it: this stream is called سقا Seka. In all the province of Khorasan there is not any city larger than Nishapour, nor any blessed with a more pure and temperate air. Here they make garments of silk and fine linen, which are in such esteem that they send them to all quarters.

The places depending on, and bounding Nishapour, are numerous and extensive; as بورکان Bourkan, and مان Maan, and سلوتک Selutek, and ترکان Turkan, and زوزن Zozen, and کندروجان Kanderuhan, and داون Daven, and اردوار Ard-var, and خسروگرد Khosrugird, and بهمناباد Bahmanabad, and خرینان Kherinan, and ساروان Saruan, and رمواده Remvadeh, and مهرجان Mihrjan, and اسفراین Asferin, and زیدین Zeidin, and کرکان Gurkan, and Tous, to the north of Nishapour, where is the meshid of Ali ben Mousa al Redha, on whom be the blessing of God! There, also, is the burial-place of Haroun*.

In the mountains of Nishapour and Tous they find Turquoises. In former times the governors of Khorasan resided at Meru, or at Balkh; but the Taherian† family made Nishapour the capital. Many illustrious personages and learned men, as is well known, have issued from this place.

The city of مرو Meru, which is also called مرو شهبان Meru Shaljan, is very ancient. Some say it was originally built by Tahmuras, or by Dhul Kernein (Alexander the Great). Here are three celebrated mosques: one which was erected at the first introduction of Islam, they call the old mosque. Four streams water this city : near one of these the ancient walls and buildings were situated, of which some vestiges may yet be seen. There are four gates : one, the در شاریسان Deri Sharistan, near the great mosque : the second is called در شهجان Deri Shehjan ; the third, در بر Deri Ber ; the fourth, در مشکان Deri Mishkan ; this is the gate of Khorasan. Near this gate was the camp and palace of Mamoun, where he resided until his succession to the khalifat. The رود امل Rudi Amol is a considerable river : those streams which we have mentioned, all proceed from it ; and it is called the مرغاب Murghab or the Water of Meru آب مرو.

* The Khalif Haroun Arrashid died in the year of the Hegira 193, (A. D. 808.)

Here Yezdegird, the last Persian monarch, was slain in a mill ; which circumstance gave to the Mussulmans possession of Farsistan. From Meru also rose the splendour of the Abbassides ; and Mamoun was at Meru when he became heir to the Khalifat. Various gallant generals and illustrious learned men has Meru produced ; so that in more remote times, it was remarkable above all other places of Iran. برزویه Barzouieh, the physician who excelled all others of his profession, and باربد Barbud, the musician who composed such delightful airs, were of this place. The melodies of Barbud are still imitated in this country.

The fruits of Meru are finer than those of any other place ; and one cannot see in any other city such palaces, with groves, and streams and gardens. They manufacture silk at Meru ; and I have heard that the art of making it was originally transferred from Meru to Taberistan, and that they still send to Meru for the eggs of the silkworms, from the other cities. The cotton and linen of Meru are also highly esteemed.

Herat * is the name of a city to which belong the following places: Malef مالف, Hessan حسان, Aserinan† اسرینان, Aubeh اوبه, Marabad ماراباد, Dashan داشان, Kerukh کروج, Hust هست, Masheran ماشران, Ader ادر, Sheker Kuaran شکر کواران, Kousef کوسف, Ashran اشران. The city of Herat has a castle with ditches. This castle is situated in the center of the town, and is fortified with very strong walls. Kehendiz قهندز, with its mosque, belongs to this city. The governor's palace is situated in the suburb called Khorasan Abad خراسان آباد.

Herat extends about half a farsang on the road of Busheng or Pusheng پوشنگ. There are four gates; one on the road to Balkh; another, on the Nishapour road, called Zeyadi زیادی; another, which they call Derwazeh Khushk دروازه خشک. All the gates are made of wood, except that on the road to Balkh, which is of iron, and situated in the midst of the city. In all Khorasan and Maweralnahr there is not any place which has a finer or more capacious mosque than Heri (or Herat). Next to it

* Or Heri هری.

† Aserinan or Aserbenan اسرینان.

we may rank the mosque of Balkh; and, after that, the mosque of سیستان Seiestan.

At the distance of two farsang from Herat there is a mountain, between which and the city there is not any garden, orchard, nor water, except the river of the city and a bridge. In all the other directions there are gardens and orchards. This mountain, of which we have spoken, produces not either grass or wood, or any thing but stones, which serve for mill-stones. Here is a place inhabited called سکه Sicah, with a temple or church of Christians.

The most flourishing quarter of Herat is that in the direction of the gate called در پیروز Deri Pirouz (or Firouz). The water here rises in the vicinity of the رباط گردان Rebat Kirdan; and when it approaches Herat, other streams branch off from it. One of these is called رود یرخوی Rud Yarkhoui, and it waters the district of سپید اسنگ Sepid Asenk: another stream runs through the villages of کراسان Kirasan and سیاوشان Siaveshan. The river called کبک Kubuk, waters the villages of عربان Aarian, and گریگر Gurigur. There is also the river سعوکی Saaveki running towards پوشنگ Pusheng; and the river اردنجان Ardenjan, which runs towards the village of سیرشیان Seirshian; and the river نسکوکان Neskukan, which waters the village of ورین Verin; and the river خهرکی Khehrki, which runs amidst the gardens and orchards of the city of Herat. On the Seiestan road the whole way is planted with gardens.

مالان Malan is a smaller place than كروخ Keroukh; it has many orchards and gardens. حسان Hessan is smaller than Malan, and has but few gardens, and little running water. اسرينان Aserinan is more remarkable for pasture and tillage, than for orchards and gardens; and the inhabitants of this village are hereticks or schismatics*. ماراباد Marabad is well supplied with water, and abounds with gardens. اسفران Asferan has four towns belonging to it.

پوشنگ Pousheng is about half the size of Herat, and built on the same plan. The towns depending on Pousheng are, خسروگرد Khosrugird, كوسري Kouseri and حره Hereh. Pousheng produces such a number of arar† trees, as is not to be found in all Khorasan beside: they are sent to all parts. The river of Pousheng comes from Heri, and runs on to سرخس Sarkhes; but in a season of excessive heat the water does not run so far. Pousheng has a castle, with a ditch: it has three gates.

كوسري Kouseri is a smaller town than Pousheng; but it is well watered, and has gardens, groves, and orchards.

بادغيس Badghis has several places within its territory: The كوه سيم Kouh Seim, كوي عهاباد Koui Ummabad, and بست Best, and حارور Hharur, and كابرون Kaberoun, and كالون Kaloun, and دهستان Dehestan. The inhabitants of Koui Ummabad are of the Shian* sect. The Kouh Seim contains mines of silver. There are running streams at Koui Ummabad, and at Harur; but for the purposes of husbandry rain water is used there; also at Kaloun and Kaberoun, where they have well water. The silver mines are on the road to Sarkhes.

كيف Keif is a smaller place than بين Bein. Bein is larger than Pousheng. Both Keif and Bein are well-watered, and abound in gardens and orchards.

مروالرو Meru-al-rud † is a larger town than Pousheng, with a considerable river, which is the same that runs to Meru (Shahjan). Here are extensive gardens and orchards. The town of كوشك احف Koushek Ahef is also well watered, and has gardens, but not equal to those of Meru-al-rud. The air of طالقان Talkan is wholesomer than that of Meru-al-rud. The river runs between these, and is crossed over by a bridge. Here are many gardens and plantations. Talkan is about the same size as Meru-al-rud: it is situated amid hills; but has running water, and orchards that produce good fruit.

† Or Meru'rud.

Gourkam is the name of a district, where there is a colony of Jews. Shiur Kan is a district, with a village called Kanderm. San is a small town, the inhabitants of which are of the Shian sect; it is smaller than Meru-al-rud: it has running water with some cultivated grounds, and gardens, and orchards. In the district of Gourkan the Sekhtian Gourkani (a kind of Morocco leather) is prepared, which they send to all parts of Khorasan. From Shiurkan to Amar is one merhileh; and from Shiurkan to Barab, two merhileh; and from Shiurkan to Kanderm, four merhileh.

Two towns belong to Ghurjestan, one called, Neshin, the other Surmin, nearly of equal size. Neshin produces great quantities of rice*; and Surmin of dried grapes. From Neshin one goes to the Derreh of Meru-al-rud; and from Neshin to Surmin is the distance of one merhileh. Ghaur, which is a considerable district, I shall enumerate among the regions of Islam, or Mohamedanism: because many True Believers dwell there. It is a mountainous country, well inhabited, with running streams, and gardens,

(the gate of the Indians): another is called Deri Jehudan (the Jew's gate): another, Deri Shest-bend; and one called Deri Yahia. Through the town runs a stream called the Rudi Haas, which passes out at the gate of the Nubehar: this stream turns ten mills, and waters several villages and districts, and flows as far as Siahgird. In the direction of every gate there are gardens and orchards. The walls of Balkh are made of clay, and there is not any ditch.

Of Tokharestan Taikan طایقان the largest city is situated on a plain, in the vicinity of mountains. It is watered by a considerable river, and has many orchards and gardens. Anderabeh اندرابه is situated between the mountains and Penjhir پنجپیر. There are two rivers, one the Rud Anderabeh رود اندرابه; the other Rud Kasan رود کاسان; with gardens and orchards. The other towns of Tohkarestan are nearly of the same size as these; but Taikan is the largest of all.

Zualein زوالین and Derab دراب are two towns, with running water, and considerable plantations of trees. Iskandereh اسکندره, or Sekandereh, is situated in the midst of the mountains. Khesh خش is the largest town of this mountainous country; also, the towns of Mank منک and Melenk ملنک are amongst the hills, where there are various streams, which, as they approach ترمد Termed, are collected together, and fall into the river جیحون Jihoon, (the Oxus.)

منک Mank is a larger town than Melenk; but the houses of both are made of clay. بدخشان Badakhshan is smaller than Mank. The neighbouring grounds are well cultivated, and the district populous, with many gardens on the banks of the river. The hills here abound in excellent cattle; and Badakhshan produces the ruby (لعل) and lapis lazuli (الجرن). The mines are in the mountains; and there is also much musk at Badakhshan.

پنجہر Penjhir is a town situated on the mountains, containing about ten thousand inhabitants, people of bad character: here are gardens and running water, but husbandry is neglected. جاریانہ Jarianeh is a smaller town than Penjhir. Between these two places are the mines of ore, in which the people dwell, without gardens, orchards, or tilled lands. The river of Penjhir runs through the town, and passes from Jarianeh till it comes to فروان Ferouan, and so proceeds into Hindoostan.

بامیان Bamian is a town about half as large as Balkh, situated on a hill. Before this hill runs a river, the stream of which flows into غرجستان Gurjestan. Bamian has not any gardens nor orchards, and it is the only town in this district situated on a hill: all the others have gardens and orchards, except غزنی Ghizni, which has not any. A stream runs through Ghizni, than which of all the towns in the districts of Balkh, none is more wealthy or commercial, being the pass or frontier of Hindoostan.

کابل Kabul is a town with a very strong castle, accessible only by one road: this is in the hands of the Mussulmans; but the town belongs to the infidel Indians. They say that a king is not properly qualified to govern, until he has been inaugurated at Kabul, however distant he may have been from it. Kabul is also (like Ghizni) a pass into Hindoostan. The fruits of a warm climate, which abound at Balkh, are brought to Kabul, except dates, which do not grow at Balkh, where snow falls. Kabul is situated in a warm climate, but does not produce date trees.

غور Ghaur is a mountainous country. In the places about it there are Mussulmans; but Ghawr is mostly inhabited by Infidels. Here are great mountains. The dialect of Ghawr is like that of Khorasan. It is populous, containing many running streams; and I have described it as belonging to Khorasan, because it borders on that province; in like manner including Bamian, and Penjhir, and Maweralnaher, as far as Turkestan. The mountains of these places all abound with mines.

But the جيحون Jihoon (or river Oxus) and خوارزم Khwarezem, and امل Amol, and زم Zam, we reckon as belonging to Maweralnabar (Transoxania); and shall speak of them accordingly. Kharezem is situated on the borders of the (Caspian) sea ; and the bounds of it, from Balkh and Meru and its other extremities, are all a desert, in which there is not any thing but sand. This desert affords not any running stream : the people use well-water until you come as far as Meru.

Sheep are produced in Ghizni, and Ghaur, and Khilje. Garments of silk and linen are brought from Balkh and Nishapour. The best sheep are those of Ghizni ; and the best water, that of the river Jihoon. The men of Balkh are ingenious, and learned in religion and law, and of polite manners. Nishapour is the pleasantest part of Khorasan, and the inhabitants of the most amiable and chearful disposition. The warm parts of Khorasan are, قزستان Kouhestan, and the borders of کرمان Kirman and پارس Pars (or Farsistan). The cold part of Khorasan is about بامیان Bamian ; for I speak of those places bordering on Kharezem as belonging to Maweralnahr.

Of the Roads and Stages of Khorasan.

WE shall not here particularly describe the roads and stages of Khorasan, because they are already sufficiently known. We shall content ourselves with mentioning, that from the borders of Nishapour, to the village or دهيه كردان Dhey Kürdan, on the confines of قومس Koumes, near اسداباد Asedabad, is a distance of seven stages or منزل menzils; and from Dhey Kürdan to دامغان Damghan, five menzil; from Nishapour to سرخس Sarkhes, six menzil; from Sarkhes to مرو Meru, three menzils: and from Meru to امل Amol, on the banks of the river Jihoun, two menzil: from Nishapour to بوزگان Bouzgan, and to پوشنگ Pousheng, four merhileh; from Pousheng to هرات Herat, one merhileh: from Herat to Asferin, three merhileh; from Asferin to دره Derreh, two merhileh. This is the boundary of Herat.

From قاین Kaien to Herat, six merhileh: from Meru to هري Heri (or Herat), twelve merhileh: from Meru to باورد Baverd, six merhileh; from Meru to نسا Nesa, four merhileh; from Herat to مروالروء Meruar'rudd, six merhileh; from Heri to سرخس Sarkhes, five merhileh; from بلخ Balkh to the bank of the river جيحون Jihoun, by the way of ترمذ Termed, two days journey (دو روزه راه); from Balkh to اندرابه Anderabeh, nine merhileh; and to باميان Bamian, ten merhileh: from Bamian to غزني Ghizni, eight merhileh; from Balkh to بدخشان Badakhshan, thirteen merhileh. "From Balkh to the banks of the Jihoun, and to the sea (or lake) of Kharazm (Deriay Kharazm), from Badakhshan Termed, by way of the river Jihoun,

Account of Maweralnahr, or Transoxania.

To the eastern side of Maweralnahr are, the borders of Hindoostan. To the west it has the land of غزنين Ghaznein, and the borders of طوران Touran, and down to فاراب Farab, and مرکزند Markand, and سغد Soghd, and سمرقند Samarcand, and the district of بخارا Bokhara, as far as خوارزم Kharazm, and the banks of the sea (دریا Deria).

On the north of Maweralnahr are the borders of ترکستان Turkestan, as far as فرغانه Ferghanah, and down towards ختل Khotl, on the river حریات Heriat. To the south, Maweralnahr begins from بدخشان Badakhshan, along the river جیحون Jihoon, up to the sea or lake of Kharazm (دریای خوارزم Deriay Kharezem) in a straight line. We place Kharazm and Khotl in Maweralnahr, because Khotl is situated between the river Heriat and the river وکشاب Wekhshab; and the town of Kharazm is on that side of the river, and nearer to Maweralnahr than to Khorasan.

The province of Maweralnahr is one of the most flourishing and productive within the regions of Islam or Mahommedanism. The inhabitants are people of probity and virtue, averse from evil, and fond of peace. Such is the fertility and abundance of this country, that if the other regions were afflicted by a scarcity or famine, the stock laid up on the preceding year in Maweralnahr would afford ample provision for them all. Every kind of fruit and meat abounds there; and the water is most delicious. The cattle are excellent: the sheep from Turkestan, غزنين Ghaznein, and Samarcand, are highly esteemed in all places.

Maweralnahr affords raw silk, wool, and hair, in great quantities. Its mines yield silver, and tin or lead (ارزیر), abundantly; and they are better than the other mines, except those of silver at پنجهیر Penjhir; but Maweralnahr affords the best copper and quicksilver, and other similar productions of mines; and the mines of sal ammoniac (نوشادر) (used in tinning or soldering) in all Khorasan, are there*. Like the paper made at Samarcand, there is not any to be found elsewhere. So abundant are the fruits of سغد Soghd, and استرشینه Astersheineh, and فرغانه Ferghanah, and چاج Chaje (or Shash), that they are given to the cattle as food. Musk is brought from تبت Tibbet, and sent to all parts. Fox-skins, sable, and ermine skins, are all to be found at the bazars of Maweralnahr.

و معدن نوشادر در همه خراسان انجاست

Such is the generosity and liberality of the inhabitants, that no one turns aside from the rites of hospitality ; so that a person contemplating them in this light, would imagine *that all the families of the land were but one house. When a traveller arrives there, every person endeavours to attract him to himself, that he may have opportunities of performing kind offices for the stranger ; and the best proof of their hospitable and generous disposition is, that every peasant, though possessing but a bare sufficiency, allots a portion of his cottage for the reception of a guest. On the arrival of a stranger, they contend, one with another, for the pleasure of taking him to their home, and entertaining him. Thus, in acts of hospitality, they expend their incomes. The Author of this work says, " I happened once to be " in Soghd, and there I saw a certain palace, or great building, " the doors of which were fastened back with nails against the " walls. I asked the reason of this ; and they informed me, that " it was an hundred years, and more, since those doors had been " shut : all that time they had continued open, day and night : " strangers might arrive there at the most unseasonable hours, or " in any numbers ; for the master of the house had provided " every thing necessary both for the men and for their beasts ; " and he appeared with a delighted and joyful countenance when

* If the simplicity of this beautiful eulogium should please the reader as much as it has delighted the translator, he will, perhaps, derive additional satisfaction from perusing this part of it in the original :

و اگر کسی تامل کند یندارد که همد روا ماوراالنهر باینمعنی یک خانه است

“ the guests tarried a while. Never have I heard of such things
 “ in any other country. The rich and great lords of most other “ places, expend their treasures on particular favourites, in the “ indulgence of gross appetites and sensual gratifications. The “ people of Maweralnahr employ themselves in a useful and “ rational manner: they lay out their money in erecting caravan“ serais or inns, building bridges, and such works. You cannot “ see any town or stage, or even desert, in Maweralnahr, with“ out a convenient inn or stage-house for the accommodation of “ travellers, with every thing necessary. I have heard that there “ are above two thousand rebats or inns in Maweralnahr, where
 “ their beasts, and meat for themselves.”

The Author of the book further says, “ I have heard from a “ respectable person who was with ناصر احمد Nasser Ahmed, “ in the war of Samarcand, that of all his immense army, the “ greater part were men of Maweralnahr; and I have heard that “ معتصم Motaseem wrote a letter to عبد الله بن طاهر Abdallah
 “ بن طاهر, and sent a letter to نوح بن اسك Noah ben “ Asek. The answer of Abdallah was, that in Maweralnahr
 “ there are three hundred thousand كلاب Kulabs: each Kulab “ furnishes one horseman and one foot-soldier; and the absence “ of these men, when they go forth, is not felt, or is not per“ ceptible in the country. I have heard, that the inhabitants of “ چاج Chaje and فرغانه Ferghaneh are so numerous, and so

" well disciplined, and furnished with implements of war, that " they are not to be equalled in any region of Islam. And among " the lower classes there are farmers, who possess from one hun" dred to five hundred head of cattle. Notwithstanding all this,
 " there are not any people more obedient to their kings; and at " all times the تُرک Turk soldiers had the precedence of every " other race, and the Khalifs always chose them on account of " their excellent services, their obedient disposition, their bravery,
 " and their fidelity."

Maweralnahr has produced so many great princes and generals, that no region can surpass it. The bravery of its inhabitants cannot be exceeded in any quarter of the Mussulman world.
 Their numbers and their discipline give them an advantage over other nations, which, if an army be defeated, or a body of troops lost at sea, cannot furnish another army for a considerable time;
 but in all Maweralnahr, should such accidents happen, one tribe is ready to supply the losses of another without any delay.

In all the regions of the earth, there is not a more flourishing or a more delightful country than this, especially the district of Bokhara. If a person stand on the قهندز Kohendiz (or ancient castle) of Bokhara, and cast his eyes around, he shall not see any thing but beautiful green and luxuriant verdure on every side of the country: so that he would imagine the green of the earth and the azure of the heavens were united: And as there are green fields in every quarter, so there are villas interspersed among the green fields. And in all Khorasan and Maweralnahr there are not any people more long-lived than those of Bokhara.

"It is said that in all the world there is not any place more "delightful (or salubrious) than those three: one, the Soghd of "Samarcand; another, the Rud Aileh; and the third, the Ghutah of Damascus *." But the Ghutah of Damascus is within one farsang of barren and dry hills, without trees; and it contains many places which are desolate, and produce no verdure. "A "fine prospect ought to be such as completely fills the eye, and "nothing should be visible but sky and green †." The river Aileh affords, for one farsang only, this kind of prospect; and there is not, in the vicinity of it, any eminence from which one can see beyond a farsang; and the verdant spot is either surrounded by or opposite to a dreary desert. But the walls, and buildings, and cultivated plains of Bokhara, extend above thirteen farsang by twelve farsang; and the سغد Soghd, for eight days journey, is all delightful country, affording fine prospects, and full of gardens, and orchards, and villages, corn fields, and villas, and running streams, reservoirs, and fountains, both on the right hand and on the left. You pass from corn fields into rich meadows and pasture lands; and the Soghd is far more healthy than the Rud Aileh, or the Ghuteh of Dameshk (or Damascus); and the fruits of Soghd are the finest in the world. Among the hills and palaces flow running streams, gliding between the trees. In Ferghanah and چاج Chaje, in the mountains between Ferghanah and Turkestan, there are all kinds of fruits, of herbs, and flowers, and various species of the violet: all these it is lawful for any one who passes by, to pull and gather. In سیروشته Siroushteh there are flowers of an uncommon species.

We have placed, as first of the borders of Bokhara, from the banks of the Jihoon, the Kourchs and Districts of Maweralnahr. From the Jihoon is the territory of Soghd, and Samarcand, and Siroushteh, and Chaje, and Ferghaneh, and back, from the borders of Samarcand to کش Kish, and چغانیان Cheghanian, and ختلان Khotlan, till one comes to the river Jihoon. ترمذ Termed and قبادیان Cobadian, as far as خوارزم Kharezm, and باراب Barab, and سنجان Sinjan, and طران Teran, and ایلاق Ailak, are reckoned as belonging to Chaje, and included in Ferghanah. Khuarezm we have assigned to Maweralnahr; and we must reckon as part of Soghd, Bokhara, and Kish, and نخشب Nakshab: but our design in this was to render the description more easy. We begin with Maweralnahr, and the district of Bokhara; and then we speak of the river Jihoon.

This river rises within the territories of بدخشان Badakshan, and receives the waters of many other streams. The river وخش Wekshesh joins it: then the river نومان Nouman, which is the river of منك Menek. The third is the river فارغی Farghi; the fourth river is that of اندنجاراغ Andenjaragh; the fifth, the river وخشاب Wekshab, near قبادیان Kobadian. All these rivers fall into the Jihoon: the river Wekhshab comes out of Turkestan, into the land of وخش Weksh, near a mountain, where there is a bridge between Khotlan and the borders of ویشکرد Weishkird. From that it runs towards Balkh, and falls into the Jihoon at Termed. The Jihoon then proceeds to کالف Kalef, and from Kalef to زم Zam, and from Zam to آموی Amoui, and from Amoui to خوارزم Khwarezm, and flows into the lake of Khwarezm. There is not any town watered by the Jihoon, until you come to Zam: there the inhabitants derive some benefit from it; still more at Amoui: but the chief advantage of the Jihoon results to Kharezm.

The first district of Maweralnahr, situated on the river Jihoon, is Khotlan: there are also Wekhsh, and other districts. Near Wekhsh there are some districts, such as دخان Dekhan, and سکینه Sekineh: these two belong to the Infidels. Boys and girls are brought from these places. There are mines of gold and silver in Wekhshab. The mountainous country, bordering upon Tibet, is very populous, well cultivated, abounding in fruits, and excellent cattle; and the climate is very pure and healthy.

Termed ترمد is a city situated on the banks of the Jihoon : it has a castle and suburbs, and ramparts : the government palace is in the kohendiz, or castle ; the prison is in the town ; the mosque, and the bazars, in the suburbs. The buildings are of clay ; all the streets and bazars are paved with burnt tiles. They drink the water of the Jihoon ; and use, for the purposes of agriculture, the water of the river Cheghanian رود چغانیان.

Kobadian قبادیان is smaller than Termed. Weishgird ویشگرد is about the same size as Termed. From the borders of Weishgird to Shuman شومان, to near Cheghanian, they cultivate saffron. Kobadian قبادیان produces madder (روناس). Cheghanian is larger than Termed ; but Termed is more populous, and better supplied. Akhseik اخسیک is opposite Zam زم. Zam is on the borders of Khorasan, but reckoned among the territories of Maweralnahr : it is a small town, and the inhabitants deal in cattle. Zam, and Akhseik, on the banks of the Jihoon, are both at the extremity of the desert.

Khuarezmi is the name of a region distinct from Khorasan. All round Khuarezmi the desert extends. One side of it borders on Ghaznein غزنین ; that is the western side. The western and southern sides are bounded by Khorasan and Maweralnahr. After Khuarezmi and Jihoon, there is not any town until you come to the lake. Khuarezmi is situated on the northern side of the Jihoon. On the southern side of the Jihoon is Korkanje کرکانج : it is a smaller town than Khuarezmi; but it is the pass into various parts: from it the caravans set out for Khorasan and گرجان Gurkan, and غزنی Ghizni, and خزر Khozar, and other places.

It so happens, that one half of Khuarezmi should appear in the map of Khorasan, and the other half in the map of Maweralnahr: but we have wished not to separate those parts, or render the reference to the map more difficult.

These are the other cities of Kharezmi: درعن Deraan, هزاراسپ Hesarasp, چهره Chereh, اردجر Ardejer, سافزون Safzoun, نوران Nouran, کردان Kirdan, خواس Khouas, کردر Kirder. The villages are, نکین Nekin, مردا Merda, جغان Jefan, مبها Memha, دحا Deha, حاسکر Hasker, کانجسک Kanjesk. The chief place of that territory is called کاب Kab; it has a castle now in ruins. There was a town here which the water destroyed, and the people built another higher up; and the water has approached the castle, and, it is feared, will ruin it also. The mosque is in this castle, and near it is the palace of the شاه خوارزم Khuarezmi Shah: near the castle is the prison: and in the midst is a little river called خردور Kherdour, and the bazar is on the banks of it; the length of it is about three farsang. The gates of the city are, for the greater part, demolished; but they have prepared new ones.

The first border of Khuarezmi is called طاهریه Taheriah, in the direction of Amoui, an inhabited country on the south of the river Jihoon. On the north side of Khuarezm there is not any population or cultivation, until one comes to the village which they call غار الحيد Ghar-al-haiah; from that to Khuarezm there is some appearance of inhabitants and of buildings. At six farsang distance, before you come to this village, there is a river which joins the Jihoon, and on the banks of this are many villages and hamlets; this river is called گاوخواره Gaw-Khareh; in breadth it is about five گز guz; boats ply on it. After running two farsang, there is another river branching from it, which they call رود کربد Gurbah; it waters many villages, but is not very broad: from this, for about one merhileh in breadth, the villages and buildings become more numerous; and when you come to کورکنج Korkanje, at two farsang back, there is the extremity of the borders of Khuarezm; and at five farsang a ruined village, called کراغ Koragh, near a mountain: from which, and from Hezarasp, on the western side of the Jihoon, there are streams running from that river: Here is Amoui; and there is another river about half as large as the Gaw Kharch, on which boats ply at within two farsang of Hezarasp. This river is called رود کرد خواس Rudi Kurd Khouas, and is larger than the river of Hezarasp. There is also the river حیره Heireh, on which boats ply.

From the river دال Dal to Khuarezm is two farsang. The river بوه Bouh is in the district of Korkanje. The water of the river Dal comes to the village of اندرياز Anderbaz, where there is a bridge that admits boats; from this place to Korkanje is a distance of one merhileh.

From the river Gaw Khareh to the city is twelve farsang; and there is another river below Khuarezsm four farsang, which receives its waters from four different places; when they are united, they form a stream about as large as that of the river Bouh. It is said that the Jihoon crosses this river; and that, when the waters of the Jihoon sink, the stream is also diminished. There are many streams on the northern side of the Jihoon, at one farsang from the town called مدمينيه Medeminiah; and all the villages along have small streams. The Jihoon falls into the lake at a place called خلیجان Khiljan, where there is not any village, nor any buildings; the people live by fishing. On the banks of this lake is the land of غز Ghuz; from this, when they are at peace, they go from this side to the village of آبگیر Aubgir, and from the other to Korkange; both of these are on the banks of the Jihoon.

Before one comes to the the river Gaw Khareh there are some mountains, amidst which the Jihoon runs: this place is called بوقسه Boukeseh; and from the place where the Jihoon falls into the lake or sea (دریا), to that place where the river of Chaje falls into it, is a journey of ten days. The river Jihoon is frozen in winter, so that loaded carriages pass over it. The ice begins at Khuarezm, which is the coldest place upon the Jihoon.

On the banks of the sea or lake of Khuarezm (دریای خوارزم) there is a mountain called چغاغر Cheghagher: here the ice continues from winter till near the end of summer. The circumference of this sea or lake is an hundred farsang: its waters are salt or bitter; and the river Jihoon, the river چاج Chaje, and many other streams, flow into this lake: yet this increase of water is not perceptible; and it is generally supposed that there is a communication between this lake and the Caspian Sea (Der-yai-i Khozr دریا خزر): between these two is a distance of twenty merhileh.

Khuarezm is a town well supplied with provisions, and abounding in fruits; it affords not any walnut-trees. Linen and wool are manufactured there, and also brocade. The inhabitants are people of high reputation and polished manners: the men of Khuarezm are great travellers; there is not any town in Khorasan without a colony of them. The lower parts of the land of غز Ghuz belong to Khuarezm: the inhabitants are active and hardy. The wealth of Khuarezm is derived from its commerce and merchandize. They have carpets of سقلاب Siklab, and of خزر Khozr, and they bring to Khuarezm, from Khozr, the skins of foxes, and martens, sables, and ermines.

Of the other places on the river Jihoon, we shall place بخارا Bokhara in Maweralnahr first: at all times it has been the seat of government. Bokhara is called بونجکت Bounheket; it is situated on a plain; the houses are of wood, and it abounds in villas, and gardens, and orchards; and the villages are as close one to another as the groves and gardens, extending for near twelve farsang by twelve farsang: all about this space is a wall, and within it the people dwell winter and summer; and there is not to be seen one spot uncultivated, or in-decay. Outside this there is another wall, with a small town and a castle, in which the Samanian * family (آل سامانیان), who were governors of Khorasan, resided. This kohendez, or castle, has ramparts, a mosque, and bazar.

In all Maweralnahr or Khorasan, there is not any place more populous and flourishing than Bokhara. The river of Soghd (رود سغد) runs through the midst of it, and passes on to the mills and meadows, and to the borders of بیکنند Beikend; and much of it falls into a pond or pool near Beikend, at a place called سام کوس Sam Kous.

Bokhara has seven gates: one is called the در شارستان Deri Sharestan; the second, در درو Deri Derou; the third,

* For some account of this dynasty, and of Nasser Ahmed, mentioned in page 235, see the Appendix.

در کنده Deri Kandeh; the fourth, در آهنین Der Ahenin; the fifth در قهندز Deri Kohendez; the sixth is called the دروازه مهرگی Derwazeh Mihrgy, or دروازه بنی اسد Derwazeh Beni Ased; and the seventh is the دروازه سغدیان Derwazeh Soghdian. The kohendez, or castle, has also two gates; one the در ریگستان Deri Rikestan; the other the دروازه مسجد Derwazeh Mesgid. The ramparts also have some gates, such as the در میدان Deri Meidan, leading towards Khorasan; the دروازه ابراهیم Derwazeh Ibrahim, towards the east; the دروازه خدیق Derwazeh Khedik; the دروازه بروکسه Derwazeh Beroukeseh; the دروازه کلاباد Derwazeh Gulabad; the دروازه نوبهار Derwazeh Nubehar; the دروازه سمرقند Derwazeh Samarcand; the دروازه امینه Derwazeh Amineh; the دروازه حدسرور Derwazeh Hedi Serour, which is on the Khwarezm road; and the در غنچ Deri Ghunje.

There are, besides, some gates among the bazars, such as the در آهنین Der Ahenin, or iron gate; the در پول حسان Deri Pool Hesani; and a gate near the mosque of ماج Maje; and between these two gates there is another called در زجیه Der Rejieh: there is also a gate near the villa of ابو هاشم Abu Hashem, and near the bazar; and one near the کوی مغان Goui Moghan (or the magi's dwelling), and the در سمرقند Deri Samarcand.

There is not any running water between the city and the gate of the kohendez : they bring water from the main river ; and this river furnishes some other streams: one is a considerable river called فسرده Feserdeh, coming from the river of Bokhara, at a place which they call ورع Wera ; and it descends by the gate of Seroukeseh در سروکسه, till it comes to the lands of ابو ابراهيم Abou Ibrahim ; and thence proceeds to the gate of ابو فضل Sheikh Aboul Fazel, and falls into the river نوکنده Nukendeh. On this river are situated near two thousand villas and gardens, exclusive of corn fields and meadows ; from the mouth of this river to the place where it falls into the Nukendeh is a course of about half a farsang.

There is another stream, called the رود باسکان Rud Basegan, proceeding from the main river through the middle of the city near the mosque called قزاقان Kezazan ; and there is another stream which comes from near the mosque called عارض Aarez, and flows into the Nukendeh ; this is called the جوببار عارض Jouibari Aarez.

There is another stream, called برکند Berkend, which waters part of the fortifications, and falls into the Nukendeh. This river Nukendeh comes from the main river, near Nubchar, and runs among palaces, and houses, and mills, till it comes to the mills on the lands of بيکند Beikend, and affords water to them. The river کيشه Keiseh runs on to غاران مرغ Gharan Murgh. The river رباح Rebah issues from the main river near ريکستان Reikestan, and flows on to the villa of Rebah, and waters a thousand summer-houses, and gardens, and groves. The river of Reikestan passes through that place to which it affords water, and to the kohendez, the suburbs near the ramparts, and the government house; and after that it proceeds to the villa of جلال ديزه Jelal Deizeh. The river sinks into the ground near the bridge of Hamdounah پل حمدونه, and flows subterraneously till it comes to the ponds of حوضهاي بني اسد Beni Asad; and the remainder of it runs into the reservoir or cistern of the kohendez. There is another river proceeding from the main one, at the place called ورع Wera, which passes by the gate of رحيه Rehieh, proceeds to the Derwazeh Samarcand, and from that goes on one farsang.

The villages Ferghaneh and طوابس Touabes, دروفن Derufen, بومہ Bourek Ferghaneh, سغلي Sefli, حشوان Boumeh, روستاکا Roustaka, بخاجمر Bekhajemr, سامجر Heshwan, اندیدان Andidan, کندمان Kendaman, سامجر Samjir, مادن Madoun, ماورالنهر Samjer Mawer-alnahr, فرادن السفلى Ferazen al Sefl, اردان Ardan, and فرادن العليا Ferazen al Aalia; all these districts are included within the walls. Those without the walls are, مباحس Mebakhes, چند Chend, ويس Veis, کرميده Kurmeideh, جرغانه Jerghaneh, غليار Gheliar, شاق Shak, عرقد Arkand, سکند Sekend, and فرين Ferin.

Near the district of طواويس Touaveis, before you come to the gate of Bokhara, there are many streams which water the villages and meadows. One of these is the river Kaferi Kam رود کافري کام which runs to ورکانه Werkaneh; and the river جرغان Jerghan, which waters another district and goes on to جرمش Jermesh, and falls into the main river. The river نوکنده Nukendeh, which waters a district, runs on to the village of فرانہ Feranah, and the river برجده Berjed, on which is a hamlet; and the river بسته Besteh, and the river امنیه Ameniah, and the river فرازن السفلی Ferazin al Sefli, and the river تلنگان Telengan, which runs to برکاء Berkaa: every one of these affords water to its particular district, without the inclosure of the wall of Bokhara; the remainder runs among the suburbs and fortifications of that city.

Of the rivers we have heretofore enumerated, the greater number proceeds from the river of Soghd, on which boats ply. The inclosure or wall round Bokhara contains twelve gates. There is not any hill or desert; all is laid out in castles, villas, gardens, corn-fields, and orchards. The wood which they use for fuel is brought from their gardens, and they burn also reeds and rushes. The grounds of Bokhara and of Soghd are all in the vicinity of water; whence it happens that their trees do not arrive at any considerable height; but the fruits of Bokhara are more excellent than the fruits of any part of Maweralnahr. Corn is brought to Bokhara from Maweralnahr and other places.

There is a mountain called ذركه Zarkah, in the vicinity of Bokhara; it goes between Samarcand and كَش Kesh, and joins the border of Ferghaneh, and اطرار Atrar, and goes on towards the confines of Cheen; and this mountain is skirted by a desert in the borders of Ferghaneh and ايلاق Ailak, as far as جرجه Jer-jereh.

In Ferghaneh there are mines of sal-ammoniac, and of copperas or vitriol, of iron, and quicksilver, and brass; also of gold, and of turquoise stone; and in this mountain there are springs of naphta, and of bitumen, and resin; also a stone that takes fire and burns. There is, likewise, water, which in summer is frozen, and in the depth of winter is warm. There are some districts of Bokhara within the walls, and some without: of those within the walls, طواويس Touaveis is the most considerable town; it is walled, and at a stated time, once every year, the people assemble in it from Mawera'nahr: it has pleasant gardens, and orchards, and running streams, and an ancient castle, with suburbs, and a mosque: the inhabitants manufacture linen.

The other towns within the walls are nearly of equal size one with another. كرجينت Kerjinet is a large town; جرغانكت Jerghaneket, and مدمامهت Medmamehelet are of equal size. Every town of the territories of Bokhara has a district belonging to it, except بيكند Beikend, which has not any village, but contains near a thousand Rebats.

The town of قرين Kerin is near the river Jihoon. The people of Bokhara speak the language of the people of Soghd: they are ingenious: and in business they use direms: their silver is عذرقي Azerki, or غدرقي Ghederki; and the mode of purchasing used in Maweralnahr does not pass among them. For the greater part they wear the tunick توبا and the cap كله.

At Bokhara, within the city, there are bazars, where, on certain appointed days, the merchants assemble in great numbers, and transact much business. Bokhara and its territories produce fine linen. I have heard a peculiar circumstance mentioned, concerning the Kohendiz or castle of Bokhara; which is, that they never have brought out of it the bier or coffin of any prince, and that any person once confined there is never seen again. "It is said that the inhabitants of Bokhara are originally descended from an ancient tribe, which emigrated from Istakhar and settled there*." The Samanian princes resided at Bokhara; the territories of which and Maweralnahr were under their jurisdiction: the people of Bokhara were so obedient, and so observant of their treaties, that the sovereigns chose to reside among them. The kings of Khorasan were descended from the race of Saman. اسماعيل بن احمد Ismael ben Ahmed resided there: the people of Khorasan had behaved treacherously towards him; and his children also resided at Bokhara. Before that, the governors of

Maweralnahr dwelt in Samarcand, at چاج Chaje, or فرغانه Ferghanah; but since that the seat of government has been removed from Khorasan to Bokhara.

دنچاره Denjareh is situated near the road of بيکند Beikend: between that, and between the road, is a distance of one farsang. مغکان Moghkan is five farsang distant from the city, on the right hand of Beikend, and from it to the road is a space of three farsang. رندیه Rendieh is at four farsang from Bokhara. بومهکت Bumeheket is on the road of طواويس Touaweis at a distance of four farsang.

From کرمینیه Kermeniah to Beikend is one farsang in the borders of Soghd. Bumeheket is situated on the river of Soghd. Soghd is adjacent to Bokhara. After passing Kermenieh one comes to دبوسی Debousi.

The capital of Soghd is سمرقند Samarcand; it is situated on the southern side of the river of Soghd. It has a castle, and suburbs, and fortifications, with four gates; one, the در چین Deri Cheen, or the China gate, on the east; the در نوبهار Deri Nubehar, or the spring gate, on the west; on the north, the در بخارا Deri Bokhara, or Bokhara gate; and on the south, the دروازه کَش Derwazeh Kesh, or Kesh gate.

There is running water through the streets and bazars of Samarcand. The city is surrounded by a deep ditch, and a dyke, by which water is conveyed. The most flourishing and populous quarter of Samarcand is that called the سر طاق Seri tauk, where there is the fountain of ارزیز Arziz : and the shops of the bazar in this place are very numerous ; for many legacies and gifts have been appropriated to the buildings about this fountain, which are in the charge of Guebres (or Fire-worshippers) who watch winter and summer.

There is a mosque in the suburbs, near the کهن دیز kohendiz : and in the river Arziz there are springs, and rivulets from it water the gardens and orchards. The government palace is in the kohendiz ; and the citadel is near the river of Soghd ; and the walls of these fortifications are about two farsang in extent. There are many villas and orchards, and very few of the palaces are without gardens : so that if a person should go to the kohendiz, and from that look around, he would find that the villas and palaces were covered, as it were, with trees ; and even the streets and shops, and banks of the streams, are all planted with trees.

Samarcand is the great pass into Maweralnahr ; and the seat of empire was at Samarcand until اسماعیل بن احمد Ismael ben Ahmed removed it to Bokhara.

The walls of the fortifications have several gates ; such as the در عبد Deri Abed, the در افشینہ Deri Afsheineh, the در کوهک Deri Kouhek, the در روسین Deri Rousein, the در دیوود Deri Diwoud, and the در فوجند Deri Fou-jend.

The author of this work says, " I saw a gate at Samarcand,
" of which the front was covered with iron; and there was " written on it, in the Hamiri language; that " Senaa is distant " from Samarcand a thousand farsang; ' and the people preserved
" the explanation of this writing, in hereditary tradition. After " that I had been at Samarcand, a tumult or insurrection happen" ed; and this gate was burnt, and the inscription mislaid
" or destroyed. Afterwards, Abu Mozaffier Mohammed ben
" Nasser ben Ahmed ben Ased, caused the gate to be again
" constructed of iron, but the writing was lost.*"

The houses of Samarcand are made of clay and wood: the inhabitants are remarkable for their beauty: they are gentle and polite in their manner, and of amiable dispositions. From Samar-cand to the mountain (کوه) is one merhileh: and there is close to the city a small eminence which they accordingly call کوهک kouhek (a diminutive of کوه) the little mountain: that mountain is about half a mile in length; it produces clay, and marble, and stones of various kinds; and I have heard that in it were also mines of gold and silver, but they are not worked.

* The reader will find the original Persian of this passage in the Appendix, No. I.
See also the Preface and Appendix, No. III.

The water of Samarcand is all from the river which comes from the mountains above چغانیان Cheghanian. There is a reservoir for that water, which they call برغر Bergher; from this that water flows till it comes to a place called بیحکت Bihek- ket, and thence to ورغس Warghes, where there is a bridge; from that the rivers of Samarcand are divided to the east and west. Those on the eastern side proceed from near Warghes, at the place called * ندیمه, because the mountains there are fewer, and the cultivated fields more numerous: from this the river flows; and the river بوس Bous also comes to Samarcand, to which, with the villages, it affords water.

The river بارمیس Barmis rises in the vicinity of that river, in the southern territory, and waters many villages there. The Bous and Barmis are the largest of all those rivers; they both are navigable for boats, and many streams branch off from them, which water many villages and meadows. From the territory of Warghis to the village called زرغم Zarghem, ten farsang in length, and from four to one farsang in breadth; from the district of برغس Barghis, and مانفرنجه Manferenje, and Zarghem, and بیخرو Bikheru, above Zarghem, and the rivers which flow from the desert of Gherban صحرای غربان, the river استخر Istakhar†, and the river ساوات Sawat, and the river

* I have given this word as it appears in my MS. In that of Eton a blank space is left for the name.

† Istakhar of Pars, is generally written اصطخر but sometimes like this استخر.

Mourmajez; the river Sawat passes near the Mourmajez and waters many places, and proceeds to the village of وَدَّان Weddan, and to the borders of the district of Istakhar: the river, in all, runs about two merhileh.

The rivers Sawat and Mourmajez run towards the city, and water near seven farsang of territory, till they come to Samarcand; from the mouth or entrance of this valley, or water-course, to Samarcand, is a distance of twenty farsang. After passing Samarcand about two merhileh, a river branches off called رودتي Rudeki, which waters one of the most fertile and populous tracts of land in all Soghd: other streams branch off from this channel, until it approaches the territory of Bokhara, a journey of near six days, watering so many gardens and orchards, that if any person were to look from a hill along the valley of Soghd, he could not behold any thing but trees and green herbage, with here and there a villa and an old castle.

In the district of Barghis are many gardens and dykes. From this valley (or channel) come the rivers above mentioned, and pass under the bridge of Kouhek پول کوهک, at the Samarcand gate در سپر قند. The waters of this valley are augmented in summer by the snow from the mountains of غرجستان Glurgestan and the vicinity of Samarcand.

ربود Reboud, in which dwelt اخشید Aksheid, king of Samarcand; and his villa or palace yet remains.

The village of زرغم Zerghem is adjoining to that of Famurgh. Famurgh is the most populous and fertile of all the villages of Samarcand.

ساروان Sarouan is a mountain on the south of Samarcand: it enjoys a pure air, and the inhabitants of it are healthier and handsomer than those of the other territories. The extent of this hill, and the villages on it, is about ten farsang. At Sarouan is a place which the Christians have built for religious worship, and which is richly endowed*. (This place is called زروکرد Zarukird.)

The district of برمر Bermer is without water, but is well inhabited, and produces much cattle; the air is good, and the inhabitants are wealthy. The length of this district is two merhileh; and every village in it is above two farsang in extent. The pasture lands are better here than those of Maweralnahr.

Those are the territories of Samarcand, on the right hand of this valley. These on the left hand are, اولاد Aulad, and بارکیت Barkeit, near ستروسته Setrushtah; the village of

Kourghed, on the borders of Setrushtah, adjoining to Barkeit.

The village of Bourmakher بورماخر is large and well inhabited, on the borders of Samarcand. From the borders of Gherban to those of Samarcand is about one merhileh.

Weddan ودان is a populous and fertile district, with hills and plains. The towns of Weddan and of Kish کش are situated near each other: these two places have belonged to tribes of Arabians, called Sebaaians سباعيان. This people had dwellings at Samarcand. Merzeban ben Kashfi مرزبان بن کشفی was a man of this district, whom all the illustrious and chief persons invited to the sovereignty of Irak.

There are six villages of Samarcand on the right side of the valley of Soghd, and six on the left. In former times the village of Laian لعيان was annexed to the territories of Samarcand, but afterwards became a district of Setrushtah. Pecuniary affairs are transacted in Samarcand by means of gold, and of direms of Ismael, broken, درم اسماعيل شکسته; and there is another coin, called Mohammedi محمدی, which is not current in any other place besides the territories of Samarcand. This country abounds in gardens, and orchards, and corn fields, and pleasant prospects; and the Soghd is a delightful and fertile region. Keisaneh کيسانه is the eye of all the towns of Soghd; it is inhabited by rich and powerful people.

Account of the City of Kish.

Kish is a city with a kohendiz and ramparts, and two suburbs, one of which (the interior) and the kohendiz are ruined; the mosque also, which was here, is in ruins; the bazar is on the ramparts, and the extent of this city is three farsang by three farsang. The climate here is warm: the buildings are of wood and clay. Here are four gates; one, the در آهنین Der Ahenin, or Iron Gate; another, the دروازه عبید الله Derwazeh Abeid Allah; the third, the در قصابان Deri Kesaban; the fourth, the در شارستان Deri Sharestan. The inner town has two gates; one called the در شارستان درونی Deri Sharestan Deruni; and the other the در ترکستان Deri Turkestan. Turkestan is the name of a certain village. Near this gate are two rivers; the رود قصابان Rudi Kesaban, which comes from the town of سیام Siam. The two rivers pass by the gates of the city; and there are other streams in the vicinity; such as the چاج رود Chaje Rud, on the Samarcand road, at the distance of one farsang from the city; and the river خبک رود Khebek Rud, on the Balkh road, also at one farsang distance from the city; and another, called the river جران Jeran, on the Balkh road, at a distance of eight farsang from the city. These streams fall into the valley of نخشب Naksheb, and water all the palaces of this city; and the gardens and villas of this place extend near four days journey. From this city of کش Kish much fruit and wood is produced: there are many villages belonging to Kish; such as ورد Werd, and بلاندرین Belanderin, and راسیمان Rasiman, and کنک Kenk, and ارو Arou, and حران Heran, and سوروده Surudeh, and سنگ کرده دروبین Senk Kerdeh Deroubein, and سنگ کرده بروبین Senk Kerdeh Beroubein. Those are the territories of Kish.

Account of the City of Naksheb.

THE city of Naksheb has a ruined kohendiz. The ramparts have four gates; one, the دروازه بخاری Derwazeh Bokhari; another, the دروازه سمرقند Derwazeh Samarcand; the third, the دروازه کش Derwazeh Kish; and the fourth, the در غزنین Deri Ghaznin. Naksheb is situated on the high road to فاراب Fareh, and to بلخ Balkh: it stands on a level ground; from the city to the hills is a journey of two days, in the direction of Kish; from Naksheb to the river Jihoon the intermediate space is all desert. In the middle of the city is a considerable river, which comes from the collection of streams at Kish, and waters the territories of Naksheb. The palace of the chief governor is situated near this stream, at the place called سر پول Seri Poul, near which, also, is the prison. The mosque is near the Deri Ghaznein, or Ghaznein gate; and an oratory near the Derwazeh Bokhari, or the Bokhari gate: the bazars are on the ramparts, between the governor's palace and the mosque.

Naksheb possesses many territories: two very considerable are برده Berdeh and کشته Keshteh; and there are some villages as large as cities: but in Naksheb and all its territories there is not any river besides that above mentioned; and even that river, in a very hot summer, becomes dry, and they use well-water for their gardens. Naksheb is abundantly supplied with provisions.

ذکر ستروشته

Description of Setroushteh.

ستروشته Setroushteh is the name of a tract, or country like Soghd; there is not any city or village in this country that bears the name of Setroushteh. It is a mountainous region, bounded on the east by part of Ferghanah; on the west, by the borders of Samarcand; on the north, by چاج Chaje; on the south, it lies near Kish and چغانیان Cheghanian, and شمان Sheman, and دلشکرد Dileshkird, and راست Rast. The chief town of Setroushteh is called, in the language of that country, بومحک

Boumheket; and the districts of it are, اران Aran, سامکت Sameket, کوکب Koukib, غرف Gherk, وعکث Waakes, ساباط Sabat, رامین Ramin, دبزک Debzek, بومحکت Boumheket, and حرقانه Herkanah. Boumheket is the residence of the governors; it contains ten thousand inhabitants: all the buildings of this town are made of clay and wood. The inner town has two gates; one called the دروازه بالامین Derwazeh Balamein; and the other, دروازه شارستان Derwazeh Sharestan. There is a mosque in this inner town, and a kohendiz: there is also a considerable river, which turns mills; its borders are planted with trees: there are also bazars; and the extent of this town is one farsang. The water of the ditch runs among the villas, and gardens, and meadows, and corn-fields. The citadel has four gates; one, the Derwazeh رامین Ramin; another, the Derwazeh ابن سمندر Ebn Samender; another, the Derwazeh ابن حکت Ebn Heket; and the fourth, the Derwazeh کهلبان Kehilban. This town has six streams or rivers; the سارین Sarin, which runs into the suburbs, the برجین Berjin, the رسماجین Resmajin, the اسکنکجر Iskenkejr, the رولجی Rouleji, and the سحکر Seheker: all these six streams proceed from one fountain, and turn ten mills. From this fountain to the town is not so much as half a farsang.

رامین Ramin is about the same size as Setrushtch, situated on the Ferghaneh road, in the direction of Soghd: the people here call this place, in their language, سلیسده بلیس Selisedeh Belis.

This town has walls. The caravans on the high road from Ferghaneh to Soghd pass through it. There are many running streams and gardens, and much tilled land; and the back of this town extends to the hills of Setroushteh, and the front is towards the desert of the country of غز Ghuz.

The town of دېزېك Debzek is built on level ground; it is the chief town of a district: at two farsang distance from it there is a Rebat, which they call the رباط خديش Rebat Khedish: it was built by افشين Afshin, and is the best Rebat; the people of Samarcand have not one better. In the midst of the Rebat there is a spring of water, over which a dome has been erected.

دېرېك Deirek (or Debzek) is a pleasant and well-supplied town, with running water, gardens, and orchards. All the towns of this region, which we have spoken of, are nearly equal to and resemble one another, but سېنده Semendeh, which has running water, but has not any gardens, the cold being excessive. It is, however, a large town, and in summer has pleasant meadows.

رامين Ramein and سباط Sebat are on the road of Ferghaneh and Chaje. If you wish to go the road of خجند Khojend, by the way of كوكت Kouket, (or Koukib) you must go to Ferghaneh, nine farsang from Samarcand.

In all Setroushteh there is not any river considerable enough to admit of the plying of boats; but there are running streams, and fountains, and meadows, and groves. The villages of the mountainous part of Setroushteh are these: بشاغر Beshagher, فرغور Ferghour, بالعام Baloam, مسك Mesek, لسكن Lesken, بسنگ Besenk. These are situated on steep hills: and the cold part of the country, also, has many strong fortresses. Here also are mines of gold, and silver, and copperas, and sal ammoniac. The mines of sal ammoniac (نوشادر Nushader) are in the mountains, where there is a certain cavern, from which a vapour issues, appearing by day like smoke, and by night like fire. Over the spot whence the vapour issues, they have erected a house, the doors and windows of which are kept so closely shut and plastered over with clay that none of the vapour can escape. On the upper part of this house the copperas rests. When the doors are to be opened, a swiftly-running man is chosen, who, having his body covered over with clay, opens the door; takes as much as he can of the copperas, and runs off; if he should delay, he would be burnt. This vapour comes forth in different places, from time to time; when it ceases to issue from one place, they dig in another until it appears, and then they erect that kind of house over it: if they did not erect this house, the vapour would burn, or evaporate away.

In the territory of سپنده Semendeh they make excellent iron. Iron is also manufactured at فرغاته Ferghaneh. At Semendeh there are market-days established, when people come from a great distance; these days occur once every month.

Neshamein and Ailak ایلاق are two districts, the extent of both which is two days journey by three. In all Soghd and Maweralnahr there is not any country equal to this in populousness and in buildings: one of its borders is the valley or water-course of چاج Chaje, which falls into the lake of Khwarezm دریای خوارزم; it is bounded also by the کار آهن Kar Ahen (or iron-works) on the confines of سنخاب Sinkhab; another of its boundaries extends to the mountains, adjoining the territories of Neshamein; and another extends to Benagur of the Christians بناکر ترسیان (Benagur Tersaian.) All the land is flat.

Chaje is the most considerable of the frontiers of Turkestan: it has many fine buildings. Every palace in it has running water, and delightful verdure. All the buildings are of clay. The capital of that district is called سکت Seket; and the other towns are, دیوماکت Divemaket, حدینکت Hedinket, کنکوان Kan-kouan, نجاکت Nehaket, ساکت Saket, حوسکت Housket, سعدوداد Saoudad, ولانکت Welanket, کلنجل Kelenjek, جنودر Jenuder, غزل Gluzl, الودکت Alaudket, عاج Aaje, عددالک Adedalek, وردیل Werdil, کرنه Kerneh, برکوس Berkous, لعبک Laabek, بوھکت Bouheket.

Hanerket, جغرکت Jegherket, مرینکت Merinket, کدال Kedal, and کالک Kalek: all these are towns of Chaje.

The towns of ایلاق Ailak are these: بونکت Bouunket, the chief town; سکاکت Sekaket, ازینکت Azenket, حمرل Hamerel, بسکت Besket, کپشم Keheshim, وحکت Wehaket, خاص Khas, حرکات Herkat.

Bouunket, the capital, has a kohendiz without the city; but the walls of the town and of the kohendiz are the same. There is a citadel with a wall, and another fortification outside that, with gardens and palaces. The kohendiz has two gates, one of which is towards the town. The town has a wall, and three gates, one of which is called the دروازه ابو العباس Derwazeh Abou al abas; the second is the دروازه کش Derwazeh Kish; and the third is the در آهنین Deri Ahenin, or iron gate.

The citadel has ten gates on the inside; one, the Derwazeh جهدین Hamdein; the second, the Derwazeh آهنین Ahenin; the third, the Derwazeh میر Mir; the fourth, در فرخان Deri Ferkhan; the fifth, Deri کده Kedeh; the sixth, Deri کوانفج Kouafah; the seventh, Derwazeh سہل کوی Kouy Sohel; the eighth, Deri اشدبہاق Ashedbehak; the ninth, Deri خاقان Khakan; and the tenth Derwazeh, در کوشک دهقان Der Koushek Dehkan.

val. In the mountains of Ailak there are mines of gold and of silver: these mountains are on the borders of Ferghaneh. Deinket دینکت is the largest of all the towns in Ailak. In all Maweralnahr there is not any mint, except at Samarcand and at Deinket.

Senjat سنجات is a town, with a kohendiz and citadel; the former now in ruins. The town is in a flourishing state; the inner part of which extends for near a farsang. Near the citadel are gardens and running streams; from the town to the foot of the mountain is three farsang. The town has four gates: the Deri Bouchek در بوچک, the Deri Farkhan در فرخان, the Der Sakeraneh در سائرانه, and the Deri Bokhara در بخارا. There is a bazar both in the town and in the citadel. The mosque, and the governor's palace, and the prison, are situated in the inner town.

The towns in the territories of Senjat are, Bedheket بدحکت, and Sameket سامکت, Teraz طراز, Atlah اطلح, Beily بیلی, Kezr گزر, and Ghersiran غرسیران; but Sameket is the chief town of the Koureh of Kunjideh کوره کنجیده. Kezr is the chief town of Farab فاراب. Mian میان is a town to which the people of Ghuz غز come for the purposes of traffick; and as there are not any hostilities carried on at Mian, the town flourishes, and abounds in all the necessaries of life.

فاراب Farab is the name of a district, the extent of which is near one day's journey ; all the places in it are very strong : it is a hilly country, and contains much land sown with grain. In the eastern part there is a valley with a water-course, which is supplied by the river of Chaje, and runs towards بيگند Beikend to the west.

چاج Chaje is a city flourishing and populous, and the inhabitants are Mussulmans of غر Ghuz, and of خلیج Khilje, all of the غازی Ghazi sect. Between Farab, and Kenjideh, and Chaje, there are many fields sown with grain : the people live in tents, and are all Mussulmans ; but they are not powerful.

طراز Teraz is on the extreme border, between the land of the Turks and Mussulmans ; and all about there are strong castles, called in general after Teraz. The region of Islam extends as far as this spot.

In the territories of اذرکند Azerkend there is a city, with a kohendiz, and a mosque, and ramparts, on which is situated the governor's house ; and the prison is in the kohendiz : this is a pleasant town, affording good fruits, and inhabited by a courteous and handsome race. Corn is brought to this place from Ferghaneh, and Setroushteh, and other countries, in boats, by the river of Chaje, which is a considerable stream.

On the outer side, the citadel has seven gates; one, the Derwazeh دغکت Deghket; the second, Derwazeh خاکت Khakhet; the third, Deri بیگند بحاق Beikend Behak; the fourth, Der اهنین Ahenin; the fifth, Deri کرنجان Kerenjan; the sixth, Derwazeh شکر Sheker; and the seventh, Derwazeh ثغرباد Segherbad. The governor's palace and the prison are in the kohendiz; and the chief mosque is on the walls of the kohendiz. In the inner town is a small bazar; but there are great bazars in the citadel. The length of this city is one farsang. The inner town and the citadel are watered by a running stream. There are extensive and fine gardens; and there is a great wall, reaching from the hill called سایلج Sailqa, to the brink of the channel or water-course of Chaje. This wall was erected, to separate the country from Turkestan, and prevent incursions. It was erected by order of Abdullah ben Hamid. From this inclosure, to the ditch or fosse, is a distance of one farsang. Here is another river, called the رود ترکستان Rudi Turkestan, which partly comes from نسکان Neskan, and partly from the country of چکرل Chekrel: it reaches the town of بحاکت Behaket.

There is in ایلاق Ailak a river called by the same name (Ailak): this also rises in Turkestan; and runs, for the greater part, into the river of Chaje. بومکت Boumeket is the chief town of Chaje. Chaje and Ailak border one upon the other. The buildings, and gardens, and orchards of Ailak, are continued to the valley or water-course of Chaje, without any inter-

The Amud عبود rises in Turkestan, in the borders of Azerkend; also the river Khersab خرساب, and the river Aweis اويس, and Keba قبا, and the river Hedali حدعلي, and other streams.

The people of Ghuz غز are for the greater number Mussulmans. Ghuz is the capital, where the kings of this country reside during the summer. The kingdom of Ghuz extends in a straight line ten merhileh from Khuarezmi to this place; and from this to Barab باراب, twenty merhileh.

Ferghaneh فرغانه is the name of an ample and fertile province, which contains many towns and villages: the capital is called Akhsiket اخسيكت: it is situated on a level ground, on a river; and has a kohendiz, and suburbs, and a castle. The governor's palace and the prison are in the kohendiz, and the mosque is in the town: There is an oratory on the banks of the river Chaje. The extent of this city is near three farsang. The castle is walled; and the inner town has five gates: the citadel has running water: and there are gardens and groves at each of the gates; and there are rivers at the distance of about two farsang.

Keba قبا is one of the pleasantest places in this country; it has suburbs, and a kohendiz, and a citadel: the kohendiz is fallen to decay; but the mosque is there. The bazars, and the governor's palace, and the prison, are in the citadel. The citadel is walled round; and has gardens, and orchards, and running water.

Awesh اوش is about the size of Keba, with suburbs and a kohendiz, in which are the governor's palace and the prison: it has also a citadel, with walls which are connected with the mountain. On this mountain are stationed the sentinels who watch the motions of the Turkestan army. Awesh has three gates: the دروازه کوه Derwazeh Kouh, or the mountain-gate; the دروازه آب Derwazeh Ab, or the water-gate; and the دروازه مغکده Derwazeh Moghkede, or the gate of the temple of the magians.

Awerkend اورکند enjoys the warmest climate of any place in the province of Ferghaneh: it is next to the enemy, and is twice or thrice as large as Awesh; it has a kohendiz and suburbs, with groves, and gardens, and running streams. In all Maweralnahr there is not any village more considerable than that of Ferghaneh; it extends one farsang in length, and in breadth; it is well inhabited; the people are good husbandmen, and possess much cattle. The territories of Ferghaneh are, Bestay Zeirin بستای زیرین, Areh اره, Touan توان, Memaronjan مہاروجان, Hed Ali حد علی, Awrest اورست. The first of these territories is Bestay Zeirin, as one comes on the road from Khojend خجند. The towns of this district are, Wanket وانکت, Besoukh بسوخ, Jouakend جواکند, Resban رسبان; and the towns of Bestay Zeirin are, مرغنبان Merghenban, رندوامس Rendwames, دبل Debel, اسبقان Asbekan, اندوکان Andukan. This territory consists of both hilly and level ground, کیماکس Kaimakhes, مامکاکس Mamkakhes, سوخ Soukh. There is a certain city called مدوانه Medouaneh. اورکند Awerkend is also the name of a city, and there is not any other city in the territory. اره Areh is the name of a territory, the chief town of which is called خنلام Khenlam; this was the birth-place of امیر حسن نصر الله Emir Hassan Nasser Ullah.

کروان Kerouan is the name of a city, all around which are many villages. اوراست Aurast, سلیکند Selikend, سلاب Selab, are towns which belonged to Turkestan, but have lately fallen into the power of the Mussulmans.

In the territories of Ferghaneh there are mines of gold and silver, and the district of Bestay Zeirin affords springs of bitumen or pitch; and they say that in the mountains of اشهره Ashehreh there are fountains of naphta, and mines of copper, and of turquoise stone, of lead, and of iron: all these are in the borders of Ferghaneh.

In the mountains here they burn a kind of coal, and, having moistened the ashes with water, use it as soap in washing their clothes. In these mountains, also, is a certain stone, part of which is red, and part green, and part white. From Turkestan to Awerkend there are mines of sal ammoniac, as in the mountains we have before described.

راه از جیحون تا فرغانه

Road from the River Jihoon to Ferghaneh.

Thus terminates the Oriental Geography of EBN HAUKAL, according to the Manuscript preserved in the College Library at Eton—(My copy wants the last leaf.) However abrupt it may seem, I am induced to believe that this is the proper conclusion of the Work; for a considerable part of the last page in the Eton Manuscript is left blank—a circumstance which could not have happened, had it been intended that any more should follow, as the Eastern Penmen are so scrupulously exact in filling every page with an equal number of lines, that they frequently begin a new Section or Chapter at the very bottom of a page. The Author, besides, appears to have accomplished his design, intimated in the second and third pages of this Volume.

THE Reader will find, among the passages in the preceding article of this Appendix, a short account of the Boloujes, mentioned in pages 140 and 141 of the work. It is necessary here to point out an incongruity between Ebn Haukal's description of this people, and that of other writers. This, however, may be reconciled, if we suppose (what indeed occurs in every page of the original MS.) an error in the writing. For راه نزنند (they do not infest the roads), we must read راه بزندن "they do infest the roads," and alter the remainder of the sentence accordingly. I was induced to adopt this reading, from the concurrent testimonies of various Eastern Authors, who all bear witness against the character of the Bolouches.

It will be sufficient to quote two dictionaries; first, the Ferhung Borhan Kuttea فرهنگ برهان قاطع, article بلوچ—which thus ascertains the true pronunciation of the name:

بلوچ—بضم اول و ثاني و سکون ثالث و چیم فارسی قومی باشند صحرانی و کم عقل و شجاع

"Bolouche—with the vowel accent damma on the first and “ second; the third quiescent, with the Persian letter chim, “ (i. e. with three diacritical points.) A race of people who in“ habit the desert.” (Barbarous, or uncivilized) of very little understanding—fierce, &c.

Under another article, the same excellent Dictionary furnishes more ample information on the subject of this people:

کوچ و بلوچ—نام طایفه باشد از صحرا نشینان که در
 کوههای اطراف کرمان توطن دارند و گویند اینها از عربان
 حجازند و حرفت ایشان جنگ و خونریزی و دزدی و راهزنی
 باشد اگر احیاناً پیکانه نیابند یکدیگر را بکشند و مال یکدیگر را
 تاراج کنند و همچنین برادران و خویشان و قرابتان و دوستان
 باهم جنگ کنند و این فعل را بسیار خوب دانند

“ Kouche and Bolouche—the names of certain races of bar“ barous people who inhabit the mountains on the borders of “ Kirman. It is said that they are descended from the Arabians “ of Hejaz. Their employments are fighting and shedding of “ blood; thieving, and robbing on the roads. If at any time it “ happens that they cannot find strangers, they murder one “ another, plundering and destroying each other's property.
 “ Thus, even brothers, near relations, and friends, quarrel;
 “ and they consider this as a pleasant occupation.”

I shall extract a passage, on the same subject, from another very valuable work, the فرهنگ سروري Ferhung Sururi.

بلوچ—قومي اند بغايت بيعتل از مردمان بياباني كه
قافله‌ها را زنند و اكثر شجاع و تيرانداز باشند و ايشان را كوچ بلوچ
نيز كويند

“ Bolouche—a people extremely stupid or void of understand“ ing, who inhabit the deserts and plunder the caravans, and for “ the greater part are warlike and good archers; they are also “ styled Kouche Bolouche.”

The فرهنگ جهانگيري Ferhung Jehanguiri gives the same account and nearly in the same words as the Borhan Kattea above quoted.

If the origin of this extraordinary people were to become the subject of antiquarian investigation, the character of the ancient inhabitants of Hejaz (Arabia the Stony or Rocky) should be compared with that of their reputed descendants; and I believe that such a comparison would in some measure confirm this traditional origin. Of the barbarism which prevailed among the *Scenites or

* Strabo (Geograph. Lib. xvi.) describes the Scenite Arabs “as plunderers or robbers, and feeders of cattle.”—Σκηνιταὶ Ἀραβες ληστικοὶ τινες καὶ ποιμενικοὶ—who almost totally neglected the arts of agriculture, devoting their attention to the feeding of cattle of all kinds, but especially camels.—γεωργούντες μὲν ἢ οὐδὲν ἢ μικρὰ νομας δὲ ἐχούσας παντοδαπῶν θρεμμάτων, καὶ μαλίστα καμηλῶν.

Nomades, or, as they are emphatically styled by Ebn'olathir *, the اهل الحجر people of the rock, it would be easy to collect a variety of anecdotes. But one quotation from an Arabian author will serve to prove, that if the ferocious Bolouches are descended from the Hejazians, they are not, by any means, a degenerate offspring.

On the subject of these Arabs we are informed, that

من خواصهم الحرب وسفك الدماء ومحبه القتل والحد
 “ A disposition for war and shedding of blood, a love of slaughter “ and violence, and a spirit tenacious of anger and of hatred, were “ among their peculiar qualities and characteristicst †.”

To their uncivilized state Sir William Jones alludes in the following passage :

“ The manners of the Hejazi Arabs, which have continued, we “ know, from the time of Solomon to the present age, were by “ no means favourable to the cultivation of arts; and as to “ sciences, we have no reason to believe that they were ac“ quainted with any, &c. ‡”

It remains to discover at what time any colony of this people established themselves in the confines of Hindustan and Persia : that a commercial intercourse subsisted from the earliest ages between the inhabitants of Arabia and the Hindus, cannot well be doubted. The same learned author, Sir William Jones, declares, that the " ports of Yemen, (or Arabia Felix,) must have " been the emporia of considerable commerce between Egypt and " India, or part of Persia *."

But it was not merely a few traders or merchants that settled in Hindustan; according to a writer † quoted by Pococke, whole bodies of Arabians having emigrated from their own country, invaded and occupied the territories of India, in an age of very remote antiquity ‡.

I have not leisure at present to trace the subject with more minute research; but I think it one that affords matter for interesting and curious investigation.

THE following extract from the ancient Chronicle of Tabari is referred to in the Preface, page x, and may serve to illustrate Ebn Haukal's account of the Hamyaritick inscription on the gate of Samarcand. See p. 254, and, 287.

The transactions here recorded are said to have happened early in the sixth century, when Cobad, the Persian monarch, was slain, and his dominions invaded and plundered by the Arabs, under Samar, a nephew of the Tobba, or king of Yemen. The account of this invasion, and of Cobad's death, as related by Tabari, with a literal translation, will be found in the Oriental Collections, vol. iii. p. 156; where I have given it as a specimen of the most pure and ancient Parsi. The original Chronicle of Tabari was written in the Arabick language; and this Persian translation was made in the year of the Hegira 352, (A. D. 963), by a vizier of the Samanian princes*, who inserted many curious traditions and observations of his own. See the Preface, p. xii.

And Samar also passed from the river Jihoun (the Oxus) and went to Samarcand. This city had a castle very strongly fortified, in which the king resided : one whole year Samar continued before the gates of this castle, without being able to effect any thing against it. At length he himself went the rounds, and took prisoner a certain man, one of the porters of the castle, and brought him into the camp, and said to him : " What kind of person is the king of this place, whose skill and ingenuity are such, that, after trying every stratagem for a whole year, I am not able to take this castle." The man answered, " This king is not by any means a person of sagacity : he is one of very foolish conduct ; whose only employments are drinking of wine and festivity : he is intoxicated day and night : but he has a daughter who manages all these affairs, and takes care of the "easy to defeat the arrangements which women make." Then he asked the man, Whether this daughter of the king had a husband?—the man informed him, that she had not. Samar having bestowed him a present, said, "I have occasion for your services ;

 "you must bear a message from me to this damsel :"—the man consented. Samar then brought out a golden casket, and filled it with rubies, and pearls, and emeralds, and said, "Present
 "these to that damsel ; and tell her, that I have come from "Yemen in search of her ; that the conquest of this kingdom is "not my object, for all Khorasan and Persia already are mine ; “affairs shall be finally settled: and if she should bear unto me

 “a son, the empire of Persia and of Cheenistan shall be his. I “shall first, as an earnest, send her, by night, the chests of “gold; and afterwards espouse her.”

The man having gone into Samarcand the same night, delivered this message to the damsel, who deliberated on it, and then sent back that person to ratify the bargain; and to desire Samar that he should on the following night send the chests of gold into the city, and come there himself in such a manner that no one might perceive it. Samarcand had four gates, and she told him which of these gates should be opened.

تابوت بیاورد و بھر تابوتی دو مرد اندر نشاند با سلاح تھام چون شب تاریکی شد ہر تابوتی بر خری نہاد و بر ہر تابوتی مردی موکل کرد با سلاح تھام مقدار دوازده ہزار مرد بسر قند اندر فرستاد و ایشانرا گفت کہ من سپاہ برنشانم و ہمہ را کرد کرد حصار بیای کنم چون شبہا بشہر اندر شوید سرھا تابوت بکشائید و بیرون ایید و جرسہا بزنید تا من بدانم و ہر مردی را جرسی دادہ بود پس در بکشائید تا من با سپاہ درایم پس چون نیو شب بود رسولی دختر پیامد کہ در شہر بکشاند پس پارہ تابوتہا بفرست سہر تابوتہا بر خران نہاد و خود با سپاہ

On the next day Samar brought out four thousand chests, and put into each two men completely armed; and when the night became dark, he placed each chest on the back of an ass, and to each he appointed a man as a superintendant, likewise completely armed: thus there were to the amount of twelve thousand men. These he sent on into Samarcand, and told them that he would place his army in proper disposition, and station them all round the castle; and he directed them, that when they should be within the city, they might open the lids of the chests, and come out, and ring bells (for he had given a bell to every man), so that he might know how matters went; and then they were to open the gate and let him enter with the army. When it was midnight, a messenger came from the damsel, saying, "The gate of the city "is opened; let some of the chests be now sent." Samar placed the chests on the asses, and took his station with the army. When the chests arrived at the castle, all the men came forth from them, and began to ring their bells, and threw open the gates of the city; and Samar entered with his troops, sword in hand, and they continued to slaughter until it was day; so that blood ran in streams: the king was slain and the damsel taken prisoner; and Samar remained in this city one year. In the book entitled Tesmiah al Boldan, it is mentioned, that in those times Samarcand was called Cheen, and the Cheenians were there; and these people first made the paper of the Cheenians. But Samar called this city after his own name. In Persian Samarkand (with the letter ک), Kand (کند) in the Tartar or Turkish language signifies a city. But when this name was used in Arabick, it became Samarcand سمرقند, (with the letter ذ.) After this Samar led forth his army and proceeded into Turkestan and to Tibbet, &c. &c.

برنشست چون بحصار رسیدند همه از تابوتها بیرون آمدند و جرسها زدن گرفتند و درهای شهر بکشادند و سربا سپاه بشهر اندر آمد و شمشیر اندر نهادند و تا روز می کشتند تا جوی خون برفت و ملک را بکشت و دخترش را بگرفت و یکسال آنجا بهاند و در کتاب تسبیه البلدان است که سمرقند را آن وقت چین خوانندی و چینیان در آنجا ایگاه بودند و کاغذی چینیان بنهادند و سمر آن شهر را بر نام خویش نهاد پارسی سمر کنند و بزبان ترکی شهر کند بود باز چون بتازی کردانی سمرقند بود پس سمر سپاه بکشید و بترکستان اندر شد و تبت

The ancient tradition, here recorded, is unknown to most of the modern Persian writers, or, at least, unnoticed by them *. Emir Rauzi, however, in his excellent geographical compilation, the Hefṭ Aklim, or Seven Climates, informs us that

چنانکه از آن عمارت اثری نگذشت پس از آن بشهر کند

“ or sovereigns of Yemen, destroyed that city, so that no vestige “ remained of its (principal) building, (a castle of immense extent,
“ and said to have been erected by Gurshasp, and repaired, at “ different times, by Lohorasp and Alexander the Great). After “ that it acquired the name of Shamarkand (with the letter ک)
“ which the Arabs, according to their idiom, call Samarcand, “ with ق).”

The same account is given in the Ajaib al boldan and other manuscripts, which agree in assigning to this city the highest degree of antiquity. If the tradition preserved by Tabari is founded in historical fact, we may suppose the gate on which the

* I must also acknowledge that in one copy of Tabari, in my possession, it is not found: but the other two preserve it. From the more ancient of these, transcribed A. D. 1446, this extract has been given.

Hamayritick inscription was fixed, to have been that which the avaricious princess opened to the wily Samar; and it is probable that this inscription commemorated in the language of that Arab, the success of his stratagem, although we only learn from Ebn Haukal that it mentioned the distance from Samar to Samarcand. See page 254—287, and Preface, p. ix, x, xi.

The paper of Samarcand, to the manufacture of which Tabari alludes in the preceding extract, is celebrated by various writers. Although the Arabians do not pretend to have known the invention of it before the eighty-eighth year of the Hegira (A. D. 706), yet the use of paper was universal among the Persians and Chinese in ages of more remote antiquity*. According to Ali ben Mohammed علي بن محمد (quoted by the learned Casiri) the art of making paper was introduced at Samarcand in the thirtieth year of the Hegira (A. D. 650); and he adds,

وليس قبل ذلك يوجد القراطس الا بسمرقند وبالصين

“ heretofore the use of paper was only known at Samarcand and “ among the Chinese.” And Casiri † thinks it most probable that the Arabians learned it from the Persians or Chinese. “ Unde

IN pages 235, 245, 254, the reader is referred for some account of the Samanian Dynasty to this article of the Appendix; and in the Preface also, p. x, a passage is quoted from Abulfeda, which mentions a prince of this family.

The learned D'Herbelot, in his account of the Samanians*, (which he collected from a chronicle, expressly written on the subject of their history, and another excellent work, the Leb-tarikh) notices a difference of calculation in respect to the duration of this dynasty, which commenced in the year of the Hegira 261 (A. D. 374), and terminated in the year 388, (A. D. 998.)

* Bibliot. Orient. Article Samaniah.

I find that, according to the Tarikh Gozideh, it lasted 102 years, 6 months, and 20 days: according to the Tarikh Kipchak Khani, 103 years, 2 months, and 11 days: there are still greater variations in other accounts; but all may be reconciled by observing that some historians do not consider Ismael as king, although he possessed all the power of one, until his government was acknowledged by the Khalif.

The names of the Samanian princes in the order of their succession are here given according to the Tarikh Gozideh, the Khe-lasut al Akhbar of Khondemir, and other manuscripts.

The Tarikh Jehan Ara and some other chronicles add the name of another اسماعيل بن نوح Ismael ben Nouh; but the Samanian Dynasty is generally said to consist of nine princes, those who are above enumerated.

The third, Nasser ben Ahmed, is the person who, according to our author, Ebn Haukal, rebuilt the Gate of Samarcand (see p. 254), and under whom a respectable person at Maweralnahr is said (in p. 235) to have borne arms. This prince is styled, by Abulfeda (see a passage quoted in the Preface, p. x), Mohammed Ebn Locman Ebn Nasir ben Ahmed. And, in the Tarikh Kipchak Khani, I find him entitled, Saied Abou'lhasan Nasser ben Ahmed سعيد ابو الحسن نصر بن احمد. He succeeded his father in the year of the Hegira 301 (A. D. 913), and died Anno flourished in the time of Nasser Ahmed.

Hegira 330, (A. D. 941.) According to Kipchak Khan, the poets

The Cazi Ahmed al Ghuffari, in his Tarikh Jehan Ara, informs

 سمرقند و بعقیده بعضی موضعی c.

"in the geographical work, entitled Moajem al Boldan, it is "observed that Saman was a town belonging to Samarcand, or,
 "according to some, a place in the territories of Balkh, from "which the ancestor of the Samanian family derived his name."
